U.S., RUSSIA TALK CUTBACK

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam met today to discuss the possibility of a mutual reduction of forces in Europe, the U.S. embassy reported.

An embassy spokesman said Beam asked for the meeting in connection with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev's appeal last Friday to start negotiations on reducing troops and armaments in central Europe.

Nixon Gaining In Troop Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration went into the opposition ranks for support, and got it from some former high government officials, in its bid to quash Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield's attempt to legislate a 50-per-cent cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe.

Clark McGregor, President Nixon's chief congressional lobbyist, said Sunday "We have no doubt we'll win" when the Senate votes Wednesday.

State Secretary William Rogers also predicted failure for the Mansfield amendment, which seeks to reduce the U.S. garrison in NATO countries to 150,000. Rogers denounced the proposal as potentially "disastrous to our foreign policy."

However, even though Mansfield's motion is unlikely to get past the House of Representatives, much less the president's desk, the White House obviously views the Senate vote as crucial.

Meanwhile, Nixon announced in Florida that former president Truman had joined the array of past Democratic government officials, including Lyndon B. Johnson, who have rallied ot his position.

Truman was quoted in a statement relayed by his former secretary of state, Dean Acheson, that he "agrees entirely" with Nixon's assertion Saturday that such a cut "would be an error of historic dimension."

ACHESON HEADS DRIVE

Acheson, a prime mover in the early years of the NATO alliance, has headed a drive launched at the White House only last Thursday which so far has enlisted the public support of at least two dozen high officials of the Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Mansfield has refused to yield, although he acknowledged over the weekend "I am beginning to feel like the fellow who only has a sling shot."

Rogers also characterized the Mansfield plan as dangerous, adding that NATO forces now are about in balance with those of the Warsaw pact.

The secretary noted that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhev offered last Friday to begin talks with NATO countries over mutual reductions of armed forces.

Mansfield has urged that Nixon quickly accept Brezhnev's proposal and set a definite date for the talks, preferably in June.

TAX ORDER DEFIED

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Western Mobile Home Parks Association has refused to collect or remit taxes to the provincial government, imposed by the Mobile Home Park Fee Act.

Chuck Rogers, association president, said a telegram was sent today to Premier Bennett and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell 'informing them that association members across B.C. refuse to collect the taxes.

Lunokhod Losing Power

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Lunokhod, the eight-wheeled Russian moonbuggy which has trundled over the lunar Sea of Rains for the last six months, is beginning to lose its power, Pravda reported today.

It indicated the weird-shaped craft, which looks more like a mobile bathtub than the highly complex piece of machinery that it is, has continued working longer than its designers expected, the Communist party newspaper said.

Lunokhod, which has covered more than five miles across the barren soil and rock of the Sea of Rains, is controlled by a team of "drivers" in the space communications centre.

Arrests Hit 110

CAIRO (Reuter) — The authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that 110 persons have been arrested for their alleged involvement in a plot to overthrow President Anwar Sadat. (See background story on Page 36.)

They now are being questioned by the state prosecutor and, well informed sources said, will stand trial.

Last week Sadat announced the resignation of six ministers and several leading politicians and claimed he had foiled an attempted coup.

Sunday he sacked a seventh minister — Communications Minister Kamal Henei Badir, and appointed Abdel Malek Sadd to replace him.

President Sadat has agreed to become supreme head of Egypt's police force, it was announced today.

He already is chief of the armed forces.

Russia Welcomes Trudeaus As 12-Day Tour Under Way

IN MOSCOW at the start of a state visit, Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife are welcomed by Soviet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin and a large crowd after their flight by Canadian Forces jetliner from Ottawa. The tour will last 12 days. (Tass photo released to AP)

Talks Tuesday With Kosygin

Times News Services

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union put out the welcome mat today for Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife Margaret.

The Trudeau party arrived in Moscow today for a 12-day visit to the Soviet Union, the first ever by a Canadian prime minister.

Pravda Puts Him on Front

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, published a picture of Trudeau on its front page this morning and said his visit will give "impetus to mutually beneficial trade, cultural and scientific exchanges between the two countries."

"Canada and the Soviet Union have no reported or unsolved problems between them," Pravda said. "At the same time, there is a range of questions on which it is possible to establish mutually advantageous co-operation . . ."

The arrival at the sundrenched airport was carried out with strict ceremony. There were no public welcoming speeches and the prime minister made no public statement.

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin met Trudeau and his pretty bride at the foot of the ramp of the Canadian Armed Forces Boeing 707. The Soviet premier escorted Trudeau to the waiting guard of honor. The guard commander goosestepped to Trudeau and declared the troops were ready for inspection.

Trudeau, with Kosygin at his side, inspected the three platoons of men.

Motorcycle Escort Provided

After the brief arrival ceremony, Trudeau, his party and the Soviet officials who greeted him got into Soviet limousines for a drive under motorcycle escort to the guest house in Lenin Hills.

Trudeau is expected to begin talks Tuesday with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and other top Soviet leaders. Thursday, he and his wife will set out on a six-city tour that will take them from sunny Central Asia to far northern Siberia.

Trudeau's talks with Kosygin are likely to include the European security conference, a pet project of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies, and also the war in Indochina.

Moscow has made it clear that Canada, a NATO member, would be welcome at a conference on European security.

Brezhnev Urges Arms Talks

Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev took a step toward such a conference Friday by urging negotiations on reducing forces and armaments in central Europe.

On Indochina, Canada has a special interest as a member of the three-nation International Control Commission set up by the 1954 Geneva conference. The Soviet Union and Britain were co-chairmen of the conference.

Trudeau left Ottawa's Uplands airport at 12:05 a.m. EDT today for his 12-day visit to the Soviet Union.

He told reporters he hopes to discuss NATO troop reductions with Soviet leaders.

He told reporters he also would discuss the problems experienced by Jews wishing to emigrate from Russia.

No mention has been made of a meeting between Trudeau and Communist Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev, the most powerful man in Russia, or even if Brezhnev will be in Russia at the time.

During his provincial tour, Trudeau is expected to place heavy emphasis on possibilities for co-operation in the far north, where both the Soviet Union and Canada have vast undeveloped territories.

LET ALLIES PAY is compromise offered by Democratic Senator Birch Bayh to the current row over withdrawing 150,000 U.S. troops from Europe. Bayh suggests that Canada and other NATO allies pick up $400 million in U.S. balance of payment costs in return for U.S. maintaining its troop strength there.

Most U.S. Rails Halted By Striking Signalmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking signalmen closed most of the United States' vast railway system today. President Nixon promptly appealed to Congress to halt the walkout by extending until July the period for negotiations between rail management and the signalmen.

In a message to the Congress, made public at the Florida White House in Key Biscayne, Nixon said:

"A nationwide stoppage of rail service would cause great hardship to all Americans and strike a serious blow at the nation's economy. It is essential that our railroads continue to operate."

The president called on the Senate and House of Representatives to pass promptly a joint resolution that, technically, would have the effect of extending until July 1 the present contract between the rail industry and the signalmen.

Nixon said Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson would work during that period toward promoting a voluntary settlement. In the absence of a negotiated agreement, he called on Hodgson "to report to me and the Congress by June 21."

LIST PRIORITIES

Pending any congressional action to halt the rail strike, Nixon also signed an executive order listing priorities "as guidance and instructions to federal agencies, to shippers and to carriers" on what goods should be shipped first. These included foods, drugs and medical supplies, fuels needed for electric power production and some categories of mail.

Congress had made no special plans to handle the strike before it recessed for the weekend, and it was an open question how soon any legislation could be passed. It took a midnight session to put a stop to a nationwide walkout by four other unions last December. The walkout lasted only one day.

Today's strike by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen is the fourth nationwide rail walkout in 50 years. Although the 13,000 signalmen represent only two per cent of all rail workers, other large unions appeared to be refusing to cross their picket lines as they spread across the country, starting at 6 a.m. in each time zone.

First to feel the strike were morning rail commuters in New York, Chicago and other large cities. New York's state-owned Long Island Rail Road was still running because it bargains locally, but all other commuter and intercity passenger trains were affected, along with freight service.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., where President Nixon was winding up a weekend sojourn, White House sources said Labor Secretary James Hodgson was preparing legislation to send to Congress, probably by the end of the day.

There were spotty reports of some trains operating despite the strike. Chicago's South Shore and South Bend Rail Road carrying 6,000 daily commuters in Chicago and Northern Indiana, was running because its signalmen belong to a different union.

Supervisory personnel were being used to move livestock and perishable items, some railways reported.

The strike came despite government efforts to mediate a settlement between the union and the National Rail-

60,000 SIGNATURES PROTEST TANKER PLAN

TORONTO (CP)—Two Vancouver women have collected more than 60,000 signatures on a petition urging federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis and the cabinet to oppose the proposed use of tankers to carry Alaskan oil off the British Columbia coast.

Alice Coppard, a 64-year-old grandmother, and Gwen Mellard, 53, said in an interview here Saturday an oil spill along the coast would be "catastrophic."

The two arrived here in the back of a pick-up truck, hitchhiking 2,200 miles in 12 days.

Prayer Procession Tries to Halt Lava

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuter) — The inhabitants of a small but prosperous village situated on the slopes of Mount Etna hastily completed plans today for a religious procession as a river of red hot lava crept relentlessly down toward their homes.

Higher up the slopes, 10 peasant huts were in more immediate danger from the lava flow which is engulfing everything in its way.

The 3,500 inhabitants of the village of St. Alfio plan a procession around the outskirts with relics of their saints.

S. Alfio could be hit some time Tuesday, but authorities were hoping the fiery river of destruction would stop short and said they had not yet drawn up evacuation plans.

Among the people of St. Alfio, the mood was grim. Knowing that the lava already has destroyed rich farming land, vineyards, orchards and more than a dozen houses, they were filled with fear—but there was no panic.

Almost half the population crammed into the church Sunday night to hear the local bishop, Msgr. Pasquale Bacile, say mass and preach a sermon of encouragement.

The planned procession is a repeat of a similar ceremony in 1928, when a lava flow also threatened the village.

On that occasion the lava just missed St. Alfio.

Firemen spent the weekend emptying water tanks in the path of the lava to cool it as more than 20,000 persons crowded in to get a close look.

Peasants living on Mount Etna were reported still selling their land at rock-bottom prices to speculators counting on government compensation.

Doctors 'Demoralized' Over Billing Charges

TORONTO (CP) — The chief of staff of a Toronto hospital says doctors are becoming "seriously demoralized" by accusations against them of unethical billing practices.

"No matter how hard doctors try to do their jobs or how well they do them, they are getting pushed into a corner about the money they make," said Dr. Gerald Blanchet of Queensway General in a weekend interview.

He was reacting to criticisms by Ontario Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence last week that the medical profession was inadequately controlling a minority of doctors who are collecting more than they should under the provincial health insurance scheme.

Said Dr. Blanchet:

"Let's take that great dramatic figure of $100,000 a year that so many doctors are supposed to be making. In the first place, only a surgeon working 70 gruelling hours a week could get close to that figure."

He said the average salary of a doctor in Ontario is about $25,000 a year.

BY GUNMEN IN TURKEY

Eichmann Prosecutor Kidnapped

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Five gunmen today ambushed and kidnapped Israeli consul-general Ephraim Elrom, who a decade ago directed the prosecution investigation of Nazi mass murderer Adolf Eichmann, army officials said.

They said the gunmen forced their way into Elrom's apartment house, tied up the hall porter and at least eight other persons.

★ ★ ★

The gunmen said they were members of the Turkish People's Liberation Army, but did not say why they were kidnapping Elrom.

When Elrom arrived for lunch, the gunmen, one of them posing as a porter, grabbed and tied up the diplomat. Elrom personally interrogated Eichmann before the SS lieutenant-colonel's 1961 trial in Israel for his part in the Second World War mass murder of millions of Jews.

Army officials said Elrom fought the gunmen and shouted for help for several minutes.

The gunmen managed to wrestle him into a waiting automobile bearing Ankara licence plates and the car sped away from the apartment house in the centre of Istanbul.

Jewish sources in Istanbul said Elrom was one of the Israeli agents who abducted Eichmann in Argentina.

In London, Israeli sources said Elrom, then named Hofsteter, ran the police investigation of Eichmann who was hanged after conviction.

. . . RUSSIA WELCOMES TRUDEAUS

Canadian officials have in the past expresssed the view that their country has much to learn from Russia in Arctic development.

Trudeau will be the first foreign leader ever to visit Norilsk, the most northerly city in Siberia and a big centre for mining platinum and uranium. From Norilsk, he will fly to another arctic city, Murmansk on the northern part of the Kola Peninsula.

He also is expected to meet scientists specializing in the Arctic when he goes to Leningrad, the last of the provincial cities he will visit.

The first stop on the tour will be Kiev, capital of the Ukraine. This second most populous of the 15 Soviet Republics has close ties with Canada through the many Ukrainian emigres living there.

May 22, he and his wife will fly on to Tashkent, the main city of Soviet Central Asia. From there they will make a brief trip to Samarkand, capital of the conqueror Tamerlane in the 14th century.

From Tashkent, they go to Norilsk May 24 and then on to Murmansk the following day. They fly southward again May 27 to Leningrad and leave for home from there the next day.

Hodgson, who announced at 1:30 a.m. that talks had collapsed and the union would go through with its strike threat, said the department would continue efforts to mediate. No further bargaining sessions were scheduled, however.

In Montreal, CP Rail said the strike had no effect on its passenger or freight traffic and it expects to continue operating normally.

Officials of the CNR, which has more extensive U.S. operations, were meeting to study the situation.

A CP Rail spokesman noted that the only section of CPR track involved was in Maine, on the line running between Montreal and Saint John, N.B.

"We expect to continue operations on this line, using supervisory personnel if necessary," the spokesman said.

CP Rail was continuing to ship freight to U.S. railways, although there was no guarantee such freight would be handled on arrival at interchange points.

"In this case," the spokesman said, "it's up to the shipper to make a decision."

ALGONQUIN PARK FIRE CONTAINED

TORONTO (CP) — Firefighters appeared to be winning their fight today against an 800-acre blaze on the northwestern boundary of Algonquin Park, a spokesman for the Ontario department of lands and forests said.

He said the fire, one of more than 60 that broke out in Ontario during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. Sunday, was being contained but the struggle was far from over.

Most of the province's central portion still faced high fire-hazard ratings today, however, and little rain was expected.

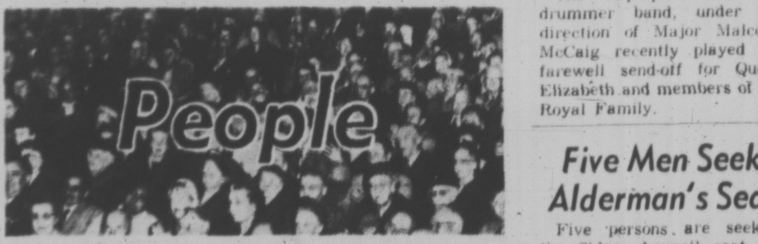
Ballet Cancelled

LONDON (Reuter) — The world-famous London Festival Ballet has cancelled a week-long engagement in Belfast because most of the dancers are afraid to perform in the troubled Northern Ireland capital.



NEW YORK — A 26-year-old rock hound has dug up from a mine in North Carolina what is described as the largest emerald ever found in North America. At a weekend news conference at Tiffany and Co., Wayne Anthony of Lincolnton, N.C., said he found the emerald just two feet below the surface in a Hiddenite, N.C., mine in the North Carolina foothills last August. "I picked it up and rubbed the end of it, I saw sun coming through." The emerald crystal weighed 59 carats. Anthony sold it locally for $700 to an unidentified buyer, who had the stone cut, producing a 13.14-carat emerald worth $100,000.

BAYEUX, France — A grief-stricken bride and groom spent the first day of their honeymoon Sunday identifiying bodies of 13 friends and relatives who died when the floor of their reception hall collapsed Saturday night, plunging wedding guests into a deep underground well. Only hours after exchanging vows, Eugene and Francoise Fabien fought back tears as they helped police identify those who were drowned. One victim was Francoise's grandmother. Another was a close friend, herself a bride of only three weeks.

LONDON — The envelope was marked simply "Elizabeth" — and to surprised post office employees that could mean only one person. Dutifully they had it delivered to Buckingham Palace where it was put in with Queen Elizabeth's personal mail. But the Elizabeth referred to on the envelope was Elizabeth Boulter of Birmingham, a lawyer's clerk. The letter was an inter-office memo, accidentally swept into a batch of outgoing mail. Miss Boulter was somewhat surprised Friday when her memo turned up in an elegant envelope bearing the royal crest with a printed slip reading "With the compliments of Her Majesty's private secretary." Underneath a palace official had written: "Sent here in error."

CLAYTON, Mo. — Two identification cards and a cheque handed cashier Yvonne Beede, 23, at a men's store rang a bell. Her name appeared on the cheque along with two identification cards in her wallet stolen a week earlier. As Miss Beede stalled for time, police moved in and arrested Marie Fultz, 22, on charges of forgery.

LOS ANGELES — Donald Franklin Duncan, 78, a self-educated businessman who made the yo-yo a million-dollar seller and established the parking meter in cities, has died. A former candy salesman who never went past the eighth grade, Duncan bought the rights to the parking meter in 1935 and promoted it in cities as a simple way of raising revenue. Before the parking meter, Duncan founded Duncan Yo-Yo in 1928 and took a 1,000-year-old toy and made it into a commercial success.

Oil Need Surmounts Ecology

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — U.S. Interior Secretary Rogers Morton told a group of oilmen Saturday there are times when the need for oil should surmount ecological concern.

"Ecology is the most important thing in the world until the lights go out," Morton told delegates to the 16th International Petroleum Exposition.

"I am very understanding, but not altogether sympathetic, to the oil industry's beliefs that outspoken conservationists are contributing to a worldwide energy shortage. There are, however, some people expressing totally unrealistic opposition to progress.

"We want to encourage the oil industry to continue to perfect techniques to make the processing of oil and gas safer from the environmental point of view.

"But to go so far as to shut this important source of energy down or restrict it from developing would be so unrealistic that it would become an Alice-in-Wonderland type of rhetoric."

RUIN WILDERNESS

The central ecological issue in the U.S. is the trans-Alaskan pipeline designed to move oil from the rich fields of Alaska's North Slope. Ecologists fear construction of the pipeline would ruin one of the nation's few remaining wildernesses.

British Columbians fear danger of oilspills from heavy tanker traffic between Alaska and refineries in the U.S. northwest.

Morton said there was little hope for a settlement on the pipeline question before September.

Morton said he had encouraged the oil industry to consider an alternative, Canadian route, for the pipeline, but said he realized such a pipeline would be twice as expensive and take twice as long to build.

Arbitration Dispute

REGINA POLICE HINT AT WALK-OUT

REGINA (CP) — The Regina City Policemen's Association has hinted that its members might walk off the job if the court of appeal rules in the city's favor in a dispute over an arbitration award giving policemen wage increases averaging 14.6 per cent for 1970.

City council voted Tuesday to appeal a ruling handed down last week by the court of Queen's Bench ordering the city to honor the award and that appeal is expected to be launched early this week.

In a news release, Detective Selmer Johnson said council has apparently not considered the consequences if it should succeed in upsetting the award.

"The policemen and the city would then be back in dispute. Undoubtedly an application would have to be made to bring the problem under the Essential Services Act."

Detective Johnson said the union would not negotiate for less than the 14.6 per cent average granted it by the arbitration board so there probably would have to be a walkout.

In that case, the provincial government likely would impose the Essential Services Emergency Act and order both parties to submit to binding arbitration.

Detective Johnson said council has shown a complete lack of integrity and good faith.

Crusading for Canada

University Campaign Launched

MONTREAL (CP) — Foreign domination of Canadian universities is a reality and those who try to change the situation become unpopular, about 100 professors and students agreed at a weekend meeting.

Delegates from across the country who attended the national symposium on the Canadian university approved a campaign to limit the number of foreign academics in a university to 15 per cent. Canadian citizenship would be a requirement for department heads.

They also approved resolutions calling for study of the Canadianization of libraries on foreign academics in fields where Canadians are employed or likely to be unemployed.

•

Prof. Henry Beissel of Sir George Williams University in Montreal, the retiring chairman of the National Committee for the Canadianization of the Canadian University, said only eight of 123 presidents of Canadian universities and colleges replied to invitations to the symposium.

But despite small attendance, the symposium organized by the committee had "moved the cause of Canadianization several steps forward."

MODERATES HIT TOO

Novelist Hugh MacLennan and historian Michel Brunet told the delegates that Canadian nationalists are called narrow minded and chauvinistic no matter how moderate their stance.

And Prof. Alec Lucas of McGill University said during a round-table discussion, "Anti-Americanism' and even anti-intellectualism are charges laid against academic nationalists."

While delegates met Friday, someone pasted Canadian flags on Loyola College walls. The maple leaf in the flags was replaced by a swastika.

Max Von Zur Muehlen of the Economic Council of Canada told the symposium that Canada is self sufficient in PhDs and will be until at least 1975.

Referring to his recent study on university education in the field of business administration, he said Canada produced about 2,000 PhDs this year.

There will be approximately 1,200 to 1,500 openings for them in universities, he said.

77 PER CENT ALIENS

Prof. Beissel said federal manpower department statistics for 1969 showed that 77 per cent of 3,087 faculty members hired in Canadian universities were non-Canadians.

Many Canadian academics cannot work in this country's universities because of the influx of foreign academics, he added.

He cited the case of Mrs. K. J. Cottum, highest-ranking graduate in arts from Sir George Williams University in 1964, who received a PhD from the university of Toronto. She now is an insurance adjustor, because she can't find a job in a Canadian university.

An American was hired for a recent position in her field at the University of Toronto, Prof. Beissel said.

Delegates had complaints about departments favoring Germans and Scots as well as Americans over Canadians.

George Haggar, political scientist at the University of Waterloo said that one crucial fight is to remove the stranglehold that non-Canadian department heads have in hiring.

•

"Quite often scholarship, experience and nationality don't enter into an appointment," he said. "Too many appointments are made strictly on a personal basis for personal reasons."

Delegates and speakers also agreed that students at Canadian universities had a hard time finding courses about Canada.

Prof. Alec Lucas of McGill university said a study of 27 Canadian universities for the current year revealed that of 1,119 courses in literature, only 59 centred on Canadian literature while 94 were on American.

Prof. Lynn Trainor of the University of Toronto said Canadian universities are not meeting a responsibility to develop technology to cope with specific Canadian problems. Canadians had far too little knowledge of such important national fields as Arctic development and oceanography.

Prof. Michel Brunet of the University of Montreal said foreign domination of Canadian universities had contributed to the communications break-down between Quebec and Canada.

Judgments that Quebec would be absorbed into a Canadian "melting pot" and the labelling of Quebec as a "folk society" had been formulated in English-Canadian universities by academics schooled in American models, he said.

IRA Man Killed

BELFAST (AP) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army acknowledged today a man killed by British troops in a gunfight Saturday night was one of their lieutenants.

The IRA also said its three-man squad engaged in the shooting had ambushed the jeep patrol of the Royal Highland Fusiliers. One soldier was wounded seriously in the abdomen and another shot in the arm.

The open declaration amounted to a departure from usual IRA tactics which depend on hit-run attacks and anonymity.

The latest outbreak of violence cast some gloom over the Ulster '71 festival organized to attract tourists. The London festival ballet cancelled a week-long performance of Sleeping Beauty because of the precarious situation and also the receipt of threatening letters.

Scotland Yard opened up an inquiry into letters sent to Beryl Grey, the artistic director. A spokesman for the ballet said: "The situation in Belfast is a little precarious and the board have been watching it very carefully. The anonymous letters were the last straw."

The economy Corolla.
What you don't get you don't really need.

No fish tails, no racing stripes, no wind spoilers. There are lots of things you don't get with the Corolla 1200. Like parking problems and speeding tickets and great big monthly payments. What you do get is where you're going. And for some people that's enough.

Instead of the windswept speed machine that always gets the girl, some people like the classic, superbly built Corolla that gets up to 35 miles per gallon. They don't mind not being able to keep up with the big guys. They just want to keep up with the traffic. And the payments.

So instead of the usual long list of options, they prefer our unusually long list of standard equipment.

It includes 73 hp, front disc brakes, a 4-speed synchromesh transmission, (the automatic is optional) an electric rear window defroster, fully reclining front bucket seats, and so on.

Some people feel it's all you need to get around. And we're glad of that. Because it's all we could get into one car for under $2,000.*

Into the Wild Red Yonder

THE RELATIVELY BRIEF ERA of Mr. Khrushchev's personal diplomacy ended with his sudden and apparently involuntary retirement. Today, with the personality cult in disfavor — even though Josef Stalin has been restored to the honor rolls of Soviet Communism — the Brezhnev-Kosygin partnership makes personal diplomacy a more difficult feat. The summit talks of Prime Minister Trudeau in Moscow this week, therefore, may prove to be less than what might be desired by a Canadian government leader with considerable diplomatic ice to break.

There should be a great deal to talk about in the course of Mr. Trudeau's visit, but whether it will get talked about is another question. The Far North would be a natural topic. Russia has made great strides in development of its Arctic regions and Canada could learn much from the techniques which the Russians have used in creating communities far north of the usual latitudes. Canada, on the other hand, has mechanical equipment and construction skills in which Moscow may be interested.

When Mr. Trudeau called off arrangements for his earlier visit last fall there had been considerable criticism of Russia regarding the activities of Soviet fishing boats off our West coast. That matter was amicably decided through talks in Ottawa, but today there are difficulties on the East Coast for almost the same reasons. Mr. Trudeau may be able to persuade the Russians to halt the risk of fishing some species to extinction through the use of electronic equipment and intensive netting.

Canada's recent exchange of diplomats with Peking placed Moscow in a slight quandary. While obliged to hail a Western recognition of Communist China, Russia could also view the move as a significant diplomatic gesture toward a country with which the Soviet Union has almost been at war on several occasions in the past year or more. Canada's lenient attitude toward the Vietnam war could also raise a few sharp remarks in the Kremlin when Mr. Trudeau goes there. And our whole relationship to the United States could provide hours of interesting dialogue.

Little of these possible events will be made public, however. What will emerge first in the news, no doubt, will be the average Russian's attitude toward a visiting government leader whose chief stock in trade is his personality with or without a cult. But Mr. Trudeau's exposure to the populace may be rare and fleeting. The whole trip is much of an unknown quantity — a normal situation where Russia is concerned.

A Confederation of Fences?

FEDERAL FINANCE MINISTER Benson's attempt to place some of the blame for the continuing inflation on some of the provinces is part of the common pattern of considering Canada as congeries of provincial economic units rather than an integrated whole. The "chicken and egg war" between Ontario and Quebec is another instance of this disturbing pattern as are the recent remarks of high Ontario officials. The prime minister's repeated references to a "Canadian common market" in the Commons recently is also a revealing line of thought.

Section 121 of the BNA Act sets forth the position regarding interprovincial trade at the time of Confederation: "All articles of the growth, produce, or manufacture of any one of the Provinces shall . . . be admitted free into each of the other Provinces." This clearly rules out inter-provincial tariffs. But it could also be read as an injunction against any other form of trade impediment between the provinces — a point now being considered by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Whatever the letter of the 1867 compact, the spirit which moved the Colonies to unite included the desire to promote unhindered movement of items of trade in order to lay a practical foundation for the Canadian union. It is shocking to think Canadians since Macdonald's day have fallen short of this criterion of national unity.

'Net Social Benefit'

THE PRIME MINISTER'S REmarks in Vancouver May 1 on the desirability of adopting "net social benefit" instead of gross national product as an indicator of national vigor was quickly taken up in the House of Commons. The Member for Edmonton West, the Hon. Marcel Lambert, asked the Minister of Trade, Mr. Jean-Luc Pepin, if the Dominion Bureau of Statistics had "undertaken a study of its efficacy as a measure of economic progress," and also if the concept had been referred to the Economic Council of Canada "as a useful tool."

Mr. Pepin replied: ". . . this is a new concept. Since the Bureau of Statistics is interested in moving with the times, I presume they will study it and try to find out how it can be defined in statistical terms." To further questioning the minister replied: ". . . I will try and satisfy my curiosity and that of my hon. friend too."

In his speech Mr. Trudeau had spoken of net social benefit as comparable to the accounting device of including depletion for buildings and machinery when calculating net gain. Government, he said, should take note of resource exhaustion, pollution and the social cost of overcrowding, to come up with the novel way of appraising a nation's economic stature.

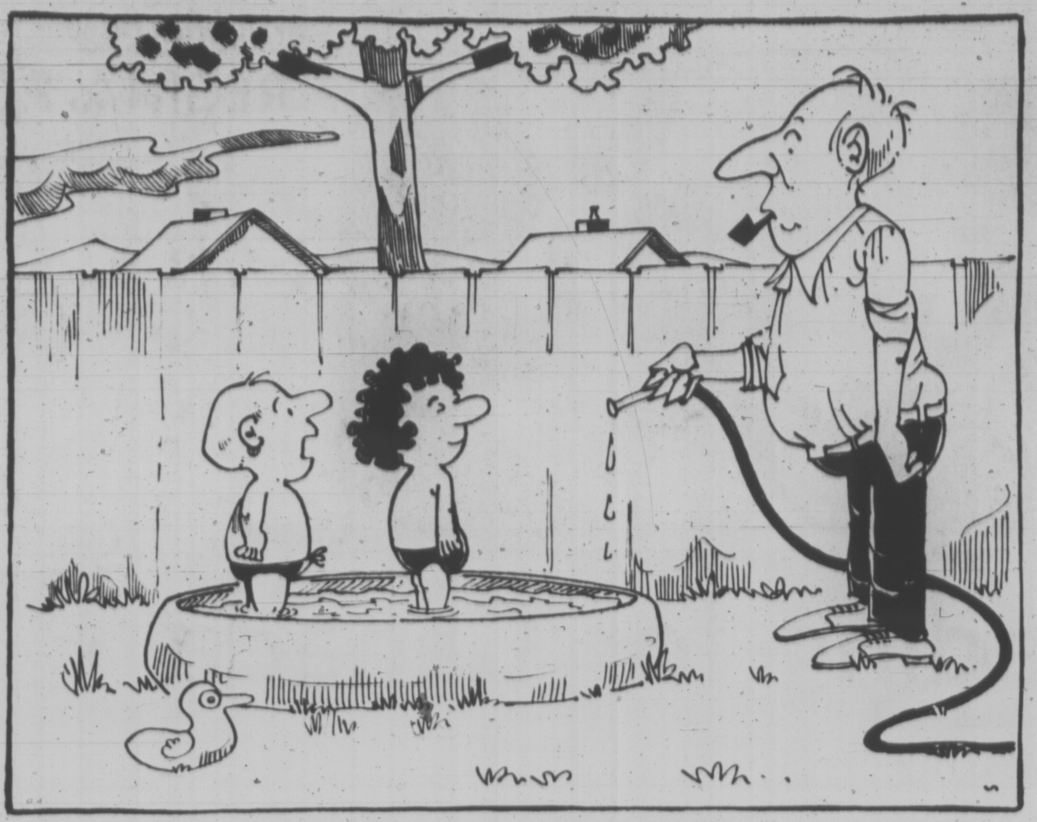
"Net social benefit" is a challenging concept which should lend itself to concrete translation. As a practical and more accurate way to measure social progress it will give clout to the "quality of life" debate.

Is This Sport?

WHEN A TEAM DEFAULTS its incomplete final series for the Eastern Canadian junior hockey championship because it fears physical violence from hometown supporters if it returns to its rival's arena, the conflict loses all contact with sport and becomes a significant social problem. This suggests hoodlumism on a national plane and calls for official investigation.

Because hockey is a high-speed, body-contact activity, creating unusually high tensions, it rouses tempers among some players and can degenerate into brawling. The rules set penalties for such behavior and conventional law has its own means of restraining physical assault in the stands.

We hear periodically of maimings and even manslaughter among spectators at soccer games in some countries. Is hockey heading along the same road? If it is, how much blame should be attached to the stars on whom youngsters pattern themselves — those stars who swing sticks and throw punches at one another. Are such players inviting the public to come to see blood flow?



". . . aren't you going to put any garbage or oil in with it . . .?

GALBRAITH vs. SMITH

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

An Agonizing Choice—But Soon

RATHER breathlessly, like a man who has just discovered a new continent or undergone a profound religious experience, President Nixon announced recently that he had become an economic Keynesian. But as Professor John Kenneth Galbraith remarked a few days ago, the presidential conversion is too late. It appears when the world has passed beyond the age of Maynard Keynes into another age which no one yet understands — no one, that is to say, except Dr. Galbraith, who understands everything and infuriates everybody.

Hutchison

He is infuriating not only because he is so often right. Certainly he is right in saying that the governments of the Western world are fighting the last economic war and losing the present one. That is why the richest and supposedly the most intelligent nations find themselves in such a dreadful mess.

The age of Keynes and the great depression produced a remarkable discovery of the obvious — namely that countries with abundant natural wealth need not be poor and hungry if they have the sense to manage their medium of exchange properly.

According to the Keynesian formula, a currency inflated during bad times to create sufficient public purchasing power would be deflated in boom times to maintain both perpetual prosperity and the value of money. Unfortunately, as we can see now, Keynes overlooked two disagreeable facts.

Pumping Up

He failed to foresee that most democratic governments would happily pump up the currency — always an easy and popular exercise — but would lack the courage to relax the pressure short of an explosion.

He also assumed that his system would operate in a free market where competition fixed production costs and prices automatically. But this market has been drastically changed, losing much of its old flexibility, by the strength of giant corporations and the even greater strength of giant labor unions. Living in comfortable symbiosis, the giants (with the co-operation of government) have broken the smooth rhythm of Keynes and produced the new age of perpetual inflation, accompanied, against all his prophecy, by high unemployment.

Dr. Galbraith may not have been the first to understand this weird phenomenon but he was the first to explain it in understandable terms. If he had stopped with explanation and diagnosis he might have been only an author of provocative books, a harmless heretic, the village cutup of Harvard Yard. Instead, he proposed a remedy and went into politics — not as a candidate who couldn't be elected anyway but as the economic philosopher, propagandist and idea man of the New Democratic Party's left wing.

No Escape for Canada

All this would be of no concern to us in Canada if we could escape the post-Keynesian age and the Galbraithian method of dealing with it. Alas, there is no escape. And right now in Ottawa Dr. Galbraith is such a penetrating presence that Dr. Arthur Smith, chairman of the Economic Council of Canada feels obliged to repudiate his heresy before it destroys our economic system.

Dr. Galbraith's remedy for the ills of the system is to control the corporate and labor giants not by "hot air," as he said recently, but by law. Dr. Smith rejects any such controls as idiotic and suicidal. He says the government should not attempt to restrain profits, wages and prices even by voluntary means but should pump the economy up again and let it behave as it pleases, no matter what the inflationary cost may be.

Using Euclid's method of reductio ad absurdum, Dr. Smith poses a particularly absurd proposition. As reported by the Canadian Press, he asks how the government could control the price of a can of mushroom soup without regulating the exact number of mushrooms in it. Since this is impossible, so is the whole theory of direct controls. We can do nothing about inflation and, like a man with some painful fever, we must wait for it to pass, hoping that it won't kill us in the meantime.

In fact Dr. Galbraith has never proposed the imaginary system passionately denounced by Dr. Smith. He is not that crazy. Having himself administered the wartime price controls of the United States, Dr. Galbraith knows, perhaps better than Dr. Smith, that they cannot be enforced in peacetime. All he has proposed is that wage increases should not exceed the growth in output per man-hours of work and that profits as a percentage of business turnover should not exceed the historic average.

Like the fat boy in the Pickwick Papers, Dr. Smith tries to make the government's flesh creep with the horror of doing anything about inflation, which, he things, is preferable to the alternative of depression. Thus posed, the question answers itself, but are these the only alternatives?

Must we follow Euclid to the ultimate absurdity on one side or the other — the absurdity of completely unworkable controls over mushroom soup and everything else or the absuridty of destroying our money in the name of freedom? Is there no middle way?

Dr. Galbraith thinks there is. So does a highly practical Canadian politician, Paul Hellyer, from whom more will be heard. So also does Arnold Toynbee, a thinker and historian still more eminent, who says that the giants of capital and labor will soon control us all if we don't control them.

After attempting the orthodox Keynesian remedy of deflation and seeing it fail, the Canadian government must choose between the alternatives roughly personalized by Dr. Smith and Dr. Galbraith. Or else it can do nothing and hope that a miriacle will rescue it, which is the most unlikely of all the alternatives. A choice of any sort must be agonizing, but one doubts that it can be postponed much longer.

Letters

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Losing Money?

It seems strange to me that the owners of the Sandringham Private Hospital maintain that they are losing money and therefore cannot sign a contract with the union as it would involve them in additional losses. However, other private hospitals in Victoria have signed such contracts and apparently are prospering or I feel sure they would close their doors.

I do not believe that a profit should accrue from any hospital or in fact from any institution dedicated to the health of the people.—M. P. B. Wrixon, 1680 Poplar.

Cycling Hazards

A quip appeared recently in the local press about a fellow who bought a bike to ride for his health but collapsed from car fumes while on the road. It is no joke. I know, because it almost happened to me.

Doctors told me to lose weight by exercise. I bought a bike and took a short trip on Beach Drive last summer, which put me in bed for ten days with car-fume poisoning. In view of the present wave of cycling popularity (particularly with the younger riders, innocent of this serious health hazard) a strong warning should be issued to riders to keep off all main car routes.—Clarence Goode, 1986 St. Ann.

A Cup to be Proud of

Cups and trophies generally are pretty familiar things to most people, especially those with children who are, or have been, active in any sport. Some are steeped in history and are known throughout the continent, while others are significant only to a certain area. Almost all are emblematic of a skill brought to a peak by mental or physical exertion.

I have two boys in minor sports and one of them received a cup a few days ago that not only made me sit up and take notice (as all fathers would) but I found it to be very intriguing.

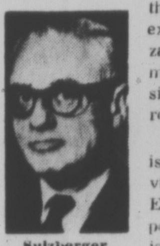
His team (Esquimalt) won the Greater Victoria novice lacrosse championship last year (1970) and it is his turn to keep the cup for two weeks. Of course he was tremendously excited. Many fathers and mothers may be interested to know that this cup will be 50 years old next year. It was presented originally by the Gyro Club of Victoria as the "Gyro Challenge Cup for Lacrosse Competition in Victoria Public Schools" in 1922, and was won by Esquimalt School that first year. — E. Witt, 667 Fernhill.

FROM TANANARIVE

By C. L. SULZBERGER

Peking's 'Sleepers' Waiting in Madagascar

THE word "sleeper" can mean railroad tie and can also be used to denote a spy or foreign agent like Kim Philby, who buries himself in harmless surroundings and doesn't begin to exercise his assigned functions for years. China employs both varieties of sleepers in its present policy along the Eastern shores of Africa. In 1964 Peking made its first big play for the area and it was a flop. Chou En-lai toured the continent and thought he had discovered "an excellent revolutionary situation." But nothing singular happened except a series of quiet nonrevolutionary coups d'etat. China itself soon became absorbed in the nightmare of its Cultural Revolution.



Sulzberger

All that is over. An outward-looking Peking policy once agin contemplates this region but, no longer trying to force it to choose between Russia's Communism of the relatively rich and China's Communism of the destitute, focuses instead on anti-white racism and imperialist bogeymen.

The Chinese haven't forgotten that their own conquest by European imperialists was facilitated by the construction of railways along which were dotted army or marine garrisons. This memory cannot but have something to do with Peking's current project to build the Tanzam line across East Africa, extending wooden sleepers from Tanzania's Indian Ocean Coast to the copper mines of Zambia while leaving subversion or intelligence outposts along the route.

The other, or human, kind of sleeper is notable in Madagascar, which is a vital key to the Indian Ocean and the East African Coast. Here the Chinese population is officially listed as 9,000 but is almost three times that large. Most of it sends remittances to China regularly and some frequently visit their ancestral Canton Province. Many have married Malagasy and have been assigned to long-range penetration jobs as sleepers.

Hostile Host

Madagascar itself recognizes Taiwan's regime. Foreign Minister Rabemananjara told me: "We will not recognize Peking no matter what you Americans do. We don't want them messing around here. Their propaganda is hostile and they seek to foment trouble among our students.

"Our government is Western-oriented and we naturally want friendship with our neighbors, South Africa (although we have no diplomatic relations) and Portugal (through Mozambique). So the Chinese call us imperialists; but they are the biggest demagogues on earth. They promise everyone will be rich and happy but this only takes in the ignorant."

A professed Maoist named Monja Jaona recently led an uprising to unbalance this policy and was captured by the authorities April 23. His insurrection, in the impoverished southern Tulear Province, is linked to Peking by Presi-Tsiranana, who told me Jona saw Mao Tse-tung last autumn.

Disastrous Rebellion

The rebellion, obviously stimulated by local misery, was a disaster. It was spearheaded by a pro-Chinese opposition party called Monima, whose guerrillas were largely armed with spears and slingshots. The French, who have a naval base and three regiments here, secretly flew Malagasy armed gendarmes to the rebellious area. The uprising was wiped out with 47 dead and more than 1,000 prisoners.

Many prisoners have been induced to talk and they tell the same tale: that they had been promised Chinese support. They got some funds but no weapons. A pro-Peking newspaper, Tolna, was banned after the revolt. Propaganda had assured administrative posts to insurrectional leaders and the bounteous guarantee of $15 monthly to participants.

This sad act in the drama is now virtually over although some guerrillas are holding out, armed with weapons captured from outnumbered gendarmerie stations. But the government, quietly abetted by the French, has things in hand.

Dormant

The disturbing aspect, however, is that the human sleepers still quietly remain dormant. A local Chinese leader, Chen Seng, was in Peking some months ago. Chinese penetration is persistently facilitated by the purchase of the documents of any conveniently placed minority Chinaman who dies, these documents being turned over to agents. Moreover, a large North Vietnamese colony here works in tandem with Peking.

Thus the sleeping game goes on. The Chinese are famous for their patient sense of time. There is no doubt what use they ultimately hope to make of it along the western border of the Indian Ocean as the wooden sleepers extend ever deeper into Africa's heart. Meanwhile the human sleepers lie invisibly low in Madagascar.

Looking Back

From the Times of May 17, 1911:

The hoardings throughout the city are placarded with picturesque notices of the race meeting which is billed to commence on Saturday, and the street cars bear on their fenders a legend to a similar effect in large and lurid type, yet the question whether the race meet will actually take place is one that depends upon legal argument to be decided in Vancouver tomorrow, there being no judge at the Supreme Court in Victoria this week.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

It Doesn't Run With Pack

By ALFRED FRIENDLY

LONDON — "Altogether a strange by-product of the Manchester cotton trade," the historian A. J. P. Taylor wrote the other day about the Guardian, 150 years old this month.

Indeed so. It had a prematurely senile infancy. It opposed restrictions on hours of labor, was categorized, probably correctly, as "the cotton lords' bible" and as "the foul prostitute and dirty parasite of the worst portion of the mill owners." It was blind to what was happening in 1848. It was fat and cautiously whiggish.

But that was the first Manchester Guardian, from its birth to 1871. Then came the editorship of the legendary C. P. Scott, who bought control from descendants of its founders in 1905 and became both proprietor and editor. He ruled it until 1929, when he was 82, a reign of 43 years. The feat remains unparalleled in the history of editorial longevity, but even more so in the history of editorial radicalism.

Views Important

"Comment is free, but facts are sacred," he said, coining the paper's motto. But it was not so. Scott cared almost nothing for news and, in terms of news, the Manchester Guardian was probably a very bad paper. Scott cared for views. He endowed his paper with what was and remains today its greatest editorial asset: it does not run with the pack.

In not doing so, it has usually been right, and right first crack out of the box.

Almost alone, it opposed the Boer War (two of its correspondents were jailed or deported from South Africa in governmental retaliation).

It fought earnestly for home rule for Ireland when the idea was least popular. It opposed allied intervention in Russia in 1919 (and had a reporter shanghaied by the Royal Navy in consequence).

Completely alone, it opposed Britain's 1956 Suez venture (and lost a devastingly large number of readers, something it could not afford, money-loser that it was—and still is, to the tune of $2,500,000 a year).

And always the editor was backed by the owner. The present editor, Alastair Heatherington, recounted that the Suez crisis came just after he had been given the job and that the paper's policy on the issue was exceedingly unpopular with some of the paper's readers and it was losing sales at an alarming rate.

The then and present publisher, Laurence Scott, grandson of C.P., came to Heatherington and said: "You know what's happening. Your policy is going to cost us a great deal. But if you believe it is right, stick to your guns. Don't be put off. We shall back you to the limit of our ability."

Better Than Ever

The Guardian today, 150 years on, is better than ever. Happily, it is being received as such in a way that counts. Its average daily circulation in April was 330,518, up 37,097 from April last year. Some day, one dares hope, it will no longer have to be subsidized by the money-making Manchester Evening News, under the same ownership of the Scotts.

The mystery remains, however, why it and The Times of London, as great in its way, as a paper of record, as the Guardian is in its, should have such low circulation when they, like the other British national papers, can lay down a copy on the breakfast table of almost everyone of the 56 million Britishmen from Land's End to John O'Groats.

The "popular" papers have circulations running to the 3 and 4 millions. Of the "heavies," the Telegraph, which carries the most news, sells 1.4 million copies. But the Times, at 375,000, is only marginally ahead of the Guardian and their circulation figures are pitiful compared with the theoretical potential.

There can be only one explanation: If, as some British journalists contend, American newspapers are the worst in the world, British circulation figures show that British newspaper readers have the lowest taste in the world.

But circulation figures are no measure of influence in Britain. The Guardian, moving its main editorial functions to London and dropping the "Manchester" in 1959, became "national." As such, its influence in Glasgow and Leeds, Bristol and Newcastle, is proportionately greater than, say, that of the New York Times or the Washington Post in Chicago, Kansas City and Seattle.

Common Sense

It divorced itself years ago from the role of advocate of the by then almost defunct Liberal party and is today "independent progressive." It remains the voice and conscience of the liberals with a small "l".

A tribute from the London Evening Standard hits the mark. "The disregard of compromise, and the uncalculating radicalism to which it aspired instead, have seldom led it too far from the rails of common sense."

It opposes most of the present government's basic policies, but is not the mouthpiece of its critics: it is equally independent of labor party affiliation and is, because of its intellectual calibre, more convincing than any other journal when it sets about to take a strip off Harold Wilson's hide.

One of its managers once said the Guardian aimed "to make readable righteousness remunerative."

Well, it is righteous without being self-righteous or arrogant: It is one of the most readable papers in the world. One hopes for its next 150 years that it becomes remunerative.

'Pine and Willow' Policy Keeps China Cool

By JOHN GITTINGS
Manchester Guardian

To talk in the Western way of "ping pong diplomacy" and of "pragmatic" domestic policies as if these meant a reversal of the Cultural Revolution is to miss the point.

A more Chinese way of putting it would be to talk of the new "pine and willow diplomacy," echoing an old Maoist phrase from a 1944 speech of his in Yenan.

The pine, said Mao, grows regardless of storm, cold, or heat and it symbolises persistence in the revolution. But the willow stands for flexibility and it grows wherever you plant it.

●

A very practical kind of planting is under way at the Chungmen Cadres School on the outskits of Peking where 200 former officials from one of the city districts were being "tempered by labour."

The productive object of the exercise was to grow rice and peanuts on a viciously sandy soil which the local commune had not attempted to cultivate.

The ideological purpose was to bring them closer to the masses and to purge them of the idea that they could sit on a mountain top and look down on the world. "Although our dress was clean and we wore white shirts in the office our ideology was dirty."

The rice was certainly growing, though a bit on the wispy side, behind the plaited straw mats which shelter it from the dry and dusty winds of North China. Last year's crop of peanuts was excellent; so, presumably, were the Peking ducks which the school farm supplies to a famous restaurant specialising in that dish in the city.

The average age of these cadres — 600 have already passed through the school, spending a minimum of one year there — was 40. According to Mao, only the elderly and sick may be exempted. The former head of traffic control ran the school kitchen, the head of the housing department was in charge of growing vegetables. There were cadres who had fought in the revolution as well as those who had grown up since it.

As presented in the usually arid pages of "Peking Review," this kind of operation tends to arouse scepticism, but it was neither a picnic nor — at the other sceptical extreme — a form of punishment for erring cadres. They still got their original pay and could go home to their families for two weekends a month.

But they worked a hard six to six o'clock day, with three days a week in the fields and two doing political studies. The people who ran the school were themselves former graduates of it, and it was hard to tell them apart from those now being reformed.

●

This policy of integrating the officials with the masses is perhaps the real key to the meaning of the Cultural Revolution in China. It reflects Mao's belief that the heavy bureaucratic hand (now personified by the name of "renegade hidden traitor and scab Liu Shao-chi") was holding back the otherwise boundless energies of the working people.

Most of the officials who looked after the British group from SACU (Society for Anglo-Chinese Understanding) to which I belonged had already "gone to the countryside." Some had only recently returned from picking apples, driving hand tractors, or learning how to plant out rice.

This exercise is now taken so much for granted that I heard the question "Have you done your labour yet?" as part of polite conversation between strangers.

There have been rectification campaigns for cadres before (though not so extensive as this one) and one may ask what guarantee there is that they will not again become "divorced from the masses" when they go back to their white-collar jobs.

●

But for a people supposedly so impassive, the fabric of human relationships in China is surprisingly close to the surface. During a month's tour of China we came across one or two cadres who handled their colleagues with the old bureaucratic disdain.

But reform through labor, which to a Western visitor has something of the flavor of the kibbutz combined with the Marxist weekend school (except that it may last for a couple of years), seemed to be working for the great majority.

There have also been structural changes which are designed to prevent a slide-back to bureaucracy. Before the Cultural Revolution the organizational system in, for example, a factory, looked rather like an inverted pyramid. The management and the Communist Party Committee occupied the top two corners bearing down on the lowest point where the workers were represented by their trade union.

Today the new system centres upon the Revolutionary Committee, a group which contains representatives from the Army and Party, from the old management, and from the workers' mass organizations which have replaced the unions.

The Party Committee is still the ultimate authority, but most of the management offices such as production and welfare are run directly by the Revolutionary Committee.

A typical committee in a fertilizer factory near Nanking had a total of 27 members, 17 of whom were workers, seven officials, and three from the Army.

One hardly ever came across the kind of nervous bureaucratic poker usually to be expected when the management brings visitors to the shop floor. The workers carried on unhurriedly with what they were doing or chipped in with information if it seemed to be needed. And it was painfully obvious on the one occasion where the system was working badly.

●

At a machine tool factory in Shanghai there was much edgy laughter and harrying of visitors who stepped a few feet off the guided track with cries of "Let's go, we are late."

The plant is supposed to be transforming factory workers into the technicians but in some shops there were idle machines and workers who did their jobs in sullen slow motion. Posters on the wall denounced the management and Party for bureaucracy, and the leaders of the Revolutionary Committee criticised themselves in front of their visitors.

"If we think we are better than the masses," they said nervously, "that is a remnant of Liu Shao-chi's revisionism."

One problem in the past (which Shanghai may to some extent still be facing) was the tendency among revolutionary workers and students during the Cultural Revolution, taking Mao's injunction that "it is right to rebel" too literally, to try to hammer every official into the ground.

●

"If the cadres don't take our side, we must strike them down," they would argue, insisting that every local official should give 100 per cent support to their own particular faction. "Doubt everything, and knock everything down" was another popular slogan.

In many parts of China, though not perceptibly in Shanghai, a poster and criticism campaign is now being conducted against the most extreme advocates of this "ultra-leftist" line, the May 16 Group.

Described as counter-revolutionaries, they have been accused in recent months of all kinds of excesses committed during the Cultural Revolution, including the burning down of the British diplomatic mission in Peking. It is said that their purpose was to undermine Premier Chou En-lai and to "take away the face of China by isolating Chairman Mao himself."

This is not discussed in the official press, and the exact details of the campaign are hard to ascertain, but there has been talk of many struggle meetings recently against ultra-leftist student leaders in Peking.

As one travels on the ground in China, this rarefied level of inner-party politics, about which so little can ever be known, seems much less important than the general impression of good relations at the local level between the working people and the reformed bureaucracy.

●

Those with experience of China a year or even six months ago are impressed by the much more relaxed mood of today. For the visitor this mood makes itself felt in a new willingness, with very few exceptions, to answer hard questions with detailed and factual information.

This is the political climate in which people's diplomacy can flourish abroad while confident and unjittery policies are pursued at home.

Ship to Trace Old Viking Route

By ROLAND HUNTFORD

ROSKILDE, Denmark — There is something perennially fascinating about the Vikings, the abandoned way in which they plundered the coasts of Europe, the burial rites in the east that shocked their far from squeamish Arab contemporaries, and — the achievement that compels the greatest admiration today — the Norse discovery of America in 1008 A.D., nearly 500 years before Columbus.

Several Atlantic crossing in replicas of Viking ships have been made to show how it could be done: yet another is now being prepared in Denmark.

The Frederikssund Shipyard at Roskilde (a cathedral town near Copenhagen) is building a replica of a Viking ship which will be sailed over the Atlantic this summer. The leader of the expedition is Lefi Nygaard, a Norwegian historian at present working in America. He will have with him a crew of six, all Scandinavians or of Scandinavian descent.

★ ★ ★

This crossing will be the first attempt to follow the routes described in the sagas about Vinland, the name given by the Norsemen to a part of the North American coast. This route goes via Bergen, on the west coast of Norway, the southern tip of Greenland, the coast of Labrador and northern Newfoundland. Previous crossings followed a direct modern passage from Norway to New York.

It will also be the first attempt made with a "Knarr," the old Norse ocean-going trading ship. Hitherto, vessels have been modelled on the so-called Godstad ship, excavated in Norway during the last century and now preserved in an Oslo museum. This, however, is not a Knarr. It was a coastal trading ship which would double as a warship if required, the very vessel for a privateer but not for an Atlantic mariner.

Captain Magnus Andersen, the Norwegian who made the first "modern" Norse crossing in 1893, discovered that while his vessel was seaworthy and fast (she had a top speed of 14 knots), she was wet and uncomfortable, and had to be pumped constantly.

Her main trouble was a narrow beam. It was difficult to copy a Knarr, because although it is often mentioned in ancient Norse literature, none had been discovered, and no Norse shipbuilding documents were extant.

★ ★ ★

About five years ago, the first Knarr was discovered in the fjord outside Roskilde. It was lifted, restored and now rests in a specially built museum on the waterfront. The replica is being constructed in exactly the same manner as the original. It will be clinker built, of larch. It was in the keel that the near miraculous sailing characteristics of the old Viking ships lay:

They depended on the natural give of a tree trunk for an extraordinary flexibility that no composite device could equal. The length of the ship is 50 feet overall, with a beam of 14 feet, and a draught of about three feet.

The rig will be as close to the old Norse type as it is possible to approach. This means a short stiff mast, and a single square sail.

Nygaard will eschew compass, radio and all modern instruments, making the first voyage using the old Norse navigational methods alone: steering by the stars, the birds and "loom," or coloring of the sky above land masses.

This can be seen hundreds of miles out to sea and, in fact, the Norse route to America, passing near the Faroe Islands and Iceland in addition to Greenland, is out of sight of land loom for a very short distance. For bad visibility, the crew will have a Norse device called a "solarsten," a natural polarizing crystal which indicates the position of the sun behind the clouds.

★ ★ ★

If nothing else, the voyage will shed new light on ancient navigation and shipbuilding, and further support the belief — if further support were needed — that Norsemen did reach America at the beginning of the eleventh century. Buildings of indisputable Norse origin have been excavated at L'Anse aux Meadows in northern Newfoundland by Dr. Helge Ingstad, a Norwegian archaeologist.

But the desire to give Columbus the sole credit of America still exists, and there is considerable ill-will shown to the claims of the Norsemen.

(The London Observer)

Cowichan Sewage Referendum Fails to Gain 60% Majority

LAKE COWICHAN — A $970,000 sewage treatment plant referendum went down to defeat here Saturday.

It required a 60 per cent majority for passage, but was rejected by over 58 per cent of those casting ballots. Only 57.1 per cent of the eligible voters turned out, with just 41.53 per cent favoring the sewage plant.

According to terms of the Municipal Act, the referendum may not be presented for six months following a defeat.

It was drafted and presented as a result of an approach to council by the Lake Cowichan branch of the Society for Protection and Environmental Control.

At present raw sewage is being dumped into Lake Cowichan and the Cowichan River.

Village officials said today there are no plans for a repeat of the referendum, unless stronger public support for a secondary sewage treatment plant is indicated.

Ardent Golfers Unfazed by Rain

HONEYMOON BAY — Rainy, depressing weather did not stop the ardent golf fans from turning out to the official opening of March Meadows Golf and Country Club here this weekend.

Over 90 people crowded into the new clubhouse with full restaurant facilities, on Saturday to watch while 72-year-old Charlie March of Honeymoon Bay, former owner of the land on which the complex is built, cut a ribbon with four-foot-long hay clippers. Guest speaker Jack Eagger, president of the B.C. Golfers' Association, expressed his amazement at the progress of the club and its facilities since it first opened in October. He commended the four owners, Bud and Al Vance, Jim Peterson and golf pro Norm Boden, on their efforts and said most people hear about March Meadows but don't realize that the course is already playable. Most courses have to wait a couple of years.

FREE TOURNAMENT

Celebrations continued Sunday with over 100 Cowichan Valley residents competing in a free open tournament while the rain sprinkled down. Top man was Vern Kaspick of Duncan while top lady was Mina Lindall of Caycuse.

The club house opening was the completion of three initial stages of the establishment of the country club which is scattered around 155 acres, which includes 325 feet of waterfront on Cowichan Lake. They also have a six unit covered driving range.

Girl Placed On Probation

NANAIMO (CP) — A 17-year-old Nanaimo district girl was placed on suspended sentence and probation for two years Friday after pleading guilty to cultivating marijuana.

The charge was laid by RCMP here April 20 against Janice Hackwood of Cedar, B.C., after marijuana plants were discovered growing in a discarded plastic milk container in the trailer in which the girl lives.

Forest Museum Visited by 200

DUNCAN — Over 200 people visited the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum north of Duncan, Saturday, the museum's first day open this season.

Visitors wandered through the indoor-outdoor museum's three new buildings that house one of the museum's railroad stations and classroom and display areas.

The buildings were donated by museum director Gerald Wilburn who started the museum with his own private collections of historic logging and transportation equipment.

The more adventurous took a ride on the one and a half mile long narrow-gauge railroad that winds through wooded areas and over a trestle built over Somenos Lake.

The 40-acre museum property includes a tree growing area where visitors will be able to see the different stages of growth from seedlings to mature trees of a B.C. forest.

Indian Land Threatened

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indian band chief Dennis Alphonse says "something must be done this year" about flood control on the Cowichan River.

The band is seeking federal assistance to deepen the riverbed and construct a dyke to protect farmland from annual flooding.

Past attempts to obtain appreciable assistance from the Indian Affairs Department have failed, Alphonse charged recently, and the Cowichan River continues to chew away precious soil.

At the same time, he said, it is nibbling away at money spent by the department for "stop-gap flood control measures and for the development of the Indian land under the auspices of the Cowichan Indian Agricultural Co-op."

In the past two years $3,000 has been spent by the department on flood control.

Part of the reserve farmland is now under water, he said, and over 700 acres of agricultural land is affected when flooding strikes in the rainy fall and winter seasons.

The little girl mouse was crossing a cornfield when there was a sudden terrifying clatter. The blades of a harvester picked her up, flung her through the air, tossed her up on a rack, where she was joggled with the wheat before she was finally dumped into a bag of dusty grain and dropped off the end of the harvester. She finally managed to nibble her way through the sack, but it was past midnight when she staggered back to her home, dishevelled, dusty and bruised. Her mother gave a horrified squeak of dismay when she saw her . . .

"Daughter," she said. "What happened?"

The little girl mouse burst into tears.

"Oh mummy . . . I was reaped!"

The way to look at a Mazda R100.

Under that hood is a new Mazda Rotary* engine. It's got more power per cc than any other automobile engine in the world.

Now put down the hood.

Get behind the wheel.

And go look for some legal competition. The standing ¼ mile? 18 seconds flat. Zero to sixty: 10.8 seconds. Ten seconds more you're doing 80. Easily. Ever so quietly.

Last year at the Nurburgring Touring Car Grand Prix, the little Mazda R100's placed fourth, fifth and sixth. There were 94 cars entered.

Look what Car & Driver said after road tests at Kent International Raceway: "The car itself is built like a watch – it is intricate and exotic and completely of its own personality. It's not trying to imitate ...it's a Mazda, confident that the world will know a good thing when it sees one."

Blush.

Look how it handles: "...delightfully tossable...you can fling it into a corner with abandon and it never gets out of hand." C&D said that too.

There are a dozen more sportscar features standard in every R100.

Maybe you should look into one at your dealer.

Oh yes, the Mazda R100 sells for $2699*. Isn't that what you've been looking for?

WEEKEND COURSE LOOKED AT INNER HARBOR

One Decision Triggers Chain of Activity

The effect of large-scale urban development decisions is dangerous in that "you set up a cycle and you can't stop it," Dr. Larry Devlin of the University of Victoria's continuing education division said today.

Devlin was commenting on a weekend course at the university which discussed the problems of urban development.

Thirty people spent two and a half days living at the university, taking lectures from faculty members and becoming aware of contemporary development problems.

"The participants seemed to learn a great deal about urban development," Devlin said. "They were able to identify what some of the problems are and also some of the solutions."

He said an exercise in which participants simulated the movement of giant oil tankers from Alaska through Strait of Juan de Fuca was a "realistic opportunity for people to play several roles."

"It was especially effective in getting different perspectives," he said.

MORE CONTROL

"What some of the people learned was that more control is needed to deal with development."

He said that participants showed particular concern for the effects of the proposed Reid Centre, part of the Inner Harbor renewal scheme.

"They took a close look at the disadvantages and advantages of the scheme, and the prospect disturbed many of them," he said.

Devlin said the participants in the course were able to observe how "one decision sets off a whole chain of activity. You set up a cycle and you can't stop it."

ADVANTAGES

Dr. Peter Murphy of the university's geography department gave a lecture to the particpants on the merits of high-rise development to revitalize the downtown area. He pointed out the advantages of complexes such as the Reid Centre, which would provide housing for 300 families as well as a hotel.

He said keeping the families close to the core of the city would have the effect of adding to the vitality of the area and would also solve some transportation problems.

Tourists would be in close proximity to shopping areas, he said.

Some participants questioned the project, saying they wanted a master plan before development started, or at least some kind of choice of concepts.

They also objected to the idea of city taxpayers paying for all city services, even though they are used by people from suburban areas.

TAX BASE

A proposal to broaden the city's tax base by bringing in apartment blocks was also attacked.

Murphy said the city's downtown area was being strangled because of the lack of main arteries for traffic coming into the city. He said the city would end up with a depressed central area.

Another proposal, and one supported by the participants, was that a strip of greenery along the waterfront be developed from Ogden Point to the Johnson Street bridge.

Zoning the strip to prevent development would encourage developers to build back from the waterfront so that the public could use the green areas.

Other problems dealt with were the departure of department stores from the downtown area in favor of shopping centres in Saanich, and the deterioration of residential areas downtown and in James Bay.

GAZELLE DOESN'T HAVE ANY

GAZELLE, Calif. (AP) — Most towns are named for a founder, or a famous person or a geographical characteristic.

Keeping with that tradition, this town of 125 persons near the Oregon border originally was called Antelope. Hundreds of antelopes ran wild in the area.

But there was an Antelope, Calif., and someone suggested Gazelle, a small, graceful antelope. So despite the name, there's never been a gazelle in Gazelle.

Astronomers Form Group

A national society of Canadian professional astronomers was formed this weekend at the University of Victoria.

The society, known as the Canadian Astronomical Society, is the first group exclusively composed of professional astronomers. Amateur astronomers are included in the membership of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

Dr. John Climenhaga, dean of arts and science at Uvic, announced the forming of the society under the sponsorship of the National Research Council associate committee on astronomy.

Climenhaga said he was pleased the association was formed here, through the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

About 80 astronomers from across Canada attended the founding meetings and 40 research papers were presented.

An executive was elected to set up bylaws for the group, draw up a constitution and elect officers. Victoria members of the executive are Dr. A. H. Batten from the observatory and Dr. J. B. Tatum from Uvic's physics department.

Grandson A Double Winner

Mrs. May Emberton, 3582 Calumet, and her grandson Earl, 18, of 2931 Glasgow are each $100 richer after the Victorian Day treasure hunt Saturday at Mayfair Shopping Centre.

Not feeling up to the digging, Mrs. Emberton asked her grandson to substitute and split the profits.

It was good deal.

Earl dug up a $100 capsule for his grandmother and another one for himself.

The following diggers also found $100 certificates:

H. R. Stoessel, 1612 Michelle; Alf Slocomb, 1564 Oakcrest; and Miss Niki Wallace, 2069 Paul's Terrace.

Two more treasure hunts will be held May 22 at Pandora and Blanshard and May 29 at Willows Beach.

All ticket holders, even those who won at earlier treasure hunts, will have a chance at winning the Queen's Chest containing $1,000 in B.C. centennial dollars at the final treasure hunt.

Prison Riot Toll Now 2

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — An inquiry opens here today into last month's four-day rebellion at Kingston penitentiary that resulted in two deaths and left another 10 convicts injured.

Brian Ensor, 26, of Hamilton died as the riot ended and a second prisoner, Bertram Robert of Chatham, Ont., died Sunday. Both were beaten by fellow prisoners.

Robert had been in hospital in critical condition since the uprising ended April 18.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG — Trading was light on the grain exchange today with all commodities except oats and barley under liquidation pressure with depressed prices.

Flax had some commission house selling and exporter buying on a scale-down. Rapeseed had heavy hedge offerings in the new crop futures and intermonth spreading in May and July.

Volume of trade Friday included 551,000 bushels of flax, 933,000 of rapeseed and 271,000 of rye.

CHICAGO — Corn futures advanced more than 2 cents on the Board of Trade today, stimulated by heavy commercial demand and short covering.

Soybeans moved ahead nearly 2 cents and wheat 1¼ cents. Late in the session all three commodities came under some profit taking.

Nearby oats were under heavy selling pressure.

Most trade sources thought the U.S. railwoad strike had little effect, if any, on commodity futures.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Drop Sharply

Investors reacted to the U.S. rail strike and rising interest rates today as both New York and Toronto exchanges reported sharp losses near the close of business.

AT TORONTO, volume at 2 p.m. was 1.62 million shares, down from 1.68 million at the same time Friday.

Weakest sectors were banks, chemicals, industrial mining and utilities.

Among declining issues, Bow Valley lost 1⅛ to $20⅝, Peel Elder ⅞ to $21, Huron and Erie ¾ to $20¾, Ford of Canada ¾ to $87 and Dome Mining 1⅛ to $69¼.

Canada Cement dropped ¾ to $38¾, Falconbridge ¾ to $118½, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ⅝ to $45⅛, Lake Dufault ⅜ to $14, Pan Ocean ¾ to $18⅛ and Asamera ½ to $21⅛.

AT NEW YORK, trading volume picked up considerably late in the session, from its sluggish morning pace. Institutional activity also increased, indicating that the selloff was beginning to gain momentum.

Analysts cited worries over the rail strike as the major market depressant. However, fears that rising short-term interest rates could cause an increase in the prime or discount rates and herald a new era of tight money also weighed heavily, they added. Such a move, some investors believe, could hamper the economic recovery.

Large-block trades included 190,000 shares of Household Finance at $52, off ⅝; 80,000 of Niagara Mohawk Power at $16⅝, off ½.

AT MONTREAL, prices in all sectors moved lower in slow trading.

Highlighting losses, Asbestos was off $1¾ to $32¾, Falconbridge $1¼ to $119¼, Canada Cement Lafarge $1¼ to $38¼, QSP Ltd. ¾ to $13¼, Du Pont ⅝ to $15⅛, Noranda ⅝ to $34½, Texaco Canada ½ to $32 and Zeller's ½ to $16½.

Highlighting gains, Southam Press was up ½ to $60½ and Dominion Glass ½ to $14.

AT LONDON, British governfent bonds were weak today following publication of the Bank of England-treasury proposals on new techniques of monetary policy. Selling pressure eased around mid-day and a few issues came off the bottom on small selective buying.

Hawkers and Bowater eased. Tara Exploration attracted speculative support and gained 25 pence to 705.

Canadians were generally easier with Pacific Pete, Hudson Bay, Gulf, Canadian Husky, Central Del Rio, Canadian Pacific, Alcan, Hollinger, Cominco, Algoma, Masey, Noranda, Northgate and Rio Tinto Zinc all lower.

Bow Valley hardened following and Dome firmed. Canadian banks were quietly steady.

Sandspit Stop Retained

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport commission has amended the licence of Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. to allow it to make only one stop — at Sandspit — on its regular flights between Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

In an order dated May 11 and released today, the commission said it is satisfied it is in the public interest for the airline to make the one stop on its Vancouver-Prince Rupert run.

Under a February, 1969, decision the commission required the airline to make two stops, at Sandspit and Prince George.

The decision came after two applications by the airline. One in April, 1965, asked that only one stop be required, and was denied.

The second, in December, 1969, asked the commission to drop its requirement for any stops between Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

The decision to require only one stop resulted from this last application.

The commission said present and prospective volume of traffic between Vancouver and Prince Rupert did not warrant non-stop service by both Pacific Western Airlines and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

CONDOMINIUM APARTMENT LIVING (2nd in Series)

HISTORY: This concept of home ownership is known to date back to the time of the Romans. It has long been used in Europe and Great Britain. Reference to English usage of the concept can be found in Halsburys Laws of England, 3rd edition, volume 32, page 349. More recently, intensified urban development throughout the western world has resulted in high land cost which is precluding private ownership of residences in major centres. Condominium living and ownership has come into increasingly widespread use in the United States and Australia. The State of Hawaii has perhaps the greatest per capita number of Condominiums and building more. Their success has been fabulous with many people owning suites there and also in continental United States and Canada.

BIGELOW SALE COMPLETED, SAYS NEONEX

VANCOUVER (CP) — James A Pattison, president and chief executive officer of Neonex International Ltd., says the sale of the company's 50 per cent interest in Bigelow Canada Ltd., to its former partner Bigelow-Sanford Inc., has been completed.

The amount involved was not disclosed but Pattison said in a statement that the "amount of the cash transaction was slightly in excess of the original Neonex investment."

"Consummation of the sale releases Neonex's contingent liability from the bank loan to Bigelow Canada Ltd, amounting to several million dollars," Pattison said.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

Croydon

Studies leading to diamond drilling are under say on the Vent claims of Croydon Mines Ltd., located off the Ucluelet highway 35 miles from Port Alberni.

Field work on the site has just been finished following geochemical survey last year which indicated a large copper-molybdenum anomaly.

The company also said negotiations are completed covering a letter of intent with Dowa Mining Co. Ltd., which can earn 65 per cent of mineral claims in the Mt. Baldwin area of Squamish. The remaining 35 per cent will be allocated to Matachewan Consolidated Mines Ltd., Kennedy Silver Mines Ltd. and Croydon.

B.C. Sugar

B.C. Sugar Refinery Ltd. reports net profit for the six months ended March 31 of $1.6 million or 63 cents a share, compared with $1.29 million or 50 cents a share, for the corresponding period in 1970.

Sales for the six-month period were $23.8 million, an increase of 16 per cent from the $20.5 million in sales recorded for the first half of last year.

Scurry

Scurry-Rainbow Oil Ltd. $560,000 or 21.5 cents a share during the six months ended March 31.

In the comparable period a year earlier the company had net income of $545,000 or 20.9 cents a share.

Gross revenue rose to $4.17 million from $3.82 million.

Production of crude oil dropped slightly to a daily average of 7,525 barrels. Sales of natural gas were up two million cubic feet to 12.5 million cubic feet a day.

Weyerhaeuser

A special meeting of Weyerhaeuser Co. shareholders June 10 will consider creation of three million new convertible preferred stocks of a value of $150 million.

The company said it has no plans for the sale of these shares, but later this year it expects to engage in some type of external financing.

If authorized, the new class of shares would be junior to existing preferred A shares, created in 1969, of which 1.5 million have been issued.

NW Utilities

Higher revenue and cash from operations, but lower capital gains last year resulted in a 27-cent drop in per share earnings for Northwestern Utilities Ltd.

The company reports revenue of $32.95 million ($30.4 million) and cash from operations at $7 million ($6.7 million), for static net earnings of $4 million.

But in 1970 capital gains accounted for only $12,290, compared with $511,600 in 1969, leaving total earnings of $4 million ($2.22 a share) vs. $4.66 million ($2.49).

NW Orient

Northwest Orient Airlines has reported a net loss of $11.8 million or 56 cents a share, for the first quarter of 1971.

Northwest president Donald W. Nyrop blamed the loss on "reduced revenues resulting from the lengthy clerks' strike which ended on Dec. 14, 1970."

During the first quarter of 1970, NWA had net earnings of $8.6 million, or 41 cents a share. Revenues for the first quarter this year were $75.1 million, down 35.6 per cent from $111.2 million.

Aquitaine

Production revenue was substantially higher — from $5.2 million to $5.98 million — while interest, dividend and other income dropped in the three months ended March 31, reports Aquitaine Co. of Canada Ltd.

Total income was $6.95 million vs. $7.37 million, for net income of $4.95 million against $4.54 million, or 24 cents compared with 22.1 cents a share.

Main difference in operating expense was a decline in interest payments from $922,400 to $50,500.

Car Sales May Equal '69; Major Gains by Imports

DETROIT (AP) — Auto sales in the United States appear headed for a record of 10 million cars this year, but, to the dismay of the U.S. automakers, foreign manufacturers are getting the biggest piece of the new action.

Domestic sales last year totalled 7.1 million, off from the record 8.5 million in 1969. Based on the performance of the first four months of this year, the domestic manufacturers are expected to just about equal their record of two years ago.

Import sales, however, are booming at an unexpected and unprecedented rate. When Ford and General Motors introduced their sub-compacts, Pinto and Vegas last fall, they hoped to reverse, or at least check, the growing penetration of foreign mini-cars in the U.S. market.

That hasn't been the case, however, as Ford Chairman Henry Ford II admitted last week.

"If you look at the increases in imports, you find reason for disappointment," Ford said. "We hoped to hold the lid on. They (import sales) are up to 16 per cent now."

So far this year, imports have captured 15.2 per cent of the U.S. market and their penetration hit 16.3 per cent in April. Imports had only a 13.5-per-cent share in the first four months of last year and 11.8 per cent in 1969.

Volkswagen remains the leading import by a large margin, holding nearly 45 per cent of the import's market segment. VW broke a long slump, attributed to production shortages and shipping problems, in April by recording the biggest sales month in its history and moving ahead of 1970 figures for the first time this year.

VW is challenged strongly by Toyota and Datsun, the No. 2 and 3 import makes. The combined sales of the Japanese leaders are up 97 per cent in the first four months of the year.

All the major import makes except Renault and British-Leyland reports sales running well above 1970 levels.

Phoenix Likes Idea

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian Phoenix Steel and Pipe Ltd., may announce within a month the construction of a fully-integrated steel mill, costing $145 million, in Alberta, says Dr. Hu Harries, chairman of Canadian Phoenix.

Harries said the firm is awaiting the results of a feasibility study being carried out for the provincial government on the possibility of placing such a mill in the province.

Harries, Liberal MP for Edmonton Strathcona, said he had carried out a similar study and found that the mill would be feasible.

A fully-integrated steel mill would produce a finished product from raw ores. Steel operations in the province now produce new products from scrap metal.

Ray Ratzlaff, Industry and Tourism Minister, said such a project would have staggering implications for the province.

$475 Million Bond Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — The government today offered investors up to 6.64 per cent a year on bonds maturing in eight years.

The bond issue, totalling $475 million, was offered in three maturities:

—Two years and 10 months, in bonds paying five per cent a year on their face value, offered at 99.6 per cent of par and yielding investors 5.15 per cent a year if held to maturity on April 1, 1974.

—Five-year, 5¾ per cent bonds offered at 99 per cent yielding 5.98 per cent if held to maturity June 1, 1976.

—Eight-year, 6½ per cent bonds offered at 99 per cent, yielding 6.66 per cent if held to maturity June 1, 1979.

—The bank of Canada agreed to acquire a minimum of $175 million of the new issues.

The government will use the $475 million to redeem $425 million worth of government bonds maturing June 1 and to add $50 million to the treasury in new borrowing.

SHARE ORDER MISTAKE SINKS FIRM

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — A mistake by a girl telex operator who ordered 2,000 shares in the nickel company Poseidon instead of 20, was blamed today for the collapse of a Sydney brokerage firm.

The firm, Malcolm Hazel Steel and Hill, was suspended by the Sydney Stock Exchange for inability to meet its commitments.

Officials said the mistake 18 months ago cost the firm $336,000 Australian ($376,360 Canadian) before it was rectified.

They added that the girl lost her job.

Let's Talk Real Estate by Jack Mears

Have you ever wondered how cities started? Where and when? It is known that by 5500 B.C. villages were firmly established in South East Asia. By 4000 B.C. complex cities were being formed in the Tigris and Euphrates Valleys. These villages were originally formed to deal with surplus food following the advent of organized agriculture.
Once produce began to find its way into storage and distribution centres, it became necessary to keep records. These were kept by the priests and therefore writing was evolved and this is the reason why religion and learning stayed tied together for so many centuries.
Following the industrial revolution cities expanded at an ever-increasing rate and during that period the main criterion was to expand in any way that increased production, irregardless of beauty, architecture or pollution. Today when we can produce more than is needed, mankind has turned its thought back to more aesthetic things and is becoming increasingly aware of the protection of its environment.
This change not only happens in cities, it also occurs in all their component parts and very definitely in the homes which go to make up the cities. For those who no longer wish to be tied to gardening or maintenance duties but who still wish to have the benefits and protection which ownership gives, today we have Condominium Apartments where an owner obtains a definite title to the property just the same as in a single family dwelling. Their growing popularity has been phenomenal and there is no doubt that with ever-increasing taxation and the availability of expanding forms of leisure and travel that Condominiums will become increasingly popular in the years to come. If we can give you any more information or advice please call 598-3321.

M and M Share Honors As Habs Square Series

HAPPY HABS were Mahovlich brothers, Peter (left) and Frank, following Montreal Canadiens' 4-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks in Sunday's Stanley Cup playoff. Pete scored twice, including winner on setup by Frank, who also got one goal. (CP Wirephoto)

It Was Mahovlich Day; Police Guard for MacNeil

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens got protection behind the bench and on the ice Sunday afternoon in a 4-3 win over Chicago Black Hawks that sent the Stanley Cup final to a deciding seventh game.

The two teams, with three wins each, meet in the finale Tuesday night in Chicago at 5:30 p.m. PDT. The game will be carried nationally by the CBC-TV network.

While plainclothesmen kept an eye out for possible assailants of coach Al MacNeil, rookie goaltender Ken Dryden was shoring the defences, stopping 27 of 30 Chicago shots.

And the Mahovlich brothers, Frank and Peter, shared the glory in the National Hockey League final cliffhanger. Frank set one record with his 14th playoff goal and tied another with 27 points while Pete collected two goals, including the winner.

MacNeil, his life threatened by crank callers since veteran Henri Richard levelled a tirade at the rookie coach after Thursday's 2-0 loss at Chicago, remained aloof to the police protection.

Dryden, meanwhile, was besieged by Hawk shooters in the first 40 minutes Chicago held 11-5 and 14-6 edges in shots in the first and second periods respectively.

The teams were deadlocked at 1-1 after 20 minutes on goals by Chicago's Jim Pappin, his first of two, and Yvan Cournoyer. Peter Mahovlich put Montreal ahead early in the second before Chico Maki and Pappin gave the Hawks a 3-2 lead.

The Mahovlich brothers wound up the scoring with Frank tying it at 5:10 and Peter scoring the winner at 8:56 while Montreal's Rejean Houle was sitting out a minor penalty.

Esposito Stops Dramatic Penalty Shot

Asked repeatedly about the Richard incident in which the fiery centre-winger alleged his coach was "incompetent," and "the worst I have ever played under," MacNeil replied only that "it did not bother me."

He was obviously more concerned with a dislodged net in the second period. Montreal centre Jacques Lemaire found it wide open but had his goal disallowed by referee Art Skov because the net had been knocked from its moorings.

"The net didn't move that much," said MacNeil. "The referee should take into consideration the speed of play and the crowding around the net. . . .

"It would have been a 2-1 hockey game in our favor . . . and it would have given us a lift."

Dryden, who has appeared in a record 19 playoff games this year for a record 1,171 minutes, injured his knee in the first period stopping a shot but ruled out the possibility of a serious twist by referring to his race for the puck near the Montreal blueline with Pappin later.

"If I had twisted it I couldn't have raced out to the blueline shortly after to check the puck away from Jim Pappin," he said. But he took the blame for Pappin's second goal because he "stayed back" and failed to cut the shooting angle.

The records broken and tied by Frank Mahovlich were established last year by Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins while the previous goaltending ironman job for playoffs was turned in by Glenn Hall of St. Louis Blues during the 1967-8 post-season games.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau also established an individual playoff mark with his 16th assist, increasing by one the previous record set by Chicago's Stan Mikita in 1962.

Canadiens' rugged John Ferguson, who has been playing sporadically but reasonably well with an injured hip shot full of medication, expressed disappointment that Montreal managed only 16 shots at Hawks Tony Esposito.

"Sixteen shots in this building is ridiculous," said Ferguson. "It means we weren't playing our game."

Richard Incident Didn't Bother Coach

One of the 16 shots was a first-period penalty shot awarded when Esposito appeared to throw his stick at the puck near the Hawk blueline after losing a race with Frank Mahovlich.

It was the first time a penalty shot had been awarded in NHL playoffs and Skov had no compunctions about making the call. Chicago coach Billy Reay agreed with the official, saying the goalie "threw his stick and you can't do that."

The Big M, leading scorer in the playoffs, was selected to make the shot but was apparently too nervous to look up after picking the puck up at centre ice and finding Esposito bearing down on him.

The Chicago goalie made a sudden change in direction, but Mahovlich, off balance, fired the puck right at him.

The muffed chance didn't upset Mahovlich.

"I want to say that I didn't miss my shot. I was happy with what I did because I got off a good shot, but Esposito made a good save."

Mahovlich said: "I was thinking of what to do."

"I didn't figure he'd come out so soon and once he started back, I shot. Maybe I let go too soon, but he surprised me by coming out so quickly."

Mahovlich said he had one previous penalty shot. "I made it and as I recall it was against Glenn Hall."

General manager Sam Pollock offered praise to young Rejean Houle, the Canadiens winger assigned to follow Hawks' Bobby Hull. The Golden Jet picked up two assists Sunday but was held off the goal-scoring column again by the pesky Montrealer.

Houle "has covered himself with glory for the job he has done checking Bobby Hull during the series," said Pollock, adding "Canadiens won Sunday's key game despite formidable odds, which included disallowed goals, a missed penalty shot and taking a majority of the penalties."

Canadiens took seven of the 11 minor penalties assessed by Skov.

SENIOR CLUBS TO OPEN NEW BASEBALL SEASON

Another season in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League opens tonight at Royal Athletic Park when Al's Home Service and Greaves Movers tangle at 6:30.

Farmer Construction and Gorge Hotel, the other clubs in the four-team circuit, swing into action Tuesday night and Farmers clash with Home in a Wednesday-night battle.

Farmer Construction, new sponsor this season, will be managed by Barry Harvey in the campaign against the three holdover teams. Gerry Parker is guiding Greaves, Stu Mitchell is handling Gorge and Bernie Anderson is managing the Home crew.

Ian Gray is league president this year with Audrey Brice holding the secretary's post and Nora Mabee serving as treasurer.

New Conflict In B.C. Soccer

This Saturday's scheduled opening of the Western Canada Soccer League has been postponed because of a conflict in the B.C. Soccer Commission.

The B.C. Soccer Commission Sunday confirmed an earlier decision which denied affiliation in the league to two B.C. teams — Victoria Royals and Vancouver Spartans.

The reasons given were that the schedule is unsatisfactory, and that the two clubs are dependent for players on Coast League clubs which have not yet completed their schedule.

Commission chairman Bill Stirling said that the clubs may appeal to the Canadian Soccer Association.

Vice-president Ken Hibbert of the Royals said today the local club was aware of the Commission decision and would appeal. He also stated that Eric King, secretary of the CSA knew of the problem which existed, and he felt that the decision would be reversed.

Hibbert stated that at no time did the Royals intend to use United players until the Coast League season was over, and that the United management was aware of this.

The Spartans, meanwhile, would have as the nucleus of their WCSL team five B.C. youngsters who have been playing in Britain — Les Wilson, Glen Johnson, Bruce Twamley, Bobby Lenarduzzi and Chris Bennett.

Several junior players would be used to fill out the Spartan roster.

The Royals, meanwhile, would use non-Coast League player for the time being.

Hibbert said it was his understanding that Columbus of the Coast League would form a third B.C. team in the WCSL in due time, after the Coast League schedule is completed. This team would be called the Italians.

Until the appeal of the two clubs is heard by the CSA, the WCSL schedule is up in the air. This ruling is not expected until the weekend.

Anderson Gets Job

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have signed Jim Anderson, 40, to a two-year contract as a coach of their Oklahoma City farm club in the Central League.

Italian Driver Killed In Targa Florio Run

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — An Italian driver was killed and three top favorites wrecked their cars Sunday in the accident-plagued start of the hazardous Targa Florio Road Race.

Fulvio Tandoi, 33, was fatally injured when his Alpine-Renault veered off a twisting road and crashed into a tree. Rescuers cut Tandoi out of the wreckage with the help of blow torches.

The four cars crashed on the first of 11 laps — more than 44 miles each — that make up the gruelling 492-mile run that has been called "The Race of 1,000 Curves."

Tandoi's mishap came after Britain's Brian Redman, Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez and West Germany's Rolf Stommelen were involved in accidents.

Redman, last year's winner here, suffered burns of the face, hands and right leg when his Porsche 908-3 plunged off the road and burst into flames. The others were not hurt.

Rodriguez's Porsche was wrecked when he hit a wall. Stommelen demolished his Alfa Romeo when it went off the road.

Nino Vaccarella of Italy and Toine Hezemans of The Netherlands in an Alfa Romeo crossed the finished line more than one minute ahead of second-place Andrea de Adamich of Italy and Guy Van Lennep of The Netherlands.

It gave Alfa Romeo a clean sweep over its rival Porsches, which had won five straight here.

It was the 55th and perhaps final running of the world's oldest road race. There have been demands that the event be dropped under international rules banning dangerous tracks.

Rocks Toppled By Slow Start

COQUITLAM — Victoria Shamrocks ran into early troubles Saturday night as Coquitlam Adanacs scrambled to a big lead in the first two periods and the Irish saw their victory streak in the Western Lacrosse Association ended at three games.

Adanacs, who lost their two previous encounters to Shamrocks in Victoria, retained enough of their early margin to record a 12-9 victory before approximately 1,300 fans.

The Irish had downed Coquitlam in the final pre-season Greenwood tournament game and then squeezed by 9-8 last Wednesday.

George Grover, who was outstanding in the Victoria nets on Wednesday, let the first three shots by Coquitlam into the net during his second start this season. Co-coaches Bert Bertoia and Ron Jay decided to replace him with rookie Dave Wirtanen, who finished the game by blocking 47 shots as compared to only 39 by Coquitlam's Dave Wedlock.

JOLTED IN WARMUP

Bertoia said after the game that Grover appeared shaken, though uninjured, after being hit by some hard shots during the pre-game warmup.

Coquitlam raced away to a 4-0 lead before Charn Dhillon got Victoria on the scoresheet with the first of his two goals.

Adanacs were ahead 7-2 after the first period and 11-5 after the second before Victoria began to roll.

Wedlock also contributed to the Coquitlam scoring with three assists as his long passes caught Irish defencemen out of position.

THREE-GOAL EFFORTS

Wayne Shuttleworth and John Allen each scored three goals to pace Coquitlam while Jim Aitcheson, Bill Robinson, Kevin Parsons, Bill Bradley, Mike Gates and Doug Wallsmith chipped in singles.

Dhillon led Victoria with a five-point evening while Frank Alexander collected three goals and an assist. Ranjit Dillon, Nirmal Dillon, Mike Beaulac and Al McLean scored single goals.

MIGHTY CUBAN TEAM SCARED BY CANUCKS

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuter) — Canada came nearest to causing an upset in the women's world basketball championship qualifying matches in Brazil Saturday night when they were narrowly beaten 59-50 by Cuba.

The powerful Cuban team was expected to make short work of the Canadian girls. But it proved an exciting match with Canada trailing 29-27 after the first half.

Margarita Skerte Rojas was outstanding for Cuba, scoring 18 points. Canada's highest scorer was Dale Savage of Niagara Falls, Ont., with 15 points.

Ecuador led briefly in their match against France before going down 80-49 and the Soviet Union defeated Argentina 74-16.

South Korea beat the United States 86-50, Japan had little trouble beating Australia 77-50 and Czechoslovakia piled up 120 points to the 29 of African champions Madagascar.

Incogs Move Up To Second Spot

Incogs defeated Cowichan by 56 runs Sunday at University School and took over second place from the Cowichan side in Victoria and District Cricket Association standings.

In Saturday matches, Albions regained sole possession of the lead after dismissing Oak Bay for 64 runs and then scoring 65 for eight wickets at Windsor Park while Castaways collected their first win by declaring at 143 for three and dismissing Alcos for 71 with 10 minutes remaining at Beacon Hill Park.

Incogs declared at 141 for five wickets after fine batting by Geoff Rooper (70, not out) and Mike Walsh (40). Cowichan bolwer Haward Martin toppled four wickets for 20 runs.

Cowichan could only reach 85 against strong bowling and fielding by Incogs.

Peter Lord scored 21 for Cowichan while Incog bowlers were paced by Tim Bale (three for 30) and John Wenman (two for 15).

Sandy Colquhoun scored 24 runs to lead Oak Bay while Alec Porter, getting an extra life at 13 runs when a catch was dropped, went on to score 25, not out, to lead Albions.

Mike Morgan (two for two) and Chris Rowe (three for nine) led Albion bowlers.

Castaways were sparked by Brian Rudgard (52, not out) and Dave Auld (73).

Vicettes Lose and Tie In Pair at Vancouver

VANCOUVER — Victoria Vicettes displayed considerable improvement Sunday but they are still without a victory in four Inter-City Senior Women's Softball League starts.

Defeated 13-7 and 11-3 by Vancouver Molsons when they opened their season at home the previous weekend, the Vicettes were outscored by only one run here Sunday as they settled for a loss and tie in two games.

Turning in solid fielding efforts, Vicettes were nipped 6-5 by the powerful Vancouver Merchants in the opening game and played to a 5-5 deadlock with Green and Louis Realty in a contest halted after seven innings to enable the Victoria team time to transportation connections.

Rosemary Fuller pitched both games for Vicettes, yielding 11 hits against the Merchants and giving up six in the second encounter.

VENEZUELAN PRIDE SETS PREAKNESS RECORD

SETS SIGHTS ON TRIPLE CROWN

Canonero II Starts to Scare Off Belmont Opposition

BALTIMORE (AP) — Canonero II, virtually unwanted as a yearling and unknown as the Kentucky Derby winner, now has the opposition unhinged as he shoots for the first Triple Crown in 23 years.

"I don't intend to hook Canonero again if I can help it," Reggie Cornell, the trainer of Eastern Fleet, said after the Cinderella horse of 1971 scored a spectacular triumph Saturday in the Preakness.

It was Eastern Fleet who stayed with Canonero II throughout the 1 3-16 miles classic.

But at the end Venezuelan jockey Gustavo Avila and his mount were pulling away.

The victory margin was 1½ lengths and the time of 1:54 broke the Pimlico track record, set in the 1955 Preakness by Nashua, by three-fifths of a second.

"My horse didn't stop," said Eddie Maple, the jockey aboard Eastern Fleet. "The other one just ran faster."

"If the race had been longer," jubilant trainer Juan Arias said, "he would have won by a bigger margin."

DISTANCE NO WORRY

The Belmont Stakes in New York, last of the Triple Crown series on June 5, is at 1½ miles. Arias said the distance would not bother Canonero II, and the owners and trainers of other horses seem to agree.

So far, only Jim French, the third-place finisher from the 11-horse Preakness field, seemed likely to compete in the Belmont. Five of the field were in the Derby, too, with Jim French the runner-up that time.

Sound Off was fourth in the Preakness, followed by Bold Reason, Executioner, Royal J. D., Vegas Vic, Impetuosity, Spouting Horna and Limit to Reason.

Despite the recent startling successes, the Belmont doesn't figure to be a walkover. Among the Belmont possibilities who missed the first two Triple Crown races are Good Behaving, Run the Gantlet and On Your Toes.

Citation, in 1948, was the last Triple Crown winner.

Two years ago, Majestic Prince, owned by industrialist Frank McMahon of Calgary and Vancouver, won the Derby and the Preakness but faltered in the Belmont.

In the last 10 years, the Belmont was also the stumbling block for three other Derby and Preakness winners—Carry Back in 1961, Northern Dancer, owned by industrialist E. P. Taylor of Toronto, in 1964, and Kauai King in 1966.

Canonero II, whose $137,400 winner's share upped his lifetime earnings to $315,089, was sold for a mere $1,200 as a Kentucky-bred yearling at Keeneland.

The sire, Pretendre, finished second in England's 1966 Epsom Derby but was not well known in the United States. In addition, Canonero II had a slight leg deformity that turned away potential buyers.

Breeder Edward B. Benjamin said in Greensboro, N.C., Sunday that the colt "would not have stood training here, or in England or Europe.

"With his leg that turned in," Benjamin said, "it was a near miracle that the horse was brought from Venezuela, where he was trained on a soft sand track that cushioned the malformed leg.

Benjamin suggested that owners in the United States may have to develop a soft sand track for horses with bad legs.

Canonero II was named one of six "field" horses in the 20-horse Derby, reducing what would have been a whopping payoff had his odds been figured singly.

METHODS UNUSUAL

The come-from-behind victory in the Derby, at a slow 2:03 1-5 for the 1¼ miles, was followed by some unusual training methods at Pimlico which confounded and shocked veteran observers.

The final tuneup for the Preakness was a five-furlong work at the incredibly slow time of 1:06. Arias told countless questioners that everything was fine, but no one believed him.

Finally, at a Preakness party on Friday night, the amiable Arias said:

"They laughed at us in Kentucky, and they laughed at us here. But we will win again."

Canonero II did just that, but this time with a front-running effort, which included 1:10 2-5 for three-quarters of a mile and 1:35 for the mile.

Arias, who admitted being rattled by the week of numerous interviews, said it took "a superhuman effort" not to pass on his nervousness to the horse.

Canonero II, a sort of family pet, continued to receive the silk glove treatment from his handlers.

"He responds to kindness," Arias said.

WILLEY TRIPS RUSSELL IN VANCOUVER FINALE

VANCOUVER — Marine Drive professional fared better in the win than Point Grey amateur John Russell and pocked $550 and Vancouver City match-play honors Sunday.

Willey led most of the way in defeating Russell 7 and 6 at Point Grey. The professional was two up after nine holes and three up after 27.

Winds affected Russell's game, particularly on the opening nine of each round in the 36-hole finale. Russell carded four-over-par 40s on each tour. Willey experienced his greatest grief on the par-three holes. He managed to par only four of the eight short holes.

Laconic Rookie Snubs Pressure

HOUSTON (AP) — Rookie Hubert Green said he felt no particular pressure when he went to the first extra hole in a sudden-death playoff with veteran Don January for the $25,000 first prize in the Houston Champions Invitational golf tournament.

Said the laconic, unflappable young man: "I'm walking down No. 1 fairway and I sure can't finish worse than second. Everyone else has finished."

He nailed down the top prize on that first extra hole Sunday, lashing a nine iron shot 13 feet from the flag and running in the putt from his unorthodox stance—deeply crouched, feet wide-spread, and elbows out.

The birdie won it over the 41-year-old January, a 16-year tour veteran and former Professional Golfers Association champion. January missed the green and chipped to about three feet before the 24-year-old rookie settled it.

Green, who failed to make it when he first tried the PGA players school, joined the tour only late last year. The victory to $59,300, $44,10 in the last four weeks.

Green and January finished the regulation 72 holes with scores of 280, just four under par on the rugged, 7,166-yard, par-71 Champions Golf Club course.

Green had a steady par 71 on the final round while January closed quickly with a 68.

Homenuik Triumphs

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Wilf Homenuik bagged four birdies on the front nine Sunday and survived a double bogey No. 13 for a two-stroke victory in the $25,000 East Ridge Golf Classic.

It was the first pro victory for Homenuik in the United States. The 5-foot-7 Winnipegger picked up $5,000 for first place in the PGA satellite event.

Homenuik shot a one-under 70 Sunday to go with rounds of 73, 67 and 72. His four-round total of 282 was two under for the tournament.

Bob Menne made it interesting the final two rounds, but settled for second and $3,000 two strokes back of Homenuik. Menne closed Sunday with a 71.

Vollmer Playoff Victim

JUNCTION CITY, Ore. (AP) Jim Petersen of Hillsboro, Ore., sank a seven-foot par putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to win the storm-marred Pay Less Golf Classic.

Petersen's putt quashed the title hopes of Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver, B.C., after they tied at 219 for the 54 holes. Vollmer sank an 18-foot birdie putt at the 18th hole to force the tie. His final round score was 77 to Petersen's 76.

The defending champion, Buddy Sullivan of San Rafeal, Calif., shot a 73 in the final round to climb into third place. Scores were unusually high Sunday because of strong winds which swept over the course.

Victoria professional Vaughan Trapp got into the money with 71-80-77 228 but fellow-townsman John Morgan missed Saturday's cutoff of 155, along with Dick Munn of Vancouver.

Finishing behind the powerful Morris were Karl Fawthorpe (1:47:27) and Dave Kirsop (1:53:25).

Victoria Bowler In Atlanta Test

ATLANTA, Georgia Maureen (Mo) King of Victoria finished seventh out of 30 "state" winners and 159th out of a field of 400 in the 11th annual Queen's tenpin tournament on Friday.

The only Canadaian in the competition, she finished with 1,440 in the eight-game qualifying round. The open competition was for 63 berths in the match-play section of the tournament while the 30 "state" winners were battling for one spot.

Professional Mildred Martorella, competing with an ice pack on her hip to ease a muscle spasm, downed Kathy Brown of Columbus, Ohio, in the tourney final.

Pro-Amateur Final Set Up By Reg's Pro-Style Putting

C'EST LA VIE was Norm Boden's philosophical observation after two-time champion was topped by Reg Clarkson (rear) in Sunday's Times Vancouver Island Open golf semifinals at Uplands Golf Club. Clarkson, 45, will face Bill Wakeham in next Sunday's championship tussle. (William E. John photo.)

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Reg Clarkson, in days gone by, was paid to play five sports. Golf wasn't one of them, but that doesn't mean he can't putt like a professional.

Clarkson weilding his putter in a most professional manner, created the big surprise at Uplands Golf Club on Sunday and set up a pro-amateur final for the 1971 Times Vancouver Island Open championship.

It will be Clarkson, the 45-year-old Gorge Vale amateur, against professional Bill Wakeham in next Sunday's 36-hole final at Victoria Golf Club.

Clarkson upset Norm Boden, the former two-time winner from Cowichan, 4 and 2, while Wakeham did the expected and sidelined 16-year-old Bob Beauchemin, 5 and 4, in Sunday's scheduled 36-hole semifinals.

At the same time, Harry Panteluk of Gorge Vale and Uplands' Marty Smith pulled out their tickets for the handicap final.

Panteluk, shrugging off an early jolt that sent him four down after five holes, defeated Cedar Hill's Doug Hunt, two up. That also was Smith's margin over Gorge Vale's George Murphy.

While Wakeham, Clarkson, Smith and Panteluk enjoyed it best, Sunday was not a good day for golf: Rain in the morning and high winds in the afternoon made it a bone-chiller.

The winds also brought down a generous supply of twigs and leaves to Uplands greens, a condition that fails to complement good putting. The debris didn't bother Clarkson however. He pumped in six putts of 12 feet or more to dash Boden's hopes of a third Island title.

Two, in particular, Boden "could believe."

Twenty-Footer on 32nd Hurt Most

Four down after the morning 18-hole march, Boden stirred a comeback threat by winning the 24th and 25th holes. That trimmed Clarkson's lead to two, and that is how they came to the 27th.

Both missed the green with their tee shots on the par-three hole, then chipped seconds almost identical distances away from the cup — about 17 feet. Boden was deemed away, stepped up and sank the putt for his par. So did Clarkson.

"When I made the putt," said Boden "I was entertaining thoughts of starting the last nine only one down. But Reg follows me right in.

"But that didn't hurt as much as Reg's putt on 14 (the 32nd hole)."

Clarkson's drive off the tee caught deep rough, and he did well to get to within 30 yards of the green. Boden, in the meantime, put his second shot just off the fringe.

On his third shot, Clarkson left the ball about 20 feet short of the cup while Boden chipped to within six inches for a "gimme" par. Still two down, it looked very much as if Boden was due t otrim the deficit.

Clarkson, however, snaked his 20-footer through twigs and leaves and into the hole for a half to maintain his two-up edge. Clarkson won the 33rd with a par, then wrapped up the victory with another par on the 34th.

Beauchemin, the sparkling young southpaw who won medal honors, threatened to serve up another surprise when he paused for lunch with a one-up lead. The next nine holes proved Disasterville.

Wakeham won eight of the first nine holes to start out the afternoon round. Beauchemin won the par-three 22nd, and found himself six down after 27 holes.

Both Beauchemin and Wakeham had five-over 75s for the morning round and Wakeham was even par (35) for the first nine in the afternoon while hs young rival had an approximate 45.

Clarkson had an approximate medal of 74 in the morning and was seven over for the 16 holes played in the afternoon.

Sooke Grabs Win On Six-Run Burst

Joe Medwedrich collected four hits on four trips to the plate Sunday to spark Sooke Merchants to a 9-7 Stuffy McGinnis Major Men's Softball League victory over Gilmour Construction at Heywood Avenue Park.

The afternoon game between William Head Steelers and Century Inn was postponed because of poor weather.

Medwedrich blasted out a two-run double to lead off the fourth inning and then scored the third and final run of the frame on a single by catcher Eric Walker.

Norm Gowdy, Pat Farquhar, pitcher Rod Fedesenko and Alden Govenlock each batted in one run during the six-run seventh inning.

Bob Walton and Lloyd Ironstand each drove in two runs for Gilmour, which led 4-3 after the sixth inning but couldn't recover enough in the bottom of the seventh against some fine fielding by Sooke.

Roy Wins Duel To Earn Sweep

Roy Smith of Victoria staged a running battle with Vern Church of Seattle right down to the checkered flag before winning the main event by half a car-length and sweeping super modified honors before 2,748 car-racing fans Saturday at Western Speedway.

Smith had a relatively easy time winning the trophy dash and fast heat in the inter-city modified competition which is now co-sanctioned by the Washington Racing Association and the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association.

But there proved to be a lot of opposition in the 30-lap main event.

RACED IN FLORIDA

John Tharp of Seattle, who qualified for the super-modified main by winning the limited-modified feature, started on the front row and maintained a lead until the 15th lap.

Then Smith and Church, who has just returned to the Pacific Northwest after a winter of racing in Florida, moved up and began a long and exciting duel for the front position.

Smith took the lead on the 15th, lost it to Church on the 18th, regained it on the 20th, los it on the 24th, regained it one lap later, lost it on the 28th and took over to win on the second turn of the final circuit.

Larry Pollard almost recorded a sweep in the stock car competition among local drivers but spun out in the 25-lap main just yards away from the finish line, allowing Harvey St. Hilaire to come through and win.

In the time trials, Chris Van de Water set a new stock car track record with a time of 20.85 seconds for one lap of the four-tenths of a mile oval. St. Hilaire set the old mark earlier in the trials with a lap lasting 20.93 seconds.

Reynolds, Goodridge Share Formula Laurels

Paul Reynolds and Stu Goodridge, both of Victoria's DGR racing team, shared overall formula honors in the International Conference of Sports Car Clubs-sanctioned car-racing meet Sunday at Western Speedway.

Both Reynolds and Goodridge are also members of the host Victoria Motor Sport Club.

Reynolds finished first overall and first in the formula Ford class during the opening ICSCC points race of the day the all-formula event. Goodridge, who like Reynolds drives a Titan, finished second overall and second in class.

Another VMSC member, Dave Butler, finished first in the formula Volkswagen class during the same race and fifth overall.

TWO LAPS FROM WIN

And for a while it looked as if Reynolds was going to repeat the victory in the later "feature formula" money race. He was only two laps from victory when he hit reverse gear while trying to down-shift for a corner, allowing Goodridge to pass and go on to win both overall and class honors. Butler again finished first in class and fifth overall.

Dave Hatton was the only other VMSC member to finish first overall during a race by winning the first novice race on Saturday. Clubmate Tony Linford came second.

Next and fifth race of the ICSCC series will be at Western on Jule 3 and 4.

Revson Grabs Pole For '500' Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Peter Revson won the pole position Saturday for the 55th Indianapolis 500-mile auto race May 29 in a record-pulverizing qualification session at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Revson, who races all kinds of autos while the rest of his family makes Revlon cosmetics, set a standard of 178.696 m.p.h. for the 10-mile trials.

He and Mark Donohue, in twin Mark 16 McLaren-Offenhausers, will start in the first two positions in the 33-car, million-dollar Memorial Day weekend classic, flanked by 1968 Indy winner Bobby Unser.

Eleven of Saturday's 23 qualifiers turned in speeds better than the record of 171.559 set three years ago by Joe Leonard with a Pratt and Whitney turbine engine ineligible under present rules.

Revson, whose car is owned by the McLaren racing team, had been running slower than Donohue in practice. Donohue, whose car is owned by veteran racer Roger Penske of Philadelphia, could manage only 177.087 Saturday against an unofficial run Thursday at more than 180.

HULME FOURTH

Unser, who did 175.816 in an Eagle-Offenhauser, beat out Denis Hulme, former world Grand Prix champion from New Zealand, who was fourth-fastest at 174.910 in the third Mark 16. Hulme and Revson are teammates on the British McLaren factory team.

Records were set twice before Revson nailed down the pole. Three-time 500 winner A. J. Foyt Jr., Houston, Tex., started the parade by doing 174.317 in one of his own Coyote-Fords. The mark was erased by Donohue at 177.087 and then by Revson.

The field is subject to additional qualifications Sunday and next weekend. The 33 fastest cars in the four time trials will start the race.

Ego-Building Chat Helps Red Rooster

By The Associated Press

Just when it appeared the Redhead was dead, Houston Astros manager Harry Walker breathed life into slump-buried Doug Rader.

"I might not be out of my slump yet ,except for Harry — he took me to his room in New York last week and talked about my problems," said Houston's third baseman, dubbed Red Rooster for his flaming hair and gregarious ways.

Rader responded with the ego-building chat wih his second straight two-hit game Sunday, including six runs batted in on a grand-slam home run and double, to Lead Houson over St. Louis Cardinals 12.4.

In other National League action Sunday, Pittsburgh Pirates beat New York Mets 4-2; Philadelphia Phillies axed Atlants Braves 4-3; Montreal Expos clobbered Cincinnati Reds 9-3; Los Angeles Dodgers tripped San Francisco Giants 9-6; and Chicago Cubs topped San Diego Padres 9-8 in 10 innings. The second game of a Chicago-San Diego doubleheader was suspended after six innings because of darkness with the Cubs leading 6-3. It will be completed Aug. 4.

GAME WAS OFF

Indeed, Rader had problems before the talk. He was hitting .154 and had no homers and only five runs batted in to show for more than 30 games — a dramatic back-flip from last year's 25 homers and 87 RBI.

Rader ripped the third grand slam of his five-year career in the first inning off Jerry Reuss, touching off Houston's biggest splurge of the year — 17 hits.

Richie Hebner, Manny Sanguillen and Bob Robertson stoked run-scoring hits and Dave Giusti choked off a ninth-inning rally as Pittsburgh beat New York and climbed to within two games of the Mets in the East Division.

BATEMAN CONNECTS

John Bateman drove in four runs with a homer and sacrifice fly to lead Montreal over Cincinnati. Bateman delivered a first-inning run with his fly ball and added the crusher with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Wes Parker's two-run homer highlighted a three-run eighth and Los Angeles struck for three more in the ninth for a comeback victory over San Francisco.

Denny McLain and Joe Coleman have taken turns putting one over on their old American League friends with a lot of help from their new friends.

Coleman, traded to Detroit Tigers from Washington last fall in the celebrated McLain deal, pitched against the Senators for the first time Sunday and beat them 5-4 on Mickey Stanley's second home run of the game.

Last Friday night, McLain made his first start against the Tigers and blew a 2-0 advantage in the ninth inning before winning 3-2 on Paul Casanova's sacrifice fly.

CHISOX STOPPED

In other American League games Sunday, Minnesota Twins defeated Chicago White Sox 6-2; Milwaukee Brewers topped California Angels 6-2 and Oakland Athletics divided a doubleheader with Kansas City Royals, bowing 10-4 after a 4-2 first-game victory. Rain washed out the Baltimore Orioles-Boston Red Sox game and the Cleveland Indians-New York Yankees doubleheader.

Second-inning homers by Stanley and Norm Cash helped stake Coleman to a 4-0 lead, but big Frank Howard lashed a homer and run-scoring single as the Senators fought back to tie.

Coleman, who suffered a fractured skull when he was hit by a line drive in a March 27 exhibition game, was on the ropes after Howard's fifth-inning single knotted it.

But Tigers' manager Billy Martin stuck with the 24-year-old right-hander and he responded by tossing one-hit ball the rest of the way while Stanley broke the deadlock with a leadoff homer off reliever Denny Riddleberger in the eighth.

Cesar Tovar scored the deciding run on a sixth-inning balk by Chicago reliever Vicente Romo as the Twins came from behind to trim the White Sox. Romo was charged with a balk when he slipped off the mound on a 2-0 pitch to Jim Holt, enabling Tovar to score and break a 2-2 tie.

John (Blue Moon) Odom, making his first start of the season after recovering from winter elbow surgery, pitched six strong innings for Oakland in the nightcap before going out for a pinch-hitter. But Kansas City overcame a 4-2 deficit in the seventh with a four-run uprising keyed by Bobby Knoop's two-run pinch single and then punched over four more runs in the eighth to salvage a split of their doubleheader.

Stewards' Ruling Upsets British Rider

THE CURRAGH, Ireland (Reuter) — British champion jockey Lester Piggot said Saturday he would never ride in Ireland again after his objection to the winner of the Irish Two Thousand Guineas horse race was turned down by The Curragh stewards.

Piggott, riding Sparkler, finished second in a photo-finish to French champion jockey Freddie Head on Kings Company in the $42,456 race over one mile.

After the stewards announced an inquiry into the photo-finish, Piggott lodged an objection to the winner on the grounds that Head had impeded him.

* * *

Before the stewards announced their decision, Piggott said:

"If I do not get this race there will be no justice and I'll never again come to Ireland."

After the stewards had confirmed Kings Company's victory, Piggott repeated his threat to boycott Irish meetings and added:

"I was murdered. For more than a furlong and a half the Frenchman hampered me."

Head denied Piggott's charges.

"Lester is no fool. He knew he was not going to win the race and so he started to play-act."

* * *

Kings Company, American-owned and Irish-trained, finished a neck in front of Sparkler.

Kings Company started at 9-2 in the 14-horse field, in which Sparkler ran at 5-2. Outsider Kings View was third, a head away, at 100-1.

Had Piggott's objection been upheld he would have scored a double following his win on English filly Favoletta in the Irish One Thousand Guineas over one mile earlier Saturday.

Piggott also figured in a photo-finish in this race, worth a total of $37,864, beating Irish entry Mariel by a neck.

Playoff Needed To Break PCSL's Tieup at Fourth

Victoria United will face Croatia but Vancouver Columbus will have to wait before its semifinal rival will be known after a unique, three-way tie for fourth place developed at the close of the regular Pacific Coast League campaign Sunday.

Firefighters, North Shore and Eintracht all finished with 26 points. North Shore will play off with Firefighters on Tuesday at Vancouver's Empire Stadium, with the winner going against Eintracht on Thursday for the right to play Columbus in the semi-final.

The Victoria-Croatia sudden-death semi-final will be played at Royal Athletic Park on May 24.

The weekend's three schedule-closing games all figured directly in the three-way tie. The Firemen made their big move Saturday by blanking Westminster Blues 2-0, but flubbed an outright chance to "take it all" by struggling to a scoreless draw with Paul's Canadians on Sunday.

North Shore got into the act with a telling 2-0 Sunday triumph over last-place UBC Thunderbirds.

Firemen won Saturday's match on second-half goals by Dan Rosengren and Bob Rose. On Sunday, playing their second game in as many days, they lacked the pep and had to settle for a draw with the seventh-ranked Canadians.

North Shore won with a goal in each half. Colin Atkinson provided the first, two minutes before the half, and inside left Ken Legge rapped in the insurance with only six minutes remaining in the game.

Eintracht and Canadians advanced to the Province Cup final in non-league action at the weekend. Paul's carved out a 2-1 victory over Royal Oak of the Mainland League on Saturday while Eintracht shaded Croatia 1-0 in Sunday's semi-final.

CUT IT FINE

Inside left Ron MacDonald scored the winning goal for Paul's with only two seconds remaining in overtime. Tommy Neuman scored the Canadians' other goal while Jack Perry replied for Royal Oak.

A penalty goal by fullback Wolfgang Bludeau gave Eintracht it's ticket to the cup final.

SELECTED to Canadian baseball team that will represent Canada at Pan-American Games in Cali, Colombia in July is George Brice, 31-year-old Victoria pitcher. Players are being picked from across country to form team that will replace Victoria Centennials, who were promised Pan-Am berth after winning national senior title last summer.

Leigh Claims Cup

LONDON (CP) — Leigh crushed Leeds, 24-7, at Wembley Stadium Saturday and won the English Rugby League Cup for the first time in 50 years.

United Blanks All-Stars 5-0

Victoria United made the most of its second chance. The Pacific Coast Soccer League team captured the Tony Hope Memorial Trophy at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday by defeating the District League All-Stars 5-0 in their annual challenge match.

The game was a replay of a 1-1 draw that resulted earlier in the season.

The All-Stars played Sunday without five players originally assigned to the team. United took advantage to control play most of the way.

The PCSL squad jumped into a 2-0 half-time lead on goals by Ash Valdal and rookie Mark Robb, then sealed victory on second-half goals by Ike MacKay, Jan Bentley and Gil McIlraith.

The replay served as a warmup for both teams. United is scheduled to play its PCSL semi-final match May 24 while the All-Stars will be hosts for the Russell Cup tournament May 29-30 at Royal Athletic Park.

The District League honored five players and a team at its awards banquet Saturday night. Dan Green of Gorge's third-division team, Barry Robbins of the second-division London Boxing Club and Peter Lord of the first-division Village Green were named the league's most valuable performers.

Robbie Williams of Vic West was named the first division's rookie of the year and Graham Lee of Gorge Molsons was selected as the outstanding goalkeeper.

The referees' sportsmanship trophy went to Vic West of the second division.

ENGLISH STOP IRISH ON DISPUTED GOAL

(Times News Services)

England survived hectic pressure to defeat Northern Ireland 1-0 with a bitterly-disputed goal in the British international soccer tournament Saturday while Wales and Scotland slithered to a scoreless draw.

England's Allan Clarke scored 10 minutes from he end in the game at Belfast. The Irish claimed that Francis Lee punched the ball forward to give Clarke his chance.

Northern Ireland, hoping to beat England at home for the first time in 44 years, did all the attacking in the first half and England was lucky to hold out at 0-0 at half-time.

It was not until George Best, a star of the Northern Irish attack, was slowed up by an injury in the second half that England really got going.

At Carfiff, a crowd of 19,000 saw the Scottish goalie survive heavy Welsh pressure in atrocious conditions. Ninian Park Stadium was filled with puddles after hours of steady rain.

RADIO SHIP BOMBING MASTERMIND SOUGHT

AMSTERDAM (Reuter — Dutch police sought today the mastermind behind the weekend fire-bombing of a pirate radio ship after announcing that two of three men detained in connection with the plot had confessed.

Commander Theo Nelissen of the Dutch state water police said the three—all professional frogmen—were believed to have been paid to carry out the raid on the 670-ton vessel, Radio North Sea International, which operates just outside Holland's territorial waters.

Two of the three young men, all seized Sunday less than 24 hours after the attack, admitted complicity but the third was still denying involvement, he said. Their names were not released.

Late Saturday, Radio North Sea International broadcast Mayday messages, breaking into a music program, saying the ship was on fire. Ten of the crew of 13, including three disc jockeys, took to the lifeboats.

Police later boarded the vessel to investigate the cause of the five-hour blaze. When it was extinguished the crew and disc jockeys returned to the ship and programs were resumed.

USED RUBBER BOAT

Nelissen told a news conference the three professional frogmen had left from the nearby port of Scheveningen in a rubber boat Saturday night at a time when most of the crew of Radio North Sea were watching a soccer game on television.

One man remained in the rubber boat and the other two climbed aboard and went to the ship's engine room.

Nelissen said the men deposited sacks of old rags soaked in gasoline next to a fuel tank. They attached a stick of dynamite to the tank and ran a fuse to the ship's railing.

There was a violent explosion and the men were either blown overboard or managed to get away in time. The stern and the bridge of Radio North Sea were destroyed.

After the explosion the three men returned to Scheveningen. Nearing the beach they threw their outboard motor into the sea and cut the rubber boat to pieces. They hid the remains with their diving suits in the sand dunes, police said.

Nelissen said the police had managed to track the men down rapidly because they had had a tip from an anonymous caller who was indignant at the report—later proved incorrect—that the captain of Radio North Sea was killed.

Flowers of the World Right in Victoria

ELIZABETH FORBES

Albert de Mezey grows orchids (he calls them lady slippers) in his garden on Foul Bay Road. "They are the hardy varieties," he explains, "from the mountains in the Yukon, the Himalayas and from Japan. Given right conditions, they grow easily and they multiply here."

Right conditions mean right exposure, soil and habitat, and these Albert de Mezey will work hours and days to recreate, with the result that his orchids (or lady slippers) flourish and produce many blooms.

* * *

At our feet as we talked was a speciman of a ramshorn orchid. "They grow anywhere in Canada." Around us in pockets of soil on the rocks and nestled in the shelter of shrubs and plants were dainty mauve and white pleiones from the rocky cliffs of the Himalayas. Still to bloom this year are some from high places in Japan.

While de Mezey is proud of his orchids they are not his first love. It goes to the hybrid rhododendrons that with patience and care he has produced over the years (they are considered by experts to be far superior to many commercial hybrids) and to his collection of rock plants.

In his travels as an industrial consultant he has been as far away as the Greek Isles, Macedonia and Portugal and as near to home as the Siskayous in the western states. Many vacations have also being spent climbing in the mountains, especially the Olympics, looking for the rare and the beautiful in flowers and plants.

* * *

A rentemtive memory has allowed him to bring specimens to the Foul Bay place and to re-plant them in almost the exact surroundings from which they were taken.

An able assistant is his sister Mary. Together they form a team it would be hard to equal. They know every flower by name, both the common and the botanical. They can tell you how long it has taken each one to flower and to throw seed.

Right now they are enthusiastic over a rock plant Lewisia Tweedii — from the Wenatchees. It has candy-striped pink and white flowers and from two original specimens brought in several years ago, a whole row of seedings is now in bloom.

* * *

As far as the rhododendrons are concerned, the de Mezeys are considered to have the largest and best collection in Victoria and their hybrids have brought many professionals to the city to admire and hopefully, to buy.

Here the brother-and-sister team explain that in order to cross "rhodos" successfully, every seed not wanted must be individually picked off before they mature. There's a sticky fluid exuding from these seeds. "It's like glue," Mary said, "and sometimes even paint remover won't take it off your fingers."

The de Mezey family came to Victoria in 1946 and bought "Kildonan" the original Sutherland home on Foul Bay Road. In the first three or four years they did nothing but "scrape things down to the bare rock and bring in new soil." After that they were ready to landscape and to start their collections.

Today, the place draws garden lovers as individuals, as color camera buffs and in garden club groups. They find the rhododendrons at their best from February to the end of April with late varieties in bloom during this month of May. They also find such rare plants as Ramonda Natalia, a lovely pinkish-mauve flower from the Mediterranean "it's a cousin of the African violet."

* * *

They see genista and dwarf broom from the Greek Isles, clematis from the Montana mountains, creeping rhododendrons, rock campanulas and iris, pentstimmons, and of course, the orchids.

Right now they will also see Albert de Mezey's latest project. "It's a small pond with a creek flowing out of it and down to what will be a bog."

In that bog he already sees in his mind's eye, a collection of bog plants from distant places of the world.

Strip Show Costly

SAIGON (Reuter) — A striptease show for political warfare trainees helped cost a South Vietnamese lieutenant colonel his job because of "mistakes," a South Vietnamese military spokesman said. Other mistakes were the use of subordinates for private business and letting private bidders profit on army food supplies.

Volatile Week of Debate Over Grains, Jobless Faces House

By KEVIN DOYLE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons today enters what may prove to be a volatile week of debate on subjects ranging from proposed changes in the Canadian Wheat Board Act through unemployment to possible public order legislation.

Debate today was expected to be devoted to government proposals for changing the Wheat Board Act to permit inclusion of rapseed, flax and rye under the wheat board, which now control wheat, oats and barley.

The proposed amendments, basically, would make the act conform to changes already made in Canada's grain-marketing system. The measure, now at second-reading stage, would adjust the act to take into account new protein-grading standards set out in the Canada Grains Act which took effect April 1.

Several bills dealing with the grains industry have come under sustained opposition fire in the Commons recently. Opposition parties, particularly the Conservatives, have branded the government's entire grains program as inadequate and shortsighted.

Tuesday and Friday are days allotted to opposition parties for discussions of whatever issues they choose.

SUBJECT NOT SET

The subject for those debates had not been finally settled. But they almost are certain to provide vehicles for a continuing opposition onslaught against the government's economic policies.

Conservative and New Democrat MPs tried to force an emergency debate last week following the announcement Thursday that the seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate climbed to 6.7 per cent of the labor force in April from six per cent in March.

Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux turned down the opposition requests suggesting that unemployment should be discussed on opposition days.

Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin said it would be decided later today which parties would use the opposition days and what specific motions would be put forward for debate.

There appeared to be general agreement, however, that unemployment and economic problems would dominate both days.

DEBATE PUBLIC ORDER

Wednesday, the House will resume debate on the government's motion to refer the issue of possible public order legislation to a committee.

The motion would have a Commons - Senate committee consider replacement legislation for the Public Order (Temporary Measures) Act, 1970, which expired April 30. The act was passed last December to give police emergency powers to deal with terrorism in Quebec.

In debate on the motion last week, New Democrat Leader David Lewis declared outright opposition to the move. He said special legislation was not necessary but that the motion assumed it was.

Justice Minister John Turner said the federal government believes legislation is needed but that no special investigation of government action during last fall's Quebec crisis was necessary.

The Conservatives insist that the committee examine the government's actions in the crisis.

B.C. REACTION COOL TO 28-PROVINCE IDEA

VANCOUVER (CP) — A national Conservative party study group suggestion that Canada's 10 provinces be split into 28 or 30 has met with disfavor among British Columbia politicians.

"It would be a backward step to the days of the city-state," Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said in an interview Sunday, adding that members of the group must be out of their minds.

"They'd better go back to their study group . . . A city like Vancouver just can't live without its hinterland. Their whole idea sounds screwy."

The study, findings of which are to be sent to Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, suggests dividing Canada into metropolitan and rural provinces with constitutional status and powers of taxation.

Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver said he is opposed to the concept because the country has enough problems of unity with 10 provinces.

"In the years to come we'll need to make Canada even stronger if it is going to survive," the mayor said. "I don't think we need 28 or 30 principalities at a time like this."

NEED MORE TAXES

He said he agrees that cities need more taxing authority or at least more access to tax revenue, but he was "not prepared to destroy Canada."

John de Wolf, Progressive Conservative leader in British Columbia, said the idea of setting up more provinces is "very stimulating" but impractical.

"Small units are always nice and in many ways easier to handle," he said. "But the lack of money facing cities can more effectively be solved by better distribution of revenue, especially at the provincial level."

Mr. de Wolf said cities will need a slice of income tax now divided between federal and provincial governments.

He said that if the study is presented for a vote at the Conservative party's annual national meeting in October, most B.C. delegates would probably be opposed.

Canadian Dies During Sky-Dive

TOKYO (Reuter) — A 24-year-old Canadian died today when his parachute failed to open during sky-diving training. The Canadian, an English language instructor in Tokyo, was identified as Thomas Morgan Howard. He leaped from a Cessna plane at an altitude of about 5,000 feet, police said.

CAUGHT COLD

Giving Them Up: How Not to Do It

There I was, you see, in this tiny little office. Fifteen full storeys above the street level. Totally removed from prying eyes. Furtively I locked the door. Placed the key on my desk, right next to the package of King-sized cigarettes. For several melancholy minutes I gazed from the window across the panorama of the city, knowing that the battle was lost. I broke open the cigarettes. Placed one between my lips. Reached for a match. . . .

Yes, finally, after all these years, I am about to confess the whole story of the rise and all but simultaneous fall of The Nevertouchem Club, sometimes known as The Instant Crusade.

* * *

There are two questions I'm always asked in this, my centennial year in newspapering: 1—Did you really take all your clothes off when you wrote your five-part series on the Sunny Trails Nudist Colony? and 2—How long were you a member in good standing as president of The Nevertouchem Club? The answer to the former is yes, every last stitch. The answer to the latter is what will occupy us for the next three or four minutes.

The subject arises now because Robert Ludwig, secretary-treasurer of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada has just informed me that May 31 will be the 11th annual Non-Smokers Day and has suggested that I might help the cause along with a few well-chosen words. The first Non-Smokers Day, by the way, was inaugurated right here in Victoria by Mr. Ludwig and Eric Martin, then provincial minister of health.

It is now Mr. Ludwig's conviction — sadly naive, I fear — that the continuing campaign on the perils of Lady Nicotine across the years has had its effect on every receptive mind and that the message must be sharpened to penetrate the brains, if such they be, of the smokers he describes as The High-Resistant Types.

It's unlikely that I'll be of much help there. Smoking is a dreadful, stupid habit. That much I know. But I am one of those whose constant, continuing efforts to give it up have resulted only in total corrosion of the will-power.

If I learned anything at all it is simply this: If you are going to give them up do it quietly, unobtrusively, behind closed doors. Never, never make it a public display unless you're absolutely certain that you'll carry it through.

That was the story when I formed The Nevertouchem Club a dozen-odd years ago. I announced it with everything but the band of the Coldstream Guards. I had had small, plastic lapel buttons made with the word "Nevertouchem" upon them. Membership would cost but a single dime. We would all wear our buttons for the world to see, help and inspire each other in the manner of Alcoholics Anonymous, and throw off the habit through beautiful togetherness.

The response was overwhelming. It seemed as if the whole world had just been waiting for such an aswer. Eight hundred dimes arrived on my desk the very next day, a thousand more the day after. A stenographer was assigned to handle the mounds of correspondence. A man from Time Magazine arrived to interview me for the long story the following week, illustrated by me looking heroic and pointing with pride at my button. Canadian Press, Associated Press and United Press picked up the story. The mail and dimes began to pour in from all over North America. By the week's end we had some 4,000 members.

Day after day I was effortlessly filling my column with extracts from the letters. They were funny, pathetic, wistful, determined, poignant, buoyant, full of wonderful anecdotes, ready-made material to plug the insatiable void of my allotted daily space.

* * *

After a full week of it, however, the managing editor called me into his office.

"Your Nevertouchem thing has been sensational," he said in his usual rhetorical way, "but isn't it time you got back to some other subjects?"

I went back up to my 15th floor eyrie and rolled the paper into my Remington and sat there for a very long time staring numbly at the whiteness. My brain, so magnificently purged of tars and nicotine, was a total blank. Deep down I knew that without that familiar blue curl of smoke, without the habit pattern of a lifetime, I would not be doing any writing that day or in the days to come.

I took the unopened pack of cigarettes from the drawer where I had kept it as a gesture of defiance and placed it on the desk. Then I locked the door, stared at the city below, opened the pack, took out the dirty, nasty cigarette and lit up.

As I turned back to my typewriter, alive with ideas, a shadow fell across my desk and, wheeling in a sudden panic, I saw that a window cleaner was coming into view on the electrified platform known as "the spider" that runs up and down the outside of the building. Hypnotically I watched the figure come to a stop directly outside my window. Just as hypnotically the window cleaner was staring at the cigarette I held in my hand. Slowly, soundlessly, his face contorted with scorn and accusation, he raised his hand and pointed to the lapel of his cover-alls. There it was: The Nevertouchem Button.

That very afternoon I resigned from the leadership of the club and turned it over to my colleague Barry Mather, who remains, to this day, the honorary president of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada, a feat he managed, I'm convinced, by giving up writing and going into politics. I, myself, went to Mexico until the heat had cooled down and never gave up anything ever again.

Ask the Times

Q. Would you let me have the address of an authority on coats of arms and the address of the society which undertakes the tracing of a family's beginning?—A.B.

A. We suggest you write the College of Arms, Queen Victoria Street, London E.C.4, or the Sanson Institute of Heraldry in Boston, or Prof. A. L. C. Atkinson, 10651 Blue Heron Road, North Saanich.

Q. Can you tell me if Dr. Walter Alvarez is still living?—A.M.

A. Alvarez is still alive and contines to travel around the United States delivering lectures to medical groups, as well as write his syndicated column of advice. He has an office at 700 Michigan Ave. North, Chicago. Alvarez is 87.

Ask the Times erroneously reported May 8 that widows in B.C. can apply for a provincial government widow's pension through the city welfare department. B.C. has no such pension for widows.

The correct answer should have been that widows under 65 can apply for social assistance through the welfare department and widows over 65 are eligible for old age security.

CONTRACT STATISTICS . . . . . . SHOW NO PROVISIONS

Labor's 'Equal Pay for Women' Cry Not Backed Up

British Columbia trade unions claim to be in the forefront of the fight for equal pay for women, but statistics show a different story.

A survey by the B.C. labor department providing "a relatively good representation of contracts" shows that 95.1 per cent of the surveyed contracts contained no provision for equal pay for equal work.

At the last convention of the B.C. Federation of Labor, the human rights committee said of women's rights:

* * *

"Your committee suggests that the trade union movement, which has already done much in fighting for equal pay and equal treatment for women in industry, continue these efforts and make a particular effort to support attempts by women to achieve fair and equal treatment in every aspect of life.

"In addition, we recommend that it be drawn to the attention of women concerned about achieving equal rights and fair treatment the advantages of trade union organization to assist in their efforts.

"Equal pay, promotion opportunities, etc. have over the years been won for many women through collective agreements negotiated by trade unions. Unions are eager to assist further in this regard and can do much to achieve equality on behalf of women who are organized into trade unions."

* * *

The labor department's survey covered 202 union contracts and 13,948 employees. Only 5 per cent of the contracts covering 1.4 per cent of the employees had equal pay provisions.

G. D. Bishop, director of the labor department's research branch, said in a foreword to the survey that the analysis "does not necessarily reflect the entire picture for all agreements" in force in B.C.

He also said that "while only 13,948 employees are covered by the agreements under study, it should be appreciated that the provisions as detailed in the following tables are representative of a much larger segment of the labor force."

* * *

The survey also shows that 92.1 per cent of union agreements have no provision for maternity leave. But only 1.5 per cent of agreements have separate seniority units for women.

Police Pay Objective 'Impossible'

Ald. Percy Frampton, Victoria's finance chairman, said today a 16.4-per-cent pay increase for the police force would mean a deficit budget for the city.

Frampton said the increase Greater Victoria police are seeking this year is "out of this world" and "almost impossible" to meet.

"I can't understand their thinking," he said. Seeking parity with Vancouver police is a wrong principle, he added. "I feel police work in Vancouver is much more dangerous and always has been."

Frampton said if a check is made with any Victoria policeman, "you will find they live very, very well." Their children wear good shoes and they drive nice cars, he said

Meanwhile, Greater Victoria mayors reacted cautiously to the Vancouver salary settlement, which is in a one-year contract. But they were more definite in commenting on local police unions seeking parity with Vancouver.

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said he thinks it will be "a long and troublesome negotiation" locally but he was reluctant to "negotiate through the news media."

* * *

He said it would be "unwise" for the chairman of any police commission to comment in detail until local police unions had submitted new proposals, following the Vancouver settlement.

Asked if Saanich has enough money set aside to cover a 16.4 per cent settlement, he replied "I won't comment."

Victoria's civic budget, already established, includes provision for 7½ per cent increase in police payroll.

Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock said the city cannot afford to pay substantial increased costs. He called for "not overpay, not underpay, but fair pay."

On parity, he said "it's impossible to pay parity with Vancouver, New York or Los Angeles. I think our men realize that too."

Esquimalt Mayor Art Young said parity isn't realistic.

"People living in Victoria assume they work for less. The pace is a little slower, you live closer to work. There's probably not so much pressure," he said.

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford said "I feel wage negotiations should be discussed with the parties concerned before they are discussed with the media. This is a terribly ticklish situation."

* * *

The Vancouver settlement was made by arbitrator D. R. Blair, a former police commissioner.

Under his binding decision, a first-class constable (normally reached after three years as a policeman) will see his salary rise from $762 a month to $887 by July 1.

In a written summary, Blair said Vancouver city police are entitled to wages equal to those in Montreal, Toronto and other major Canadian cities.

Since 1966, he said, Vancouver police have dropped from first place to 12th in wage rates among police forces of major cities.

"In fact, in 1970, there were some 40-odd Canadian police forces whose members were receiving higher wages than those paid to Vancouver police," he said.

In Greater Victoria, where a first-class constable now earns $728 a month or $34 a month below the 1970 Vancouver rate, the local forces will be "pushing for the same increase and at the same time we'll be trying to close the gap," said Staff Sgt. Ted Owens, president of the Saanich Police Association.

* * *

"I know we are asking for a lot, but do you keep falling back?" he asked, adding that local police were once only $8 a month behind Vancouver.

He also said that police forces surrounding Vancouver are paid more than in Greater Victoria, as are the RCMP.

"I feel sorry for the old-age pensioner on a fixed income but we're not big enough to swing the cost-of-living," he said.

"I don't think the public is against paying the police close to parity, but certainly not to keep falling back."

He said local police would fall $75 to $80 a month or more behind Vancouver if they accept the 7½ per cent pattern of municipal wage increases in 1971.

Weekend Storm Creates Work For Rescue Co-Ordinators

The Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Esquimalt handled 21 marine incidents over the weekend as winds gusting to 60 miles an hour hit the B.C. coast.

Most occurred in the area of Nanaimo, Vancouver and the Gulf Islands.

BOATS MOVED

The boat was found washed up on Gooch Island, east of Sidney Spit.

A centre official said most incidents were minor — boats running for shelter and being reported overdue, and others needing tows.

An emergency volunteer work party was called into action Saturday night at Cadboro Bay when the winds reached a peak of 51 miles an hour at 8:20 p.m.

Boats of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at outlying fingers were moved out of the brunt of the storm. Some were in danger of tangling their rigging in that of adjoining boats as they were tossed like corks.

The fury of the storm continued Sunday, accompanied by lashing rain. Blowing steadily at 40 miles an hour, peak gusts of 60 miles an hour were recorded at 3:40 p.m.

B.C. Hydro and B.C. Tel officials here reported only minor incidents. It was a different story on the Mainland, where massive power failures were caused by falling trees.

Today's sunny skies are expected to disappear tonight as another storm system moves in bringing cloud and keeping temperatures down to the low 60s.

REST HOME EVICTION MEET SET

Victoria and Vancouver officials of the B.C. Rest Home Association will meet Wednesday to consider the next moves in the threatened eviction of welfare patients.

John Hanrahan of Victoria, vice-president of the association, said government officials have known of the problem of payment for welfare cases since last June "and will get no warning this time."

Victoria rest home operators decided last week to discharge welfare patients to general hospitals, in the dispute with the government over payments for these people. No date has been announced for the eviction.

Job-Seekers Jostle for Elbow-Room

Manpower Student Centre Now Open

The Canada Manpower student centre in the Belmont Building this morning was short on elbow room.

When the doors opened at 8:30 a.m. on the first formal day of application filling, over 25 students poured in and jammed the counters.

"The place is in a bit of a tumult," said Grant Price, one of two University of Victoria students on the Manpower staff. "It's going to take a couple of hours just to file these applications."

The job-seekers were mostly high school students trying to arrange jobs starting next month.

SMALL PORTION

However, they represent only a small portion of those seeking work — over 200 applications have already been filed by students who didn't want to wait until official opening day.

To deal with this kind of rush, Canada Manpower has on a national level been hiring university students for the past couple of summers to operate special centres. Not only does such a policy provide students with jobs, but the idea is that students are highly qualified to service their peers.

With this in mind Uvic students Rosemary Griffin, 18, and Price, 19, started work last Wednesday. In addition, two other Uvic students will join the staff June 1.

Their jobs include registering students and referring them to suitable job openings as well as canvassing businessmen to line up jobs.

Anyone with a job to offer, full or part-time, can help increase that elbow room by phoning the centre at 385-6711.

SAANICH COUNCIL REPEATS HISTORY

Saanich council will hold an old-time meeting next week in the old Craiglower school house as part of the Victoria Days celebrations.

The nine-member council will arrive by carriage at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 25, to face some of the contentious early issues of Saanich council.

They include: A complaint of unsanitary farm premises, permitting animals to roam at large and several fence problems.

"We are also faced with a request for a school budget of $20,000 to $25,000, which of course is exorbitant," said Mayor Hugh Curtis.

He also said — tongue in cheek — that he is "very concerned" about the status of Ald. Edith Gunning, who is sitting on council before the franchise was extended to women.

But, of course, Curtis is masquerading as a mayor — they were called reeves then.

Sale Stock Must Be Adequate, U.S. Commission Tells Stores

WASHINGTON (WP) — Food stores and chains which advertise "specials" must have sufficient quantities at the advertised price in all stores for the duration of the sales, the federal trade commission has ruled.

A store would thus have to make sure it had enough of the advertised items to accommodate coustomers "during the effective period" of the sale.

The goods also must be "conspicuously and readily available" for sale at all the chain's stores in the ad's circulation area, they said.

It would not do, the agency added, to advertise general disclaimers that "not all items are available in all stores" or that an item is "available in most stores."

Though the rule applies only to food stores the commission announced — presumably as a guide to other retail businesses such as drugs and hardware — that in further action it would regard principles as applicable to advertising of other commodities.

The regulation takes effect July 12.

Providing customers with "rain checks" when an item is not available will not be viewed as complying with the rule, said the agency, although it will be considered if goods are unavailable for reasons beyond the store's control.

Robert Pitofsky, director of the FTC's bureau of consumer protection, said the rule, proposed some time ago, results from studies showing widespread unavailability and mispricing of advertised food products — especially in low-income areas.

He said they didn't find an intent to defraud the public in the low-income area stores, so much as a lack of competition and smaller, less efficient stores.

"We would hope this rule would make food products at the sales prices more consistently available," Pitofsky said.

One of the studies centred on 137 stores operated by 10 chains in the Washington metropolitan area and in San Francisco. Eleven per cent of the advertised items in the two cities were not available at any store, and only eight stores had all items available. In each city, considerably more products were unavailable in low-income area stores than in higher-income-area stores.

A violation of the rule is considered unfair competition or a deceptive practice and is punishable by fines of $5,000 per day per violation.

Nurses Support Abortion

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — The Alberta Association of Registered Nurses has put itself on record as favoring therapeutic abortions without recourse to an abortion committee.

It also urged the establishment of family planning programs throughout the province and supported the right of nurses to abstain from abortion procedures on moral grounds.

The Association's executive council asked the annual convention to approve therapeutic abortions that where agreed upon by the woman and her doctor without going through a hospital committee.

In debate from the floor, some nurses objected this was essentially abortion on demand while others said it did not matter because "in many cases women and doctors are already deciding abortion committees are rubber stamping.

The convention decided nurses could refrain from taking part in abortion "provided the patient's right to receive the necessary nursing care would take precedence over exercise of the nurses individual beliefs and freedoms."

STATUS OF WOMEN STUDY

Women Fail in Critical Arts

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian women have done better in the arts than in any other field of competitive activity, study done for the royal commission on the status of women says.

The monograph, written by Sandra Gwyn, points up considerable discrepancies, however, in aspects of work in the visual, performing and literary arts.

"As interpreters — actresses, musicians, dancers — Canadian women have a proud record," the study says "As activitsts, administrators, and spokesmen, their record is exceptional.

"But as creative artistis — painters ,sculptors, novelists, poets, playwrights and composers — their record, like that of women in most countries, is on the dull side of respectable. They have failed in the only aspect of the arts that ultimately matters."

The answer to the question why varies. Some persons, many of them women, contend there is an essential difference between male and female artistic creativity, while others say women have not been creators in the arts largely because society has conditioned them to accept a secondary role.

In the performing arts, women who choose to become directors rather than performers face many of the same disadvantages confronting women executives.

"Everyone knows that only a woman can sing Butterfly or play Juliet, but there are many who believe that only a man can adequately direct or produce her performance. And the notion that only a man can win community or business support for a performing arts venture is even more ingrained."

Women have yet to find room at the top of Canadian theatre, unless they own the theatre, the study concludes.

In the field of music, women were always encouraged to take part — but not an important one.

Canadian women had, however, "cultivated a rich and abundant garden" in the field of performance allotted to them. They had also contributed much as music teachers.

Of all the art forms, only ballet has "a feminine mystique."

In the literary arts, fewer women than men were writers. A more important cause of this than discrimination was "the sexuality of women, from which they can no more escape by writing than by becoming business executives, lawyers or doctors."

FAMILY SECTION

Ontario Losers Celebrate Gains

OTTAWA (CP) — Any man attracted to female flesh would have had more than his fill Friday night at Ottawa's National Arts Centre. There was tons of it.

Two thousand overweight ladies jammed themselves into the opera seats for fellowship night activities at the annual Ontario TOPS convention.

TOPS—for Take Off Pounds Sensibly—is a 23-year old worldwide organization dedicated to mutual aid in losing weight.

In 1970 the 300,000 members, 90 per cent of them women, lost a combined total of 1,225 tons of fat.

More than 20,000 Canadian members belong to the country's 900 local clubs.

TOPS methods are patterned after those of Alcoholics Anonymous, but with one major difference—there is nothing anonymous about being fat.

The evening began with a long parade of women who have had major weight losses.

The biggest loser—Edna Ward of Cornwall, Ont.—had dropped 186 pounds from some much larger total, discreetly withheld.

WON BATHING BEAUTY

The winner of the bathing suit contest, Carol Taylor of Stouffville, Ont., was 96 pounds lighter than when she joined the club. Her initial weight was withheld.

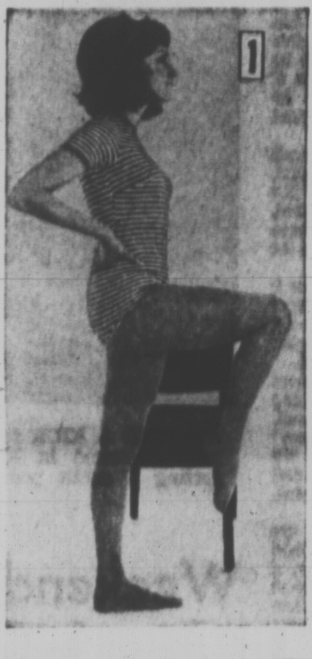
The ladies in the dress parade displayed their old pre-TOPS apparel, well-stuffed with pillows and balloons to take the place of discarded natural bagginess.

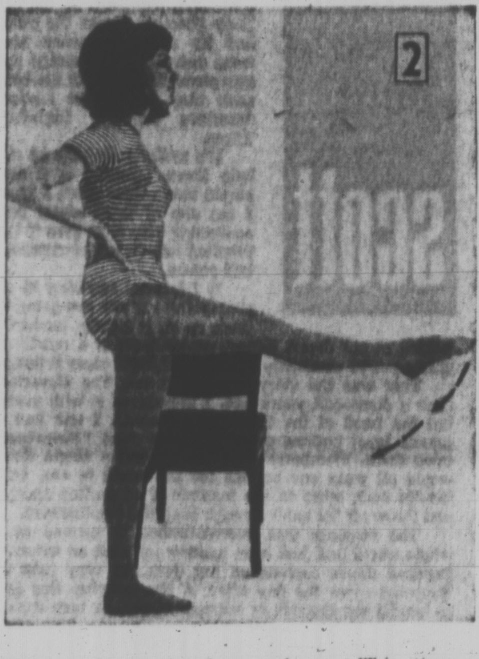
Crowning of the year's best loser was the main event Saturday.

Thirty-one-year-old Juliana Dion of Welland, Ont., looked fit and trim in a white lace gown when she received the honor.

Mrs. Dion said in an interview she had lost 110 pounds from her five-foot five-inch frame.

In February 1969 she weighted 253 pounds. Ten months after joining TOPS she dropped to 143.





This exercise slims the upper legs. Place a hand on the back of a chair or on the wall for balance, Bend your right knee up in front of you, lower leg at right angles to upper leg, toe pointed (1). Straighten your leg as you kick forward vigorously (2).

Again bend your knee. This time kick backward. Bend your knee up again and continue kicking forward and backward and bending the knee in between kicks. Do this briskly. After 12 kicks do the same thing with your left leg.

Walk Away From Temptation

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I wish I could peek in the window and see how some of my readers are prgressing with my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan. When I had time to teach private figure moulding classes, I got as big a kick as my pupils did when their bulges began to disappear and they began to feel lighter and happier.

This is the halfway mark for those of you who have been following Bip from the start. It is time to take stock. I am sure that most of you are pleased with yourselves, and with good reason. You have probably lost eight or ten pounds. However, some of my readers may be discouraged, because they have not lost as much as they had hoped to in four weeks.

Before you try to discover why you have not accomplished as much as you wished let me remind you that people do not lose at the same rate. Some can reduce much more rapidly than others. This is often a question of metabolism as well as the amount of physical activity. However, you would be wise to look for hidden dangers.

Maybe you fail to count a few of those items that seem so small. Maybe you stick to your diet during the week and then indulge yourself some on weekends. One day of heavy eating will throw your diet off balance. Perhaps you find that you overeat when you are worried. It may be that dinner with the family in the evening is your undoing. Ferret out the danger spots and do something about them.

When you are tempted by some rich goodies in the cupboard or refrigerator, or when you are worried, do something! Take exercises, or even better, go for a walk. Get out of the house and away from the temptation. It is practically impossible to worry while walking briskly and most unlikely that you will continue thinking of a piece of chocolate cake mile after mile. When you return things will seem brighter and your craving will have disappeared.

One thing that discourages reducers is to lose successfully and then come to a standstill. Some women just give up when this happens. Many of you may be having that experience now. Do not let this worry you and do not desert your routine. After losing pounds with ease, sooner or later, most people have this experience. It is a natural occurrence in weight loss. Continue counting calories and the scales will soon reward you.

Wash Additives: The Picture Has Changed Since the Phosphate Furore —The Outcome Could Be Worse, More Dangerous

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

Time was when no one expected a housewife to worry about what the wash water did after it went down the drain. Now she's not only expected to know and care, but also to do something about it, by picking a detergent that won't upset the balance of nature.

The information she needs to make an intelligent choice isn't particularly technical, but it isn't particularly available either.

Phosphate content charts published in newspaper a year ago were a guide, but since then the picture has changed.

* * *

Many detergent manufacturers confused the issue by jumping on the ecology bandwagon and changing their phosphate levels by deletion or substitution. Then phosphate substitutes came under fire, and so did enzymes.

The government decided that by 1972 all degergents, except dishwasher compounds, were to have a phosphate level of less than 20 per cent.

According to a national survey, the housewives re-acted by continuing to buy the same brands they had always used.

Victoria's two major soap firms, Dutch Land and Van I Products, report a slight increase in sales, however, and believe that if housewives had more information at their disposal they would switch to soap or low phosphate brands.

The problem is finding the information. Newspaper articles deal with detergent problems in a piecemeal fashion — phosphate one day, the substitute NTA the next.

* * *

Dr. Michael Waldichuck, director of the Pacific Environment Institute in Vancouver, was able to clear up most of the confusion.

The explanation that follows is not complete, but can serve as a guide.

Soap is made from animal fat and lye. Modern soap factories may bear little resemblance to grandma's soap kettle, but the chemical action remains the same. The best soap powders are very dry, so little weight is taken up by water.

Contrary to popular opinion, soap does not damage modern washing machines unless used in excess. Local washer repair services report that soap leaves a film on tubs and outlets that is annoying but not dangerous to the machine.

Detergent, on the other hand, can errode aluminum parts if too much is used. The repair men advise customers to cut the suggested amount of detergent in half, unless the product is produced for local water conditions.

* * *

Detergent is a petroleum-based substitute for soap.

The earliest detergents wouldn't break down, even in treatment plants, and foamed their way down streams until the government put a stop to it in the mid '50s.

It cost the detergent companies quite a bit of money to find a detergent that would break down after it left the washing machine, but they did. Now all detergents are biodegradable by law.

Though Waldichuck believes that soap is the safest, he said detergent by itself appears not to harm the environment.

The problems come from the additives: phosphates, nitrates, NAT and enzymes.

There is one detergent additive that hasn't been accused of anything during the 20 years it has been in use.

This is the group of compounds known as optical brighteners. These are flourescent whitening agents which absorb invisible ultraviolet light and reflect it as visilble light, giving the brigher-than-bright effect mentioned in advertisements.

Enzymes may disappear on their own.

These are substances which "eat" stains, and detergent manufacturers went wild when they found a way to put them to use.

Unfortunately, enzymes are picky eaters. Some devour carbohydrates, others prefer protiens. They are most effective as pre-soaks, which most housewives don't have time for.

* * *

When enzymes were implicated in the rising incidence of asthma and skin irritations among workers in soap factories, many firms voluntarily decied to begin eliminating them.

Phosphates, and the phosphate substitutes, lift dirt out of the clothes and keep it in suspension during the washing process. They also soften hard water so the soap can work more effectively. These are qualities that many housewives welcome, and are understandably reluctant to dismiss.

The problem comes when the additives hit waste outfalls.

Phosphates are also nutrients, and in fresh water serve as food for algae, which in time crowd out fish and other fresh water life. Detergents aren't the only source of phosphate, but they seem to have acted like the straw that broke the camel's back.

The phosphate problem is less acute in areas where waste is pumped into the sea.

According to Waldichuk, the nutritive qualities of phosphate depend on the kind of water involved. In salt water, phosphate is relatively harmless, but nitrates, another nutrient used in fertilizers and occasionally detergents, are harmful.

* * *

In Victoria, then, a housewife would be wiser to use phosphate-filled detergent than one which uses nitrate.

NTA is not a nitrate, though it contains some nitrogen. It is a sodium salt of nitrilotriacetic acid.

Phosphates are dangerous only when they upset the balance of nature in water. Nitrates may change into nitrites, which are dangerous, and are rarely used because of this.

NTA, on the other hand, may be dangerous in itself.

Waldichuck compared it to thalidomide. Some scientists think NTA may cause cancer, while tests with mice have resulted in deformed babies.

Sweden has used NTA for years; the feeling there seems to be that its benefits outweigh the possible dangers outlined by scientists.

* * *

American detergent manufacturers aren't taking the chance. After spending millions to convert to NTA, they are withdrawing it from the market. But in most cases the housewife has no way of telling if the box of detergent she has on hand contains NTA or not.

Sunlight advertised their switch to NTA and as yet has not advertsied that their product is changed. Dutch Lady began to use NTA in their detergent (not to be confused with their soap), but went back to phosphate at the first sign of trouble.

If a detergent is advertised as free of phosphate, nitrate, enzymes and NTA, it is probably using sodium carbonate as a water softener. This is good old washing soda, and as far as anyone knows, is harmless from an environmental point of view. It can damage eyes and mucous membranes, but women have used it for generations without trouble.

* * *

All dishwashing liquids are low in phosphate, while dishwasher compounds are almost all high. Because of the special problems of automatic dishwashing powerful water softeners are needed and no suitable substitute has been found. One phosphate-free compound is on the market, but the manufacturers, Van I Products, admit it is not a success because it doesn't do the job right.

Some people have complained that stores don't push the low-phosphate products as hard as they might. But most carry soap — not just the expensive flakes, but the lower-priced chips and granules, too.

One local store has all low-phosphate items grouped together and marked with a sign.

The only safe way, then, to buy cleaners is to check the label. They may not say what they contain, but most firms will advertise that they don't use a certain number of the questioned additives.

If pure soap is used it should be as dry as possible. A third to a half cup is all that is needed for most washes in Victoria, which has soft water. The water must also be hot.

For cold water washing, or washing in hard water areas, a low phosphate detergent appears to be the best.

CANADIAN HOUSEWIVES have given up the fight against phosphate pollution and are back to using their regular detergent, according to a cross-Canada survey. One reason for the change is the detergent industry's inability to develop a suitable substitute for phosphates. Another is price, with retailers agreeing that if a high-phosphate is on sale, many housewives will purchase it rather than spend a bit more for a phosphate-free brand.

Adrian Mitchum says:

DEAR ABBY . . .

Poodle Party

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are the only young couple on our block who have no children, but we have two poodle pups we think the world of.

In a way, those poodles are our "children." We have toys for them, and all the neighborhood kids love to play with the pups.

Our poodles will be a year old soon, and I would like to give a birthday party for them. I would invite the neighborhood kids over for birthday cake and ice cream; and I'd have crazy hats and balloons just like a regular birthday party. I'd even take pictures of it. My question: Do you think people will think we are completely nuts? Chula Vista.

DEAR CHULA: No. Just "arf" nuts.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married in six weeks. A month ago I telephoned a girl who had been a good friend of mine at college and asked her to be one of my bridesmaids. She accepted. I hadn't seen her for about six months, so I invited her to visit me for a weekend. When she arrived, I was shocked. She is obviously pregnant and says she'll be starting her eighth month in six weeks from now!

She is not married and has no plans to be. She told me honestly that she had had a "meaningful relationship" with a fellow at college and they broke up. She isn't exactly proud of her condition, but she's not ashamed of it, either.

Abby, I still love her and believe me, I am not judging her, but this is a small town and my family and friends would never understand an unmarried but pregnant bridesmaid in my wedding party. I hate to hurt her feelings, but what can I tell her? Bride To Be.

DEAR BRIDE: Tell her you hate to hurt fer feelings, that you still love her and are not judging her, but yours is a small town and your family and friends would never understand an unmarried but pregnant birdesmaid. If she loves you, she'll not judge you either.

'STOP BACK-STREET BUTCHERS'

Anti-Abortionists Throng Hill

OTTAWA (CP)—Domentsrators supporting the belief that unborn babies have a right to life thronged Parliament Hill Saturday, protesting abortion with placards and speeches.

Uniformed nurses carrying wreaths led an orderly crowd of about 400 banner-laden men, women and children onto the hill. Signs denounced abortion as a killing of the defenceless.

Demonstrators came from Montreal, Toronto, Quebec City, London, Oshawa and Ajax, Ont., as well as the Ottawa-Hull region.

At the base of the steps leading towards the Parliament buildings, the demonstrators held a rally organized by the Alliance for Life, a national voluntary organization. Its members believe that "all human life — before and after birth — has a right to care and protection."

The nurses and others with wreaths lined up one by one along the top step in memory of "unborn victims of abortions," both legal and illegal, and women who had died as the result of abortion.

Bernadette Sayer of Ottawa, assistant-secretary of the alliance, told the gathering that "the back-street butchers" should be put out of business.

"But we'd like to go much further and put an end to all the butchery, including the legalized killing in our hospitals."

Mrs. W. G. Venner of Oshawa, chairman of Nurses for Life, called for legalization to protect nurses' right to refuse to participate in abortion procedures.

She was supported by Norman Cafik, Liberal member of Parliament for Ontario, who said it is "criminal" that nurses are sometimes obliged to assist in abortions despite their objections.

Both he and Dr. L. L. de Veber of London, Ont., a specialist in pre-natal care, who spoke at a news conference and later at a church-hall meeting for the marchers, stressed that society's attitudes must be changed if abortion is to be effectually stopped.

Children Considered Low Priority

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian government, like most of the world, gives a low priority to the child and family, says the national director of the Canadian Save the Children Fund.

Kenric Marshall, speaking at the closing session of the 50th anniversary meeting of CanSave, said the world child is not even mentioned in the Canadian government's white paper on foreign policy and redevelopment assistance.

The "gravity of such a sin of omission" could only be appreciated when the white paper was viewed in the context of the United Nations 1970 report on children.

The report said there were more sick, undernourished uneducated children in the world at the end of the 1960s than in the preceding decade, and called for a greater international efforts to reverse this situation.

"The report also warned that unless the international community is prepared to give vastly greater support, the next decade will find the number of neglected children increased by millions."

CanSave supports community improvement programs in Canada and 26 foreign countries.

800 Walk 98 Miles

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 800 persons Sunday finished a three-day, 98-mile Moccasin Miles March through the Fraser Valley and back to raise funds for Indian organizations.

Dove Kanee, 80, of Vancouver was the oldest marcher to finish the route — then walked several miles to his home. First persons across the finish line were Steve Kisik, 15 of Nanaimo and Robert Point, 19 of Lake Errock, near Agassiz in the Fraser Valley.

Organizers said they estimate the amount raised at $35,000, compared with $65,000 raised last year. It was the third such march in as many years.

There was no damage.

Volunteers Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — The controversy over the right to work for wage versus the right to volunteer has been settled at Sunny Hill Children's Hospital. Volunteers from Bethel Baptist Church are again making their fortnightly visits to help with sewing after the B.C. Hospital Employees Union barred their access, claiming they were usurping the job of a part-time union seamstress.

Talk Coal, Oil

EDMONTON (CP) — Top Japanese businessman will visit Alberta next month to discuss development of the province's resources with government and business officials.

They will fly June 8 to Grande Cashe to discuss coal deposits and Fort McMurray to discuss the Athabasca oil sands.

Official Resigns

WINNIPEG (CP) — The president of the Manitoba New Democratic Party's provincial constituency association in St. Boniface has offered his resignation following Friday's announcement that Larry Desjsardin, a former Liberal, has joined the NDP government.

Bob Beninger said Sunday his resignation has been offered and he will be "bound by the party's decision." He refused to comment on Desjardins' switch to the NDP but said he would make a statement at a later date.

Party Growing

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Western Canada Party hopes to run candidates in about 15 ridings in the next federal election, party president Douglas A. Ligertwood said Sunday.

Ligertwood said in an interview following the party's policy conference the party would "like to have a candidate in every one of the 70 western constituencies but this is a dream and, besides, it's an impossibility to build that fast."

He said the party, formed here in January, now has more than 150 members.

Opposition Hit

EDMONTON (CP) — Opposition to the labor relations bill of Britain's Conservative government is misconceived, Sir Ian Jacob said in an interview Sunday.

Sir Ian, who addresses the Sir Winston Churchill Society banquet here tonight, said the bill is opposed by unions who see some of their powers curtailed.

Press Council Urged

EDMONTON (CP) — A press council would encourage higher journalistic standards and bring the public closer to the press, Andrew Snaddon, editor of the Edmonton Journal, said Saturday.

"Big newspapers, like big government have a tendency to get remote from the people even though it is not their intention," Snaddon told a meeting of the Telephone Pioneers of Alberta.

He said the council should be voluntary and have public and professional representation.

Bridge Repaired

'No Reason for Spill'

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A leading British scientist, Sir Geoffrey Ingram Taylor, said Saturday oil spills are caused chiefly by navigation.

He said oil supertankers, with their large turning circle, require a different sort of navigation technique than the ones used in the past.

Sir Geoffrey, former Royal Society research professor at Trinity College at Cambridge, England, interviewed here while on a visit to Canada, said there is no reason for an oil spill.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
PSALM 23.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

At some time or other the thought that we would suffer the loss of a loved one occurred to us, but we little realized the extent of sympathetic understanding that would exist. Her many friends at Victoria Gospel Chapel, D. McCarlney, Graham McCall and staff, we are more grateful than mere words can express to all of you, who did so much to help us through this time.—The Blackstock family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

HOEGI — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Delia, who passed away May 17, 1964.

We miss you because we loved you
More precious than wealth untold;
No treasure on earth can replace you,
Your memory will never grow old.

—Always remembered and sadly missed by Mom and Dad, Diane, Al and children.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

CABLEVISION TEN PROGRAMS. 7 p.m., Ladies First; 7:30 p.m., Project Travel; 8 p.m., Music Victoria-Conservatory of Music; 8:30 p.m, Victoria Outdoorsmen — sailing edition; 9 pm., Canadian Forces Pacific; 9:30 p.m., Connections.

IRISH ROVERS. 7:30 p.m., Channel 2. Gisele Mackenzie is the guest star tonight, singing Watching Scotty Grow and For All We Know; The Rovers sing Lollypop Tree, and All for Me Grog.

HERE'S LUCY. 7 p.m., Channel 6; 8:30, Channel 7. (Rerun.) Lucy manages to get into delicate situations, but this time it's preposterous. Harry (Gale Gordon) inveigles Lucy into posing as his pregnant wife because an old flame is headed for town. She has intentions of corraling Harry into marriage. Some hilarious moments.

FROM A BIRD'S EYE VIEW. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. The old camping-on-the-window-ledge game, as Maxwell Smart might say. Only this time it's Millie (Millicent Martin) who braves the danger, all in the interest of retrieving her letter of resignation, which she had dispatched in a temper fit because she thought her friend had been fired.

GUNSMOKE. 7:30 p.m., Channel 7. (Rerun.) The widow Smith (Sandra Smith) rescues a con-artist salesman (Don Chastain) from an angry mob and refuses to believe she's about to be taken. Festus (Ken Curtis) tries his darndest to warn her.

LAUGH-IN. 8 p.m., Channel 5. (Rerun.) Laughable and lovable dumb-blonde Goldie Hawn, so dumb she won an Oscar, is given a royal welcome by Rowan and Martin in this repeat episode which marked Goodie's first appearance since winning the Academy Award. The Farkels are around to greet Goldie and she joins old playmate Ruth Buzzi, and Lily Tomlin and Alan Sues in a musical report of everything that's happened to her since she left the show.

IT WAS A VERY GOOD YEAR. 8:30 p.m., Channel 4. 1964 wasn't that long ago but times change so quickly, even last year seems like a century away. Gower Champion joins Mel Torme recalling the Broadway hit he directed, "Hello, Dolly," and Don Schollander relieves Olympic history. He won four gold medals for his swimming feats in Tokyo. The trug and jerk were new dances and, as Mel remembers in song, some of the hits were "Walk on By," "The Girl from Ipanema" and "Hello, Dolly!"

WORLD PREMIERE MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 5. "Do You Take This Stranger?" (Rerun.) A taught, well-done suspense drama starring Gene Barry, Lloyd Bridges, Dianne Baker and Joseph Cotten. A unique triangle develops when Barry inherits a million dollars, but it's in trust and he can only get the interest. He schemes with his wife (Miss Baker) and he swaps identities with another man (Bridges) who is supposed to be dying of a terminal disease. Bridges and Miss Baker fall in love, and they soon learn a cure has been discovered.

MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 4. "The City." This pilot film will give the viewer a preview of Anthony Quinn's series next season. Quinn plays a southwestern city mayor not only faced with the usual problems and crises, but also a mysterious assassin. You get an idea of how righteous Quinn is by the name of his character, Thomas Jefferson Alcala. Robert Reed and E. G. Marshall and Pat Hingle are featured. Reed is the mayor's opponent, and Marshall is a college president.

DORIS DAY SHOW. 9:30 p.m., Channel 7. (Rerun.) Larry Storch turns up as an ex-pug turned nightclub comedian whose act apparently was as effective as his boxing skills. He's cancelled after his opening, until Doris comes to his aid.

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

5:30: Channel 12: Hot Summer Night (1957 drama). Leslie Nielsen, Colleen Miller. Reporter on his honeymoon runs into a big story when a publicity-hungry outlaw seems ripe for an interview.

7:30: Channel 12: The Reluctant Debutante (1958 comedy). Rex Harrison, Kay Kendall. Lightweight comedy fluff sparked by the charm of its leading players.

9:00: Channel 4: The City (TV pilot). Anthony Quinn, Pat Hingle. Filmed in Alburquerque, N.M. Howard Rodman wrote the script.

9:00: Channel 5: Do You Take This Stranger? (1970 drama). Gene Barry, Diane Baker. All about a socialite's scheme to inherit $1,000,000.

11:00: Channel 13: Shadow Man (British; 1953 mystery). Cesar Romero, Kay Kendall. Good direction sparks this British thriller which has some pretty tense moments.

11:30: Channel 7: The Hunters (1958 drama). Robert Mitchem, May Britt. This tough tale about the flyers in the Korean War is at its best in the action sequences.

12:00: Channel 6: Long Day's Journey into Night (1962 drama). Katharine Hepburn, Ralph Richardson. Eugene O'Neill's lacerating tragedy, largely autobiographical, of a New England family.

'SOFT' IMAGE HAS DISAPPEARED

Sadat 'Showed He Had Guts' During Purge

By ELIAS ANTAR

CAIRO (AP) — Few people thought Anwar Sadat had it in him to be a strong leader when he succeeded Gamal Abdel Nasser as Egypt's president seven months ago. His smooth and apparently effortless purge of leftist political opponents has changed his image.

"He really showed he had guts by taking them on," said a cafe waiter. "Good for him."

The government reported that thousands of Egyptians sent messages giving Sadat their complete backing. Workers and students marched through Cairo's streets Saturday in organized demonstrations of support.

Sadat confronted a group of six ministers and three political bosses Thursday and arrested them because, he said, they tried to overthrow him.

Part of the approval generally expressed for the president's action arose from the fact that the ousted men, and particularly Interior Minister Sharawai Gomaa, were widely disliked.

Sadat followed his initial move with a thorough cleanup of top administration posts, replacing holdovers from Nasser's days with his own men.

Scores, perhaps hundreds of government posts, seem due to change hands. For example, Sadat fired six senior officials of the government radio and television stations Sunday.

Conspirators Came Close To Toppling Me

The president installed a new commander-in-chief of the armed forces, a new interior minister, a new chief of intelligence, a new district attorney and a new speaker of the national assembly.

A new 33-man cabinet, sworn in Friday, retained Premier Mahmoud Fawzi and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad. They have been prominent in assisting Sadat's efforts to reach a political settlement with Israel.

Sadat also said that Egypt's only political party, the Arab Socialist Union, will be reorganized to make it more representative. He promised "100-percent free elections supervised by myself."

A significant factor in the emergence of the new Sadat is that he apparently used only his personal prestige in knocking down his opponents. He called out no military units to round up his opponents.

Sadat's new confidence was evident in his 85-minute broadcast Friday in which he told his story of the power struggle.

Egyptians are unaccustomed to admissions of vulnerability from their leaders, but Sadat told them openly that the conspirators came close to toppling him. Only a tipoff by an unidentified young Egyptian officer avoided disaster and gave him the information necessary to head off the plot, the president said.

HOME GARDEN

Study Your Climbers Well

By HILDA BEASTALL

Climbing plants are basically those equipped by nature with some means of attachment by the stems to a supporting object — originally a tree or some other upright woody plant.

Hilda

Rootlets are found on stems of ivies and the Hydrangea petiolaris; tiny tendrils with adhesive tips are the means used by Virginia-creeper (Parthenocissus); the climbing Euonymus radicans has stem rootlets; wistaria has twining stems requiring tying to a support in the early years: the tall growing clematis are equipped with tightly clasping leaf stems which wrap around anything of an inch or less diameter for support. Some of the most beautiful climbers, Actinidia and Schizandra, have no climbing ability. Their long canes must be tied into place as they grow.

By knowing the natural climbing system of the plants you select, you will be able to gauge the type of support you must provide.

That is the first hurdle overcome.

The second interesting point about climbers is that their origins were mainly among trees and underbrush. In nature no attempt is made to produce flowers until the climbing plant has reached sunlight. At that point, the growths will flower at tree top level.

In the meanwhile, the years of rich, deciduous forest soil contribute to the health of the climbing plant. And almost total shade is provided by the trees and underbrush.

These are points to duplicate in the garden — ample root space of deep, well-enriched and well-drained soil to provide coolness and steady moisture; shelter for the lower stems, either by means of slender deciduous shrubs or by planting the roots of the climbers in a shaded spot and persuading the growths to reach into sunshine.

When preparing the soil, make a mixture of old horse or cow manure with leafmould, compost and about a half cup of bonemeal. Spread the roots carefully by hand into the hole, pushing the mixture with the fingers into every crevice between the roots.

At the halfway mark of filling, trickle water in to drive out the air; then fill with the remainder of the prepared mixture.

In the first two or three years, no additional fertilizer is needed, or rampant growth will be made.

Each type of climbing plant has its own cultural needs during the early years; some should be pruned back to one foot in the first spring; others should be encouraged to make much firm growth a few feet long, before nipping off the tips.

Know your climbers and study their habits.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

(C) 1971, Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, Inc.

In today's deal, our South declarer got a very bad break when the four outstanding trumps were revealed as being divided 4-0, rather than the normal 3-1 or 2-2. But the fact of the matter is that he should have overcome the bad division, to fulfill his game contract. What was his mistake?

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

◇ A
♣ A K J 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♡.

On West's opening lead of the heart king, East signalled for a continuation by playing the eight. West continued with the heart queen, which won the trick. A third heart lead was captured by East's jack.

East then shifted to the diamond jack, which South took with his ace. The king of spades was led next — and West discarded a club. It was now impossible to prevent East, who had the J-10-5 of spades remaining, from taking the setting trick. What was declarer's error?

Had the four outstanding trumps been divided either 2-2 or 3-1, declarer would have fulfilled his contract no matter how he played the trump suit. And if it happened to be that West was the possessor of the four missing trumps, then West coudn't be prevented from winning a trump trick: in this case, whenever South led a low trump out of his hand, West would simply put up his (hypothetical) ten-spot, forcing dummy's queen, and simultaneously promoting his jack into a winner.

Therefore declarer's concern should have been centered on the possible possession by East of the four adversely held trumps. Had he thought of this, he could have avoided losing a trump trick.

South's first trump lead (at trick five) should have been a low one to dummy's queen. With West failing to follow suit, a trump would next be led out of North's hand. East would insert his ten-spot (if he didn't, South's nine would win the trick), South capturing the ten with his King.

Dummy would then be reentered via the club queen, and a third trump lead would now be made. East's remaining doubleton J-5 would now be ambushed by South's A-9. The rest of the tricks would belong to South, his only losers being three heart tricks.

fun with figures

By J A H HUNTER

John had a problem. "Look, Dad," he said, "Sally says she's twice my age now, but in eight years' time she'll be only half again as old as I'll be."

His father smiled. "I guess she's right. What about it?"

The boy shook his head. "Well, half again as old is less than twice, but she'll be older than she is right now."

It could seem strange. What were their ages?

(Tnaks for the idea to C. F. Trimmer, York, Pa.)

Russia Welcomes Trudeaus As 12-Day Tour Under Way

U.S., RUSSIA TALK CUTBACK

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam met today to discuss the possibility of a mutual reduction of forces in Europe, the U.S. embassy reported.

An embassy spokesman said Beam asked for the meeting in connection with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev's appeal last Friday to start negotiations on reducing troops and armaments in central Europe.

Nixon Gaining In Troop Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration went into the opposition ranks for support, and got it from some former high government officials, in its bid to quash Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield's attempt to legislate a 50-per-cent cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe.

Clark McGregor, President Nixon's chief congressional lobbyist, said Sunday "We have no doubt we'll win" when the Senate votes Wednesday.

State Secretary William Rogers also predicted failure for the Mansfield amendment, which seeks to reduce the U.S. garrison in NATO countries to 150,000. Rogers denounced the proposal as potentially "disastrous to our foreign policy."

However, even though Mansfield's motion is unlikely to get past the House of Representatives, much less the president's desk, the White House obviously views the Senate vote as crucial.

Meanwhile, Nixon announced in Florida that former president Truman had joined the array of past Democratic government officials, including Lyndon B. Johnson, who have rallied ot his position.

Truman was quoted in a statement relayed by his former secretary of state, Dean Acheson, that he "agrees entirely" with Nixon's assertion Saturday that such a cut "would be an error of historic dimension."

ACHESON HEADS DRIVE

Acheson, a prime mover in the early years of the NATO alliance, has headed a drive launched at the White House only last Thursday which so far has enlisted the public support of at least two dozen high officials of the Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Mansfield has refused to yield, although he acknowledged over the weekend "I am beginning to feel like the fellow who only has a sling shot."

Rogers also characterized the Mansfield plan as dangerous, adding that NATO forces now are about in balance with those of the Warsaw pact.

The secretary noted that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhev offered last Friday to begin talks with NATO countries over mutual reductions of armed forces.

Mansfield has urged that Nixon quickly accept Brezhnev's proposal and set a definite date for the talks, preferably in June.

TAX ORDER DEFIED

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Western Mobile Home Parks Association has refused to collect or remit taxes to the provincial government, imposed by the Mobile Home Park Fee Act.

Chuck Rogers, association president, said a telegram was sent today to Premier Bennett and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell informing them that association members across B.C. refuse to collect the taxes.

Lunokhod Losing Power

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Lunokhod, the eight-wheeled Russian moonbuggy which has trundled over the lunar Sea of Rains for the last six months, is beginning to lose its power, Pravda reported today.

It indicated the weird-shaped craft, which looks more like a mobile bathtub than the highly complex piece of machinery that it is, has continued working longer than its designers expected, the Communist party newspaper said.

Lunokhod, which has covered more than five miles across the barren soil and rock of the Sea of Rains, is controlled by a team of "drivers" in the space communications centre.

Arrests Hit 110

CAIRO (Reuter) — The authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that 110 persons have been arrested for their alleged involvement in a plot to overthrow President Anwar Sadat. (See background story on Page 36.)

They now are being questioned by the state prosecutor and, well informed sources said, will stand trial.

Last week Sadat announced the resignation of six ministers and several leading politicians and claimed he had foiled an attempted coup.

Sunday he sacked a seventh minister — Communications Minister Kamal Henei Badir — and appointed Abdel Malek Sadd to replace him.

President Sadat has agreed to become supreme head of Egypt's police force, it was announced today.

He already is chief of the armed forces.

IN MOSCOW at the start of a state visit, Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife are welcomed by Soviet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin and a large crowd after their flight by Canadian Forces jetliner from Ottawa. The tour will last 12 days. (Tass photo released to AP)

Talks Tuesday With Kosygin

Times News Services

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union put out the welcome mat today for Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife Margaret.

Trudeau and his wife arrived in Moscow today for a 12-day visit to the Soviet Union, the first ever by a Canadian prime minister.

Pravda Puts Him on Front

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, published a picture of Trudeau on its front page this morning and said his visit will give "impetus to mutually beneficial trade, cultural and scientific exchanges between the two countries."

"Canada and the Soviet Union have no reported or unsolved problems between them," Pravda said. "At the same time, there is a range of questions o nwhich it is possible ot establish mutually advantageous co-operation . . ."

The arrival at the sundrenched airport was carried out with strict ceremony. There were no public welcoming speeches and the prime minister made no public statement.

Kosygin met Trudeau and his pretty bride at the foot of the ramp of the Canadian Armed Forces Boeing 707. The Soviet premier escorted Trudeau to the waiting guard of honor. The guard commander goosestepped to Trudeau and declared the troops were ready for inspection.

Trudeau, with Kosygin at his side, inspected the three platoons of men.

Motorcycle Escort Provided

After the brief arrival ceremony, Trudeau, his party and the Soviet officials who greeted him got into Soviet limousines for a drive under motorcycle escort to the guest house in Lenin Hills.

Trudeau is expected to begin talks Tuesday with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and other top Soviet leaders. Thursday, he and his wife will set out on a six-city tour that will take them from sunny Central Asia to far northern Siberia.

Trudeau's talks with Kosygin are likely to include the European security conference, a pet project of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw pact allies, and also the war in Indochina.

Moscow has made it clear that Canada, a NATO member, would be welcome at a conference on European security.

Brezhnev Urges Arms Talks

Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev took a step toward such a conference Friday by urging negotiations on reducing forces and armaments in central Europe.

On Indochina, Canada has a special interest as a member of the three-nation International Control Commission set up by the 1954 Geneva conference. The Soviet Union and Britain were co-chairmen of the conference.

Trudeau left Ottawa's Uplands airport at 12:05 a.m. EDT today for his 11-day visit to the Soviet Union.

Accompanied by his wife Margaret, he told reporters he hopes to discuss NATO troop reductions with Soviet leaders.

He told reporters he also would discuss the problems experienced by Jews wishing to emigrate from Russia.

No mention has been made of a meeting between Trudeau and Communist Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev, the most powerful man in Russia, or even if Brezhnev will be in Russia at the time.

During his provincial tour, Trudeau is expected to place heavy emphasis on possibilities for co-operation in the far north, where both the Soviet Union and Canada have vast undeveloped territories.

LET ALLIES PAY is compromise offered by Democratic Senator Birch Bayh to the current row over withdrawing 150,000 U.S. troops from Europe. Bayh suggests that Canada and other NATO allies pick up $400 million in U.S. balance of payment costs in return for U.S. maintaining its troop strength there.

Most U.S. Rails Halted By Striking Signalmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking signalmen closed most of the United States' vast railway system today. President Nixon promptly appealed to Congress to halt the walkout by extending until July the period for negotiations between rail management and the signalmen.

In a message to the Congress, made public at the Florida White House in Key Biscayne, Nixon said:

"A nationwide stoppage of rail service would cause great hardship to all Americans and strike a serious blow at the nation's economy. It is essential that our railroads continue to operate."

The president called on the Senate and House of Representatives to pass promptly a joint resolution that, technically, would have the effect of extending until July 1 the present contract between the rail industry and the signalmen.

Nixon said Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson would work during that period toward promoting a voluntary settlement. In the absence of a negotiated agreement, he called on Hodgson "to report to me and the Congress by June 21."

LIST PRIORITIES

Pending any congressional action to halt the rail strike, Nixon also signed an executive order listing priorities "as guidance and instructions to federal agencies, to shippers and to carriers" on what goods should be shipped first. These included foods, drugs and medical supplies, fuels needed for electric power production and some categories of mail.

Congress had made no special plans to handle the strike before it recessed for the weekend, and it was an open question how soon any legislation could be passed. It took a midnight session to put a stop to a nationwide walkout by four other unions last December. The walkout lasted only one day.

Today's strike by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen is the fourth nationwide rail walkout in 50 years. Although the 13,000 signalmen represent only two per cent of all rail workers, other large unions appeared to be refusing to cross their picket lines as they spread across the country, starting at 6 a.m. in each time zone.

First to feel the strike were morning rail commuters in New York, Chicago and other large cities. New York's state-owned Long Island Rail Road was still running because it bargains locally, but all other commuter and intercity passenger trains were affected, along with freight service.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., where President Nixon was winding up a weekend sojourn, White House sources said Labor Secretary James Hodgson was preparing legislation to send to Congress, probably by the end of the day.

There were spotty reports of some trains operating despite the strike. Chicago's South Shore and South Bend Rail Road carrying 6,000 daily commuters in Chicago and Northern Indiana, was running because its signalmen belong to a different union.

Supervisory personnel were being used to move livstock and perishable items, some railways reported.

The strike came despite government efforts to mediate a settlement between the union and the National Rail-

60,000 SIGNATURES PROTEST TANKER PLAN

TORONTO (CP) — Two Vancouver women have collected more than 60,000 signatures on a petition urging federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis and the cabinet to oppose the proposed use of tankers to carry Alaskan oil off the British Columbia coast.

Alice Coppard, a 64-year-old grandmother, and Gwen Mellard, 53, said in an interview here Saturday an oil spill along the coast would be "catastrophic."

The two arrived here in the back of a pick-up truck, hitchhiking 2,200 miles in 12 days.

Prayer Procession Tries to Halt Lava

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuter) — The inhabitants of a small but prosperous village situated on the slopes of Mount Etna hastily completed plans today for a religious procession as a river-of-red hot lava crept relentlessly down toward their homes.

Higher up the slopes, 10 peasant huts were in more immediate danger from the lava flow which is engulfing everything in its way.

The 3,500 inhabitants of the village of St. Alfio plan a procession around the outskirts with relics of their saints.

S. Alfio could be hit some time Tuesday, but authorities were hoping the fiery river of destruction would stop short and said they had not yet drawn up evacuation plans.

Among the people of St. Alfio, the mood was grim. Knowing that the lava already has destroyed rich farming land, vineyards, orchards and more than a dozen houses, they were filled with fear — but there was no panic.

Almost half the population crammed into the church Sunday night to hear the local bishop, Msgr. Pasquale Bacile, say mass and preach a sermon of encouragement.

The planned procession is a repeat of a similar ceremony in 1928, when a lava flow also threatened the village.

On that occasion the lava just missed St. Alfio.

Firemen spent the weekend emptying water tanks in the path of the lava to cool it as more than 20,000 persons crowded in to get a close look.

Peasants living on Mount Etna were reported still selling their land at rock-bottom prices to speculators counting on government compensation.

NEWS BRIEFS

Prices Nose-Dive

Prices took a nose-dive on the New York and Toronto stock exchanges as investors reacted to the U.S. rail strike and rising interest rates. N.Y. was off more than 12 points near the close of business while Toronto was off 1.20.

Hamilton Walks

HAMILTON (CP) — About 100,000 bus passengers had to walk, pedal bicycles, hitchhike or drive to work today as the city faced the third bus strike in its history, its second in four years.

Quake Recorded

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake was recorded today by the University of California seismograph station which fixed its location near the Colombian coast.

Doctors 'Demoralized' Over Billing Charges

TORONTO (CP) — The chief of staff of a Toronto hospital says doctors are becoming "seriously demoralized" by accusations against them of unethical billing practices.

"No matter how hard doctors try to do their jobs or how well they do them, they are getting pushed into a corner about the money they make," said Dr. Gerald Blanchet of Queensway General in a weekend interview.

He was reacting to criticisms by Ontario Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence last week that the medical profession was inadequately controlling a minority of doctors who are collecting more than they should under the provincial health insurance scheme.

Said Dr. Blanchet:

"Let's take that great dramatic figure of $100,000 a year that so many doctors are supposed to be making. In the first place, only a surgeon working 70 gruelling hours a week could get close to that figure."

He said the average salary of a doctor in Ontario is about $25,000 a year.

BY GUNMEN IN TURKEY

Eichmann Prosecutor Kidnapped

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Five gunmen today ambushed and kidnapped Israeli consul-general Ephraim Elrom, who a decade ago directed the prosecution investigation of Nazi mass murderer Adolf Eichmann, army officials said.

They said the gunmen forced their way into Elrom's apartment house, tied up the hall porter and at least eight other persons.

* * *

The gunmen said they were members of the Turkish People's Liberation Army, but did not say why they were kidnapping Elrom.

When Elrom arrived for lunch, the gunmen, one of them posing as a porter, grabbed and tied up the diplomat. Elrom personally interrogated Eichmann before the SS lieutenant-colonel's 1961 trial in Israel for his part in the Second World War mass murder of millions of Jews.

Army officials said Elrom fought the gunmen and shouted for help for several minutes.

The gunmen managed to wrestle him into a waiting automobile bearing Ankara licence plates and the car sped away from the apartment house in the centre of Istanbul.

Jewish sources in Istanbul said Elrom was one of the Israeli agents who abducted Eichmann in Argentina.

In London, Israeli sources said Elrom, then named Hofsteter, ran the police investigation of Eichmann who was hanged after conviction.

Nurses Flee Fire In Nightclothes

The injured nurse leaped 30 feet from a smoke-filled room and suffered possible leg fractures.

Alberta Establishes Fund To Attract New Business

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government has established a $10 million program to attract industries and help existing industries expand in towns and villages.

The agriculture department, which is involved in the program with the industry department, says the recently passed Industrial Development Incentives Act is intended to help communities with populations of 40,000 or less.

Under the program, forgivable loans will be available for building construction, equipment purchases and related items.

"Indirectly, it can also be used to offset market transportation problems," the department says.

The loans, which can be written off in five years, basically are designed to help small communities compete on a more equitable basis with the larger centres.

And the services of Alberta's agricultural marketing commissioner, who has visited the Pacific Rim and European countries promoting Alberta produce, has been valuable to small communities seeking to establish small, secondary industries.

"The capture of foreign markets for Alberta-manufactured and processed goods can have a beneficial effect on some of our smaller communities in terms of employment and economic prosperity for the area," the department says.

BRINGS IN PEOPLE

The agriculture department assists the industrial development branch in determining the suitability of specific areas for setting up plants to manufacture such things as special meat products, dairy products, rapesee doil and processed potatoes.

The value of such small industries cannot be underestimated, the department says.

Statistics show one new plant in a rural area employing 100 people brings in about 360 more people, including about 90 schoo children. Income increases by about $710,000 annually in the community with bank deposits increasing by about $230,000.

"In addition, on the average, there are 97 more cars registered in the town or village, three more retail businesses become established, 65 more people are employed in non-manufacturing services and retail sales in the area increase by about $331,000 a year."

The department believes the new program will help in reviving and expanding rural communities which are "either dying or have been stagnant for many years."

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG — Trading was light on the grain exchange today with all commodities except oats and barley under liquidation pressure with depressed prices.

Flax had some commission house selling and exporter buying on a scale-down. Rapeseed had heavy hedge offerings in the new crop futures and intermonth spreading in May and July.

Volume of trade Friday included 551,000 bushels of flax, 933,000 of rapeseed and 271,000 of rye.

Sandspit Stop Retained

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport commission has amended the licence of Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. to allow it to make only one stop — at Sandspit — on its regular flights between Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

In an order dated May 11 and released today, the commission said it is satisfied it is in the public interest for the airline to make the one stop on its Vancouver-Prince Rupert run.

Under a February, 1969, decision the commission required the airline to make two stops, at Sandspit and Prince George.

The decision came after two applications by the airline. One in April, 1965, asked that only one stop be required, and was denied.

The second, in December, 1969, asked the commission to drop its requirement for any stops between Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

The decision to require only one stop resulted from this last application.

The commission said present and prospective volume of traffic between Vancouver and Prince Rupert did not warrant non-stop service by both Pacific Western Airlines and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

CAUGHT COLD

Giving Them Up: How Not to Do It

There I was, you see, in this tiny little office. Fifteen full storeys above the street level. Totally removed from prying eyes. Furtively I locked the door. Placed the key on my desk, right next to the package of King-sized cigarettes. For several melancholy minutes I gazed from the window across the panorama of the city, knowing that the battle was lost. I broke open the cigarettes. Placed one between my lips. Reached for a match. . . .

Yes, finally, after all these years, I am about to confess the whole story of the rise and all but simultaneous fall of The Nevertouchem Club, sometimes known as The Instant Crusade.

There are two questions I'm always asked in this, my centennial year in newspapering: 1—Did you really take all your clothes off when you wrote your five-part series on the Sunny Trails Nudist Colony? and 2—How long were you a member in good standing as president of The Nevertouchem Club? The answer to the former is yes, every last stitch. The answer to the latter is what will occupy us for the next three or four minutes.

The subject arises now because Robert Ludwig, secretary-treasurer of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada has just informed me that May 31 will be the 11th annual Non-Smokers Day and has suggested that I might help the cause along with a few well-chosen words. The first Non-Smokers Day, by the way, was inaugurated right here in Victoria by Mr. Ludwig and Eric Martin, then provincial minister of health.

It is now Mr. Ludwig's conviction — sadly naive, I fear — that the continuing campaign on the perils of Lady Nicotine across the years has had its effect on every receptive mind and that the message must be sharpened to penetrate the brains, if such they be, of the smokers he describes as The High-Resistant Types.

It's unlikely that I'll be of much help there. Smoking is a dreadful, stupid habit. That much I know. But I am one of those whose constant, continuing efforts to give it up have resulted only in total corrosion of the will-power.

If I learned anything at all it is simply this: If you are going to give them up do it quietly, unobtrusively, behind closed doors. Never, never make it a public display unless you're absolutely certain that you'll carry it through.

That was the story when I formed The Nevertouchem Club a dozen-odd years ago. I announced it with everything but the band of the Coldstream Guards. I had had small, plastic lapel buttons made with the word "Nevertouchem" upon them. Membership would cost but a single dime. We would all wear our buttons for the world to see, help and inspire each other in the manner of Alcoholics Anonymous, and throw off the habit through beautiful togetherness.

The response was overwhelming. It seemed as if the whole world had just been waiting for such an aswer. Eight hundred dimes arrived on my desk the very next day, a thousand more the day after. A stenographer was assigned to handle the mounds of correspondence. A man from Time Magazine arrived to interview me for the long story the following week, illustrated by me looking heroic and pointing with pride at my button. Canadian Press, Associated Press and United Press picked up the story. The mail and dimes began to pour in from all over North America. By the week's end we had some 4,000 members.

Day after day I was effortlessly filling my column with extracts from the letters. They were funny, pathetic, wistful, determined, poignant, buoyant, full of wonderful anecdotes, ready-made material to plug the insatiable void of my allotted daily space.

★ ★ ★

After a full week of it, however, the managing editor called me into his office.

"Your Nevertouchem thing has been sensational," he said in his usual rhetorical way, "but isn't it time you got back to some other subjects?"

I went back up to my 15th floor eyrie and rolled the paper into my Remington and sat there for a very long time staring numbly at the whiteness. My brain, so magnificently purged of tars and nicotine, was a total blank. Deep down I knew that without that familiar blue curl of smoke, without the habit pattern of a lifetime, I would not be doing any writing that day or in the days to come.

I took the unopened pack of cigarettes from the drawer where I had kept it as a gesture of defiance and placed it on the desk. Then I locked the door, stared at the city below, opened the pack, took out the dirty, nasty cigarette and lit up.

As I turned back to my typewriter, alive with ideas, a shadow fell across my desk and, wheeling in a sudden panic, I saw that a window cleaner was coming into view on the electrified platform known as "the spider" that runs up and down the outside of the building. Hypnotically I watched the figure come to a stop directly outside my window. Just as hypnotically the window cleaner was staring at the cigarette I held in my hand. Slowly, soundlessly, his face contorted with scorn and accusation, he raised his hand and pointed to the lapel of his cover-alls. There it was: The Nevertouchem Button.

That very afternoon I resigned from the leadership of the club and turned it over to my colleague Barry Mather, who remains, to this day, the honorary president of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada, a feat he managed, I'm convinced, by giving up writing and going into politics. I, myself, went to Mexico until the heat had cooled down and never gave up anything ever again.

Ask the Times

Q. Would you let me have the address of an authority on coat of arms and the address of the society who undertake the tracing of a family's beginning?—A.B.

A. We suggest you write the College of Arms, Queen Victoria Street, London E.C.4, or the Sanson Institute of Heraldy in Boston, or Prof. A. L. C. Atkinson, 10651 Blue Heron Road, North Saanich.

Q. Can you tell me if Dr. Walter Alvarez is still living?—A.M.

A. Alvarez is still alive and contines to travel around the United States delivering lectures to medical groups, as well as write his syndicated column of advice. He has an office at 700 Michigan Ave. North, Chicago. Alvarez is 87.

Ask the Times erroneously reported May 8 that widows in B.C. can apply for a provincial government widow's pension through the city welfare department. B.C. has no such pension for widows.

The correct answer should have been that widows under 65 can apply for social assistance through the welfare department and widows over 65 are eligible for old age security.

CONTRACT STATISTICS . . .

. . . SHOW NO PROVISIONS

Labor's 'Equal Pay for Women' Cry Not Backed Up

British Columbia trade unions claim to be in the forefront of the fight for equal pay for women, but statistics show a different story.

A survey by the B.C. labor department providing "a relatively good representation of contracts" shows that 95.1 per cent of the surveyed contracts contained no provision for equal pay for equal work.

At the last convention of the B.C. Federation of Labor, the human rights committee said of women's rights:

★ ★ ★

"Your committee suggests that the trade union movement, which has already done much in fighting for equal pay and equal treatment for women in industry, continue these efforts and make a particular effort to support attempts by women to achieve fair and equal treatment in every aspect of life.

"In addition, we recommend that it be drawn to the attention of women concerned about achieving equal rights and fair treatment the advantages of trade union organization to assist in their efforts.

"Equal pay, promotion opportunities, etc. have over the years been won for many women through collective agreements negotiated by trade unions. Unions are eager to assist further in this regard and can do much to achieve equality on behalf of women who are organized into trade unions."

★ ★ ★

The labor department's survey covered 202 union contracts and 13,948 employees. Only 5 per cent of the contracts covering 1.4 per cent of the employees had equal pay provisions.

G. D. Bishop, director of the labor department's research branch, said in a foreward to the survey that the analysis "does not necessarily reflect the entire picture for all agreements" in force in B.C.

He also said that "while only 13,948 employees are covered by the agreements under study, it should be appreciated that the provisions as detailed in the following tables are representative of a much larger segment of the labor force."

★ ★ ★

The survey also shows that 92.1 per cent of union agreements have no provision for maternity leave. But only 1.5 per cent of agreements have separate seniority units for women.

Weekend Storm Creates Work For Rescue Co-Ordinators

The Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Esquimalt handled 21 marine incidents over the weekend as winds gusting to 60 miles an hour hit the B.C. coast.

Most occurred in the area of Nanaimo, Vancouver and the Gulf Islands.

BOATS MOVED

The boat was found washed up on Gooch Island, east of Sidney Spit.

A centre official said most incidents were minor — boats running for shelter and being reported overdue, and others needing tows.

An emergency volunteer work party was called into action Saturday night at Cadboro Bay when the winds reached a peak of 51 miles an hour at 8:20 p.m.

Boats of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at outlying fingers were moved out of the brunt of the storm. Some were in danger of tangling their rigging in that of adjoining boats as they were tossed like corks.

The fury of the storm continued Sunday, accompanied by lashing rain. Blowing steadily at 40 miles an hour, peak gusts of 60 miles an hour were recorded at 3:40 p.m.

B.C. Hydro and B.C. Tel officials here reported only minor incidents. It was a different story on the Mainland, where massive power failures were caused by falling trees.

Today's sunny skies are expected to disappear tonight as another storm system moves in bringing cloud and keeping temperatures down to the low 60s.

Susan Eileen Matthews of Saanich is one of 25 B.C. students who received degrees from the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, at spring convocation May 13 and 14.

Miss Matthews received a bachelor of arts degree.

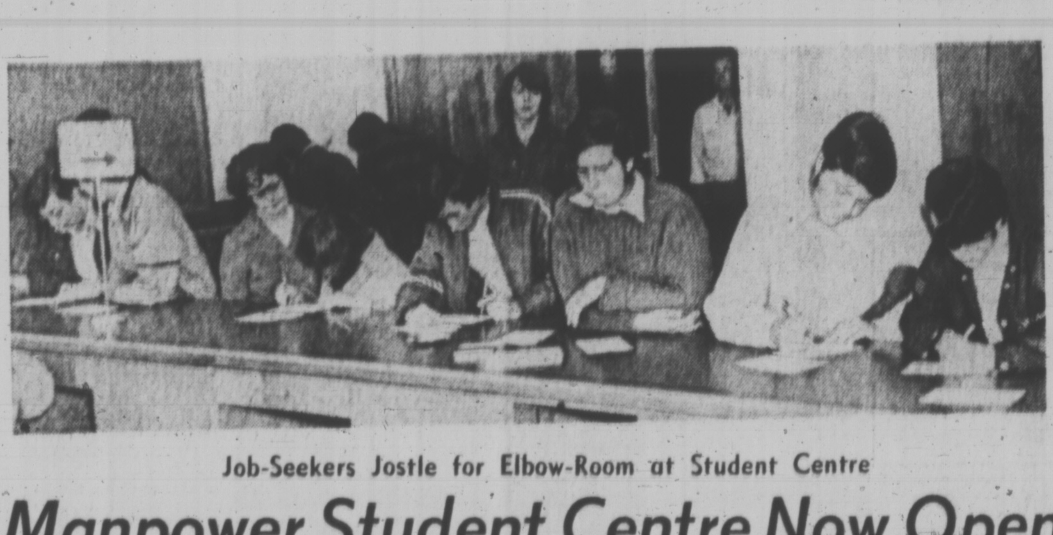
The university conferred 1,634 degrees, 150 to students from outside Saskatchewan.

REST HOME EVICTION MEET SET

Victoria and Vancouver officials of the B.C. Rest Home Association will meet Wednesday to consider the next moves in the threatened eviction of welfare patients.

John Hanrahan of Victoria, vice-president of the association, said government officials have known of the problem of payment for welfare cases since last June, "and will get no warning this time."

Victoria rest home operators decided last week to discharge welfare patients to general hospitals, in the dispute with the government over payments for these people. No date has been announced for the eviction.



Job-Seekers Jostle for Elbow-Room at Student Centre

Manpower Student Centre Now Open

The Canada Manpower student centre in the Belmont Building this morning was short on elbow room.

When the doors opened at 8:30 a.m. on the first formal day of application filling, over 25 students poured in and jammed the counters.

"The place is in a bit of a tumult," said Grant Price, one of two University of Victoria students on the Manpower staff. "It's going to take a couple of hours just to file these applications."

The job-seekers were mostly high school students trying to arrange jobs starting next month.

SMALL PORTION

However, they represent only a small portion of those seeking work — over 200 applications have already been filed by students who didn't want to wait until official opening day.

To deal with this kind of rush, Canada Manpower has on a national level been hiring university students for the past couple of summers to operate special centres. Not only does such a policy provide students with jobs, but the idea is that students are highly qualified to service their peers.

With this in mind Uvic students Rosemary Griffin, 18, and Price, 19, started work last Wednesday. In addition, two other Uvic students will join the staff June 1.

Their jobs include registering students and referring them to suitable job openings as well as canvassing businessmen to line up jobs.

Anyone with a job to offer, full or part-time, can help increase that elbow room by phoning the centre at 385-6711.

Police Pay Objective 'Impossible'

Ald. Percy Frampton, Victoria's finance chairman, said today a 16.4-per-cent pay increase for the police force would mean a deficit budget for the city.

Frampton said the increase Greater Victoria police are seeking this year is "out of this world" and "almost impossible" to meet.

"I can't understand their thinking," he said. Seeking parity with Vancouver police is a wrong principle, he added. "I feel police work in Vancouver is much more dangerous and always has been."

Frampton said if a check is made with any Victoria policeman, "you will find they live very, very well." Their children wear good shoes and the drive nice cars, he said.

Meanwhile, Greater Victoria mayors reacted cautiously to the Vancouver salary settlement, which is in a one-year contract. But they were more definite in commenting on local police unions seeking parity with Vancouver.

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said he thinks it will be "a long and troublesome negotiation" locally but he was reluctant to "negotiate through the news media."

He said it would be "unwise" for the chairman of any police commission to comment in detail until local police unions had submitted new proposals, following the Vancouver settlement.

★ ★ ★

Aksed if Saanich has enough money set aside to cover a 16.4 per cent settlement, he replied "I won't comment."

Victoria's civic budget, already established, includes provision for 7½ per cent increase in police payroll.

Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock said the city cannot afford to pay substantial increased costs. He called for "not overpay, not underpay, but fair pay."

On parity, he said "it's impossible to pay parity with Vancouver, New York or Los Angeles. I think our men realize that too."

Esquimalt Mayor Art Young said parity isn't realistic.

"People living in Victoria assume they work for less. The pace is a little slower, you live closer to work. There's probably not so much pressure," he said.

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford said "I feel wage negotiations should be discussed with the parties concerned before they are discussed with the media. This is a terribly ticklish situation."

The Vancouver settlement was made by arbitrator D. R. Blair, a former police commissioner.

★ ★ ★

Under his binding decision, a first-class constable (normally reached after three years as a policeman) will see his salary rise from $762 a month to $887 by July 1.

In a written summary, Blair said Vancouver city police are entitled to wages equal to those in Montreal, Toronto and other major Canadian cities.

Since 1966, he said, Vancouver police have dropped from first place to 12th in wage rates among police forces of major cities.

"In fact, in 1970, there were some 40-odd Canadian police forces whose members were receiving higher wages than those paid to Vancouver police," he said.

In Greater Victoria, where a first-class constable now earns $728 a month or $34 a month below the 1970 Vancouver rate, the local forces will be "pushing for the same increase and at the same time we'll be trying to close the gap," said Staff Sgt. Ted Owens, president of the Saanich Police Association.

★ ★ ★

"I know we are asking for a lot, but do you keep falling back?" he asked, adding that local police were once only $8 a month behind Vancouver.

He also said that police forces surrounding Vancouver are paid more than in Greater Victoria, as are the RCMP.

"I feel sorry for the old-age pensioner on a fixed income but we're not big enough to swing the cost-of-living," he said.

"I don't think the public is against paying the police close to parity, but certainly not to keep falling back."

He said local police would fall $75 to $80 a month or more behind Vancouver if they accept the 7½ per cent pattern of municipal wage increases in 1971.

SAANICH COUNCIL REPEATS HISTORY

Saanich council will hold an old-time meeting next week in the old Craiglower school house as part of the Victoria Days celebrations.

The nine-member council will arrive by carriage at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 25, to face some of the contentious early issues of Saanich council.

They include: A complaint of unsanitary farm premises, permitting animals to roam at large and several fence problems.

"We are also faced with a request for a school budget of $20,000 to $25,000, which of course is exorbitant," said Mayor Hugh Curtis.

He also said — tongue in cheek — that he is "very concerned" about the status of Ald. Edith Gunning, who is sitting on council before the franchise was extended to women.

But, of course, Curtis is masquerading as a mayor — they were called reeves then.

12-DAY TOUR UNDER WAY

Russia Welcomes Trudeaus

IN MOSCOW at the start of a state visit, Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife are welcomed by Soviet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin and a large crowd after their flight by Canadian Forces jetliner from Ottawa. The tour will last 12 days. (Tass photo released to AP)

Talks Tuesday With Kosygin

Times News Services

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union put out the welcome mat today for Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife Margaret.

The Trudeau party arrived in Moscow today for a 12-day visit to the Soviet Union, the first ever by a Canadian prime minister.

Pravda Puts Him on Front

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, published a picture of Trudeau on its front page this morning and said his visit will give "impetus to mutually beneficial trade, cultural and scientific exchanges between the two countries."

"Canada and the Soviet Union have no reported or unsolved problems between them," Pravda said. "At the same time, there is a range of questions on which it is possible to establish mutually advantageous co-operation . . ."

The arrival at the sundrenched airport was carried out with strict ceremony. There were no public welcoming speeches and the prime minister made no public statement.

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin met Trudeau and his pretty bride at the foot of the ramp of the Canadian Armed Forces Boeing 707. The Soviet premier escorted Trudeau to the waiting guard of honor. The guard commander goosestepped to Trudeau and declared the troops were ready for inspection.

Trudeau, with Kosygin at his side, inspected the three platoons of men.

Motorcycle Escort Provided

After the brief arrival ceremony, Trudeau, his party and the Soviet officials who greeted him got into Soviet limousines for a drive under motorcycle escort to the guest house in Lenin Hills.

Trudeau is expected to begin talks Tuesday with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and other top Soviet leaders. Thursday, he and his wife will set out on a six-city tour that will take them from sunny Central Asia to far northern Siberia.

Trudeau's talks with Kosygin are likely to include the European security conference, a pet project of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies, and also the war in Indochina.

Moscow has made it clear that Canada, a NATO member, would be welcome at a conference on European security.

Brezhnev Urges Arms Talks

Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev took a step toward such a conference Friday by urging negotiations on reducing forces and armaments in central Europe.

On Indochina, Canada has a special interest as a member of the three-nation International Control Commission set up by the 1954 Geneva conference. The Soviet Union and Britain were co-chairmen of the conference.

Trudeau left Ottawa's Uplands airport at 12:05 a.m. EDT today for his 12-day visit to the Soviet Union.

He told reporters he hopes to discuss NATO troop reductions with Soviet leaders.

He told reporters he also would discuss the problems experienced by Jews wishing to emigrate from Russia.

No mention has been made of a meeting between Trudeau and Communist Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev, the most powerful man in Russia, or even if Brezhnev will be in Russia at the time.

During his provincial tour, Trudeau is expected to place heavy emphasis on possibilities for co-operation in the far north, where both the Soviet Union and Canada have vast undeveloped territories.

Nixon Gaining In Troop Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration went into the opposition ranks for support, and got it from some former high government officials, in its bid to quash Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield's attempt to legislate a 50-per-cent cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe.

Clark McGregor, President Nixon's chief congressional lobbyist, said Sunday "We have no doubt we'll win" when the Senate votes Wednesday.

State Secretary William Rogers also predicted failure for the Mansfield amendment, which seeks to reduce the U.S. garrison in NATO countries to 150,000. Rogers denounced the proposal as potentially "disastrous to our foreign policy."

However, even though Mansfield's motion is unlikely to get past the House of Representatives, much less the president's desk, the White House obviously views the Senate vote as crucial.

Meanwhile, Nixon announced in Florida that former president Truman had joined the array of past Democratic government officials, including Lyndon B. Johnson, who have rallied ot his position.

Mansfield has refused to yield, although he acknowledged over the weekend "I am beginning to feel like the fellow who only has a sling shot."

Rogers also characterized the Mansfield plan as dangerous, adding that NATO forces now are about in balance with those of the Warsaw pact.

The secretary noted that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhev offered last Friday to begin talks with NATO countries over mutual reductions of armed forces.

Mansfield has urged that Nixon quickly accept Brezhnev's proposal and set a definite date for the talks, preferably in June.

TAX ORDER DEFIED

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Western Mobile Home Parks Association has refused to collect or remit taxes to the provincial government, imposed by the Mobile Home Park Fee Act.

Chuck Rogers, association president, said a telegram was sent today to Premier Bennett and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell informing them that association members across B.C. refuse to collect the taxes.

Lunokhod Losing Power

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Lunokhod, the eight-wheeled Russian moonbuggy which has trundled over the lunar Sea of Rains for the last six months, is beginning to lose its power, Pravda reported today.

It indicated the weird-shaped craft, which looks more like a mobile bathtub than the highly complex piece of machinery that it is, has continued working longer than its designers expected, the Communist party newspaper said.

Lunokhod, which has covered more than five miles across the barren soil and rock of the Sea of Rains, is controlled by a team of "drivers" in the space communications centre.

Arrests Hit 110

CAIRO (Reuter) — The authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that 110 persons have been arrested for their alleged involvement in a plot to overthrow President Anwar Sadat. (See background story on Page 36.)

They now are being questioned by the state prosecutor and, well informed sources said, will stand trial.

Last week Sadat announced the resignation of six ministers and several leading politicians and claimed he had foiled an attempted coup.

Sunday he sacked a seventh minister — Communications Minister Kamal Henei Badir—and appointed Abdel Malek Sadd to replace him.

President Sadat has agreed to become supreme head of Egypt's police force, it was announced today.

He already is chief of the armed forces.

Most U.S. Rails Halted By Striking Signalmen

LET ALLIES PAY is compromise offered by Democratic Senator Birch Bayh to the current row over withdrawing 150,000 U.S. troops from Europe. Bayh suggests that Canada and other NATO allies pick up $400 million in U.S. balance of payment costs in return for U.S. maintaining its troop strength there.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking signalmen closed most of the United States' vast railway system today. President Nixon promptly appealed to Congress to halt the walkout by extending until July the period for negotiations between rail management and the signalmen.

In a message to the Congress, made public at the Florida White House in Key Biscayne, Nixon said:

"A nationwide stoppage of rail service would cause great hardship to all Americans and strike a serious blow at the nation's economy. It is essential that our railroads continue to operate."

The president called on the Senate and House of Representatives to pass promptly a joint resolution that, technically, would have the effect of extending until July 1 the present contract between the rail industry and the signalmen.

Nixon said Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson would work during that period toward promoting a voluntary settlement. In the absence of a negotiated agreement, he called on Hodgson "to report to me and the Congress by June 21."

LIST PRIORITIES

Pending any congressional action to halt the rail strike, Nixon also signed an executive order listing priorities "as guidance and instructions to federal agencies, to shippers and to carriers" on what goods should be shipped first. These included foods, drugs and medical supplies, fuels needed for electric power production and some categories of mail.

Congress had made no special plans to handle the strike before it recessed for the weekend, and it was an open question how soon any legislation could be passed. It took a midnight session to put a stop to a nationwide walkout by four other unions last December. The walkout lasted only one day.

Today's strike by the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen is the fourth nationwide rail walkout in 50 years. Although the 13,000 signalmen represent only two per cent of all rail workers, other large unions appeared to be refusing to cross their picket lines as they spread across the country, starting at 6 a.m. in each time zone.

First to feel the strike were morning rail commuters in New York, Chicago and other large cities. New York's state-owned Long Island Rail Road was still running because it bargains locally, but all other commuter and intercity passenger trains were affected, along with freight service.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., where President Nixon was winding up a weekend sojourn, White House sources said Labor Secretary James Hodgson was preparing legislation to send to Congress, probably by the end of the day.

There were spotty reports of some trains operating despite the strike. Chicago's South Shore and South Bend Rail Road carrying 6,000 daily commuters in Chicago and Northern Indiana, was running because its signalmen belong to a different union.

Supervisory personnel were being used to move livestock and perishable items, some railways reported.

The strike came despite government efforts to mediate a settlement between the union and the National Rail-

60,000 SIGNATURES PROTEST TANKER PLAN

TORONTO (CP)—Two Vancouver women have collected more than 60,000 signatures on a petition urging federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis and the cabinet to oppose the proposed use of tankers to carry Alaskan oil off the British Columbia coast.

Alice Coppard, a 64-year-old grandmother, and Gwen Mellard, 53, said in an interview here Saturday an oil spill along the coast would be "catastrophic."

The two arrived here in the back of a pick-up truck, hitchhiking 2,200 miles in 12 days.

Prayer Procession Tries to Halt Lava

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuter) — The inhabitants of a small but prosperous village situated on the slopes of Mount Etna hastily completed plans today for a religious procession as a river of red hot lava crept relentlessly down toward their homes.

Higher up the slopes, 10 peasant huts were in more immediate danger from the lava flow which is engulfing everything in its way.

The 3,500 inhabitants of the village of St. Alfio plan a procession around the outskirts with relics of their saints.

S. Alfio could be hit some time Tuesday, but authorities were hoping the fiery river of destruction would stop short and said they had not yet drawn up evacuation plans.

Among the people of St. Alfio, the mood was grim. Knowing that the lava already has destroyed rich farming land, vineyards, orchards and more than a dozen houses, they were filled with fear—but there was no panic.

Almost half the population crammed into the church Sunday night to hear the local bishop, Msgr. Pasquale Bacile, say mass and preach a sermon of encouragement.

The planned procession is a repeat of a similar ceremony in 1928, when a lava flow also threatened the village.

On that occasion the lava just missed St. Alfio.

Firemen spent the weekend emptying water tanks in the path of the lava to cool it as more than 20,000 persons crowded in to get a close look.

Peasants living on Mount Etna were reported still selling their land at rock-bottom prices to speculators counting on government compensation.

BY GUNMEN IN TURKEY

Eichmann Prosecutor Kidnapped

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Five gunmen today ambushed and kidnapped Israeli consul-general Ephraim Elrom, who a decade ago directed the prosecution investigation of Nazi mass murderer Adolf Eichmann, army officials said.

They said the gunmen forced their way into Elrom's apartment house, tied up the hall porter and at least eight other persons.

* * *

The gunmen said they were members of the Turkish People's Liberation Army, but did not say why they were kidnapping Elrom.

When Elrom arrived for lunch, the gunmen, one of them posing as a porter, grabbed and tied up the diplomat. Elrom personally interrogated Eichmann before the SS lieutenant-colonel's 1961 trial in Israel for his part in the Second World War mass murder of millions of Jews.

Army officials said Elrom fought the gunmen and shouted for help for several minutes.

The gunmen managed to wrestle him into a waiting automobile bearing Ankara licence plates and the car sped away from the apartment house in the centre of Istanbul.

Jewish sources in Istanbul said Elrom was one of the Israeli agents who abducted Eichmann in Argentina.

In London, Israeli sources said Elrom, then named Hofsteter, ran the police investigation of Eichmann who was hanged after conviction.

Doctors 'Demoralized' Over Billing Charges

TORONTO (CP) — The chief of staff of a Toronto hospital says doctors are becoming "seriously demoralized" by accusations against them of unethical billing practices.

"No matter how hard doctors try to do their jobs or how well they do them, they are getting pushed into a corner about the money they make," said Dr. Gerald Blanchet of Queensway General in a weekend interview.

He was reacting to criticisms by Ontario Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence last week that the medical profession was inadequately controlling a minority of doctors who are collecting more than they should under the provincial health insurance scheme.

Said Dr. Blanchet:

"Let's take that great dramatic figure of $100,000 a year that so many doctors are supposed to be making. In the first place, only a surgeon working 70 gruelling hours a week could get close to that figure."

He said the average salary of a doctor in Ontario is about $25,000 a year.

Nurses Flee Fire In Nightclothes

LONDON (Reuter) — Forty nurses in nightclothes fled from a fire which swept their residential block at a London hospital early today, and one was injured when she jumped from a window.

The injured nurse leaped 30 feet from a smoke-filled room and suffered possible leg fractures.

Flowers of the World Right in Victoria

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

Albert de Mezey grows orchids (he calls them lady slippers) in his garden on Foul Bay Road. "They are the hardy varieties," he explains, "from the mountains in the Yukon, the Himalayas and from Japan. Given right conditions, they grow easily and they multiply here."

Right conditions mean right exposure, soil and habitat, and these Albert de Mezey will work hours and days to recreate, with the result that his orchids (or lady slippers) flourish and produce many blooms.

* * *

At our feet as we talked was a speciman of a ramshorn orchid. "They grow anywhere in Canada." Around us in pockets of soil on the rocks and nestled in the shelter of shrubs and plants were dainty mauve and white pleiones from the rocky cliffs of the Himalayas. Still to bloom this year are some from high places in Japan.

While de Mezey is proud of his orchids they are not his first love. It goes to the hybrid rhododendrons that with patience and care he has produced over the years (they are considered by experts to be far superior to many commercial hybrids) and to his collection of rock plants.

In his travels as an industrial consultant he has been as far away as the Greek Isles, Macedonia and Portugal and as near to home as the Siskayous in the western states. Many vacations have also being spent climbing in the mountains, especially the Olympics, looking for the rare and the beautiful in flowers and plants.

* * *

A rententive memory has allowed him to bring specimens to the Foul Bay place and to re-plant them in almost the exact surroundings from which they were taken.

An able assistant is his sister Mary. Together they form a team it would be hard to equal. They know every flower by name, both the common and the botanical. They can tell you how long it has taken each one to flower and to throw seed.

Right now they are enthusiastic over a rock plant Lewisia Tweedii — from the Wenatchees. It has candy-striped pink and white flowers and from two original specimens brought in several years ago, a whole row of seedings is now in bloom.

* * *

As far as the rhododendrons are concerned, the de Mezeys are considered to have the largest and best collection in Victoria and their hybrids have brought many professionals to the city to admire and hopefully, to buy.

Here the brother-and-sister team explain that in order to cross "rhodos" successfully, every seed not wanted must be individually picked off before they mature. There's a sticky fluid exuding from these seeds. "It's like glue," Mary said, "and sometimes even paint remover won't take it off your fingers."

The de Mezey family came to Victoria in 1946 and bought "Kildonan" the original Sutherland home on Foul Bay Road. In the first three or four years they did nothing but "scrape things down to the bare rock and bring in new soil." After that they were ready to landscape and to start their collections.

Today, the place draws garden lovers as individuals, as color camera buffs and in garden club groups. They find the rhododendrons at their best from February to the end of April with late varieties in bloom during this month of May. They also find such rare plants as Ramonda Natalia, a lovely pinkish-mauve flower from the Mediterranean "it's a cousin of the African violet."

* * *

They see genista and dwarf broom from the Greek Isles, clematis from the Montana mountains, creeping rhodendrons, rock campanulas and iris, pentstimmons, and of course, the orchids.

Right now they will also see Albert de Mezey's latest project. "It's a small pond with a creek flowing out of it and down to what will be a bog."

In that bog he already sees in his mind's eye, a collection of bog plants from distant places of the world.

Strip Show Costly

Other mistakes were the use of subordinates for private business and letting private bidders profit on army food supplies.
